Confidence high as the Magic Millions Gold Coast Yearling Sale gets under way

By Trevor Marshallsea

Australasia's yearling sale season kicks off on Tuesday at Magic Millions on the Gold Coast, with prominent vendors expecting a similar auction to last year's, with "satisfactory" outcomes despite expected softness at the lower end.

The 2025 Gold Coast sale returned numbers slightly down on the previous year, with buyers showing caution, particularly in the early stages. For Book 1, the average came in at $269,000, down from $276,000, with the clearance rate of 83.05 per cent down from 87.88 per cent.

That put many participants on guard for a difficult sale year, but while Karaka was also down on its previous year, those fears were largely allayed as later auctions progressed, with some observers linking the Gold Coast's results to buyer caution at the start of the season.

After inspections for this year's first sale continued at the Magic Millions complex over the past few days, two prominent vendors - Widden and Arrowfield studs - forecast similar outcomes to 2025, with neither a dip nor a boom expected.

"Inspections have been good," Widden owner Antony Thompson told ANZ News.

"There's been solid interest, and I'm expecting the sale to be quite similar to last year. Numbers are tracking on a very similar sort of trajectory, and interest has been quite similar to last year.

"At the start of Magic Millions last year, the sale was down a touch and that was something we were thinking might happen. But then when you look in hindsight, the rest of the sale season was pretty solid. Maybe it was the first sale of the year and people were a bit cautious, and then after that they kicked in and it was business as usual.

"I'm thinking this year, it's got the same feel as last year. There's similar sorts of players here and the same people, so at this stage I couldn't see any reason why it would be up or down on last year."

Widden has the largest draft (after withdrawals) at the sale with 62 lots, ahead of the 59 of Yulong, which originally had the most catalogued at 69. Despite its ten withdrawals, the Victorian farm has a far stronger presence at the Gold Coast this year than previously, having sold just 23 lots there last year. It's also been boosted by the presence of its owner Zhang Yuesheng, who was a notable absentee from the spring carnival while he remained in China.

Arrowfield has the third-largest draft at the Gold Coast, with 52 lots. Its bloodstock manager Jon Freyer concurred with Thompson, tipping a "solid enough" sale.

"I'm pretty confident it'll be satisfactory," Freyer said. "I'm not expecting it to be up, but if it hovers around what it was last year, that'll be a very good result.

"The inspections have been satisfactory, very much on par with last year.

"Probably by the end of today [Monday], our numbers will be on par with last year for a lot of horses, and probably slightly more for the balance than last year, so I think that bodes well.

"There seems to be enough enthusiasm around, notwithstanding a few little hiccups with bushfires et cetera. But there seems to be a reasonable amount of confidence about the place, so we're going into it reasonably optimistically."

Last year's sale was highlighted by its old record price of $2.7 million being broken twice.

First, Ciaron Maher paid $2.8m for Widden's colt by Snitzel (Redoute's Choice) out of Humma Humma (Denman), who's now known as The Next Episode, and debuted with an unplaced run in Rosehill's the Golden Gift (1100m) in November.

Then, Japanese trainer Mitsumasa Nakauchida went to $3.2m for Coolmore Stud's filly by first-season sire Continued on page 5

2026 Gold Coast Yearling Sale

Continued from page 3 Home Affairs (I Am Invincible) out of Sunlight (Zoustar). She's now known as Lia La La and is awaiting her first start.

Freyer was unsure whether this year's catalogue had the potential to hit such highs again, but said there were no doubts about its quality across the board.

The fact the catalogue is slightly condensed compared to last year could also help boost the sale's average, with 1,221 yearlings entered in total, down from 1,401 last January. That includes 980 lots in Book 1 - down from 1021 - with 241 in Book 2, compared to 380 in 2025.

"There's a good bunch of horses around, and it's a pretty good catalogue," Freyer said.

"Often the average is dragged up by a few horses at the very top of the market. Whether they're there this year is another thing to consider, but you've got some nice first season horses with stock coming through.

"And the Zoustars and the Snitzels, the I Am Invincibles - they continue to tick on pretty well, and they've got a lot of well-bred stock in the sale, so it should be pretty satisfactory."

Thompson and Freyer agreed strong yearling sales results in the second half of last year in Europe and the US were naturally more a positive than a negative for the Australian season, but that any connection was probably minor.

"The bloodstock market as a whole globally is pretty solid," Thompson said.

"There's reasons the American market has really kicked on with tax incentives and those sorts of things, and the European trade was very solid. But the northern hemisphere markets are more tied into each other than down here.

"But in saying that, I couldn't see any reason why we wouldn't have a good sale season down here."

Freyer said factors closer to home were more relevant to predictions on how the Magic Millions sale would unfold, and the Australian sale season in general. These included prizemoney, and the robust nature of the online tried horse market.

"Generally, when the world bloodstock market is strong, it remains strong everywhere, but they're completely different buying benches in September and October overseas to what we have here," Freyer said.

"But also, we've got better metrics for racehorse ownership here than over there.

"If you look at the race meeting on Saturday at the Gold Coast, there was a lot of prize-money distributed. It hammers home the point to people how much money is available racing horses here, and in particular Magic Millions horses, with all the bonuses that are attached to those.

"Whilst the overseas sales are something of a guide, they're not the be all and end all for us here. But the fact that online sales have been very strong throughout the past year here, it's an indication the horse economy is still pretty strong."

That increasing online market strength has, however, sparked concerns about the lower end of the market at the Gold Coast and beyond, as smaller trainers seek out tried horses, rather than buy yearlings.

Segenhoe Stud general manager Peter O'Brien last week told ANZ: "For smaller trainers with lesser animals, buying tried horses seems to be the way they're going, and that has to have some impact on those $200,000 or less horses."

Newgate Farm boss Henry Field concurred. While tipping a "strong" sale where "the top end will be off the charts", he forecast patches in the market, saying: "We'd be slightly nervous about horses under the $250,000 bracket."

Thompson said the online market had had an impact on the lower end at sales, but that "great stories" of bargain purchases still drew players into that theatre. He cited Unit Five (Supido), bought from Widden's Gold Coast draft last year by Ciaran Maher for $80,000, and who is now among the leading contenders for Saturday's $3m Magic Millions 2YO Classic (RL, 1200m).

"It's never easy selling if you're in the bottom quarter of the catalogue. Those horses are harder to shift and sell," Thompson told ANZ.

"You'll see it all year with the cheaper horses. A lot of those owners and trainers with those sorts of budgets are buying tried horses online, rather than coming to yearling sales and buying a yearling.

Continued from page 5 “But there’s still opportunities there and the sales companies work hard to get those buyers here. You obviously see some great stories every year. Unit Five is an $80,000 yearling who’s heading into the Magic Millions as a live chance, with a lot of excited owners.”

Magic Millions managing director Barry Bowditch agreed the sale looked on course to deliver similar results to last year, while remaining optimistic the smaller catalogue could help boost the average and clearance rate.

“You’d be hopeful you can increase our clearance rate and either hold or better our average. I suspect those indicators can give you the best opportunity to clear or to turn over something similar to what we had last year,” said Bowditch.

“We went out and we thought, we like to see our clearance rate maybe 85 per cent or above, and I think to give us the best opportunity to do so and sell as many horses for our vendors as possible, a catalogue near enough to, but not quite, 1000 was where we were aiming to be when we put it together.”

Bowditch said a “strong and diverse” buying bench had been lured from various states and overseas, particularly Asia.

“One thing we do think when we market our catalogue, whatever budget you’ve got there’s very few catalogues that facilitate as much quality at all budgets as this one does,” said Bowditch, who was buoyed by results from northern hemisphere yearling sales last year.

“Global confidence is paramount. When the industry’s in a good position globally, that’s a good thing.

“We have a lot of global players who participate here at the Magic Millions, or here in Australia in general, and confidence from other jurisdictions is vital.”

Bowditch said international visitors would also draw confidence in the local market from metrics on show in Saturday evening’s Gold Coast meeting which “put people in a great frame of mind leading up to the sale”.

“Viewership of our meeting on Saturday night on Channel 7 was huge, the wagering number was big, and attendance at the track was one of the best ever,” he said.

“The engagement the Magic Millions and the carnival is creating gives us reason to think that when you look at the global ecosystem and how sales have been, that we should be confident leading into it that the industry in Australia is in great shape.”

Among Arrowfield’s draft, highlights include Lot 372, a colt by the late Snitzel (Redoute’s Choice) who is a brother to stakes-winning three-year-old colt Beadman.

Lot 504 is a Snitzel filly out of Madam Andree (War Emblem) who’s a sister to recent Gosford Guineas (Listed, 1200m) winner Caffè Florian, and a half-sister to dual stakes winner and current sire Anders (Not A Single Doubt) and the black-type winning gelding Ostraka (Pariah).

“She’s a glorious filly, beautifully made, and everything Madam Andree throws, such as Anders and Ostraka, have all been talented and fast horses,” Freyer said.

Arrowfield’s Lot 212 is a filly second foal by Snitzel whose first two dams Delta Queen (Var) and River Jetez (Jet Master) were South African stakes winners, the latter scoring seven black type victories including a Group 1.

“We’ve also got a good selection of yearlings by Maurice and his [first-season] son Hitotsu, and some quality Dundeels, so we’re very happy with our draft,” Freyer said.

Widden’s highlights include Lot 781, a colt by the hotly anticipated first-season sire Anamoe (Street Cry) out of Secret Trail (Denman). She’s the stakes-winning dam of four-year-old Spywire (Trapeze Artist), winner of five races including, with exquisite timing, the $1m The Syndicate (1100m) at the Gold Coast on Saturday.

“He’s a clear stand-out. He looks like Anamoe,” said Thompson, adding interest in the first yearlings of Widden sire Jacquinot (Rubick) had also been strong.

Lot 120 is a colt by Jacquinot out of winning mare Bonheur (I Am Invincible), a member of the rich family of her Group 1-winning dam Bonaria (Redoute’s Choice) and her dam Decidity (Last Tycoon) which includes elite winners Joliestar (Zoustar) and Merchant Navy (Fastnet Rock), and many other stakes victors.

“This colt has been very popular and a lot of Jacquinot’s others have been popular,” Thompson said. “We’re getting a lot of really good comments about his first crop, which is really pleasing.”

Showtime on the Gold Coast as major players descend on Magic Millions

Magic Millions certainly know how to put on a show. Festivities during the Gold Coast Carnival range from a quiz night to a celebrity polo match, sportsmans' lunches, an exhibition gallop on the beach and a golf day.

And that's not to mention a feature race meeting with prize-money worth a colossal $13.25 million.

However, for the next few days this corner of Queensland will become the centre of the bloodstock universe as the more serious matter of the Gold Coast Yearling Sale gets under way.

Intermittent rain replaced blazing sun for the final day of inspections on Monday as a global gathering of major players conducted the crucial final steps in their due diligence.

The home team included the iconic Gai Waterhouse, who made her way between barns on her customary golf buggy, while the likes of Chris Waller and Ciaran Maher have also been busy working the beat in recent days.

A host of major investors were also in town, not least Zhang Yuesheng. The principal of Yulong Investments' growing empire had been a notable absentee from the Australian scene during the latter half of last year, but the Chinese billionaire quelled rumour about his whereabouts with his presence on the Gold Coast.

With 69 entries in the catalogue, his Yulong operation also presents one of the largest consignments at this year's sale.

Coolmore was another operation with a sizeable delegation on deck on Monday, and Tom Magnier credited Magic Millions co-owner Katie Page-Harvey with developing a spectacle that not only drives momentum for the sale, but the wider racing and bloodstock industry too.

"What Katie has created is phenomenal," said Magnier, whose son Charlie took part in the Magic Millions showjumping event on Sunday. "It's not just a horse sale, it's not just a race meeting, it's a carnival. They're getting people here from all over the world. Prize-money here in Australia is very good at the moment and racing is very healthy; you only have to look at the crowds of people going racing here all the time.

"Katie really has created a carnival that everybody wants to come to. This is on the front page of every paper during the week, you have families coming up here and that helps get the kids interested, it gets everybody involved. It's a great week."

At last year's event Magnier signed for five Gold Coast yearlings at an outlay of $6m, while the Coolmore draft also contained the sale's top lot, the Home Affairs (I Am Invincible) filly out of champion three-year-old Sunlight (Zoustar). Japanese trainer Mitsu Nakauchida secured the blue-blooded youngster on a bid of $3.2m.

Magnier is looking to get among the buyers during the four premier sessions of this year's sale, as well as overseeing around 40 yearlings in this year's Coolmore consignment, which is comprised predominantly of home sires' stock.

"We're selling a lot of horses this week," he said. "There's some lovely Justifys around the place, Home Affairs is starting to kick goals now too, and I was just talking to somebody there who was saying there's some nice first crop Best Of Bordeauxs around the complex.

"There's some nice horses around this week and our clients have supported us well and given us some nice ones to sell, so I hope they get rewarded. I think the market should be good across the board."

He added: "Obviously we have the colts fund that we set up and we've had a bit of luck there getting a couple of stallions into the barn in Home Affairs and Shinzo, Switzerland and Private Life, so that's going pretty well. Fair play to Magic Millions for getting all the people here. It's up to the rest of us now, we'll just need a bit of luck."

Magnier added that while there was plenty of action expected on the Gold Coast, his thoughts were also with those impacted by the bushfire crisis that has wrought havoc across Victoria.

“We have to be mindful that there’s a lot of people having a very tough time in Victoria at the moment,” he said. “They’ve had a very bad week, so we’re very conscious that while we’re all up here having a good time on the Gold Coast, we’re bearing them in mind. They’re going through a tough time but we’re all here to help anyone who needs it.”

A contingent of younger European agents have ventured to the southern hemisphere, including BBA Ireland’s Adam Potts, Fernando Laffon, Jamie Piggott and Sam Haggas.

A notable international presence also included a team from Japan’s Northern Farm, US agent Ramiro Restrepo, Frenchman Arthur Hoyeau and Magic Millions regular David Redvers.

“I think it’s one of the weeks of the year in the bloodstock world,” said Redvers. “There’s a great buzz and excitement around the whole thing and they put on a hell of a show. It has a festival feel to it all, which is brilliantly orchestrated by Katie [Page-Harvey] in particular, and there’s a great bunch of horses here too. You have the first opportunity to see the best of the Australian crop.

“Other sales companies could take a close look at how Magics look after their clients, particularly their internationals, who are most definitely made to feel that they’re very special and welcome. That’s part of why people come back year after year.”

Redvers stressed that it is not just the hospitality that makes Magic Millions so appealing, however, with the dynamics of the Australian bloodstock market presenting a particularly broad range of opportunities for those looking to invest.

“One of the things about the Australian market is that the vast majority of their good horses come to public auction,” he said. “For example, if you’re buying for a colts partnership in particular you know you’re not just looking at 40 per cent of the best horses in each year’s crop, you’re looking at 90 per cent. The opportunity is there and year after year, the best horses are coming out of these sales.

“These sales down here can feel a little bit like a futures market. If you see a horse that you really love back in Newmarket or Keeneland, you know you’re not going to have a chance of buying the majority of them. Whereas here, if you happen to align with a trainer, you can take ten per cent, which makes the whole thing feel much more vibrant and dynamic.”

As one of the more seasoned visitors, Redvers’ involvement now reaches across a range of different Australian bloodstock interests.

“I’ve been coming to this sale for the last 15 years,” he said. “We do a bit of pinhooking down here, we’re involved in the colts partnership with Qatar Racing and Ciaran Maher, and we’ve had some lovely fillies out of these sales with people like Rosemont as well. Widden is our major partner down here though and we’ve really enjoyed working with Antony [Thompson] and the team there.”

The international flavour is not confined to the prospective purchasers present at the sale.

The 1,221-lot catalogue features yearlings by blue-chip Australian stallions such as I Am Invincible (Invincible Spirit), Snitzel (Redoute’s Choice), Written Tycoon (Iglesia) and Zoustar (Northern Meteor), as well as the likes of international stars Baaeed (Sea The Stars), Blame (Arch), Kingman (Invincible Spirit), Lope De Vega (Shamardal), Night Of Thunder (Dubawi), No Nay Never (Scat Daddy) and Siyouni (Pivotal). There are also a dozen lots by Frankel (Galileo).

Selling begins on Tuesday at 11am local time.

Australia

Yellow Brick set for Cup back-up

Yellow Brick

MAGIC MILLIONS

While still chasing a Group 1, Yellow Brick (The Mission) has long secured star status for father-daughter training partners Tony Sears and Maddysen Sears. The six-year-old produced a stirring victory in the Magic Millions QTIS Open (1300m) under lights at the Gold Coast last Saturday despite carrying 61 kilograms, and will look to keep that momentum when lining up in the $2 million Magic Millions Cup (1400m) on Saturday. "I'm speechless really," Maddysen Sears said. "He's come through it super and you wouldn't even know he'd been around. He bounced onto the track this morning and hasn't missed a grain. We were a little bit worried about other horses carrying lighter weights, because light weights win races, but in his class he carried nine kilos more than the second and third horses. If the race was a little bit further, he probably would've put them away even further." Yellow Brick was purchased for $20,000 at the Gold Coast Yearling Sale in 2021 and has since returned $3.14 million in prize-money for his largely family-owned connections. On Saturday he bids for a tenth win in 28 starts under the guidance of Ethan Brown, who takes over from James McDonald.

Icarian Dream bids for Gold Coast redemption

Ciaran Maher is hoping history proves kinder the second time around as Icarian Dream (Blue Point) returns to the Gold Coast for Saturday's $3 million Magic Millions 3YO Guineas (RL, 1400m). The daughter of Blue Point (Shamardal) was one of the better fancied runners in last year's Magic Millions 2YO Classic (RL, 1200m) but her challenge unravelled from the outset after drawing wide and she eventually finished 12th as a $9 chance. Twelve months on, Maher is comfortable giving the filly another opportunity on the Gold Coast stage, confident she is back closer to her best after an interrupted preparation earlier in the season. "We were coming to the Gold Coast 2YO full of confidence until the barrier draw - I think we got 20-something," Maher said. "She's always had a lot of ability. Two starts ago [when third behind Sheza Alibi in the The Vanity (Gr 3, 1400m) at Flemington on Derby Day] she ran well and it was then we thought we'll aim up here at this race." Icarian Dream heads into the Guineas off consecutive third placings, most recently finishing a two-length third behind last Saturday's Magic Millions Sunlight Plate (1100m) winner Grafterburners (Graff) in the Gold Edition Plate (Listed, 1200m) at Eagle Farm on December 20. "I feel like her last run and the run prior were both full of merit and back to what we originally thought of her," Maher said. "I think she's going very well. She'll do a piece of work during the week and be right to go."

Magic Millions announce three-year partnership with Scone Race Club

As Magic Millions prepares to celebrate the 40th anniversary of its flagship Gold Coast Yearling Sale, it has announced a landmark long-term partnership with Scone Race Club. The collaboration, which sees Magic Millions become the Exclusive Thoroughbred Auction House Partner of the Club, includes the establishment of the Magic Millions Mounting Yard and a broader commitment to promoting breeding excellence from the Upper Hunter Valley. The agreement comes as Scone prepares to host the 80th running of the Scone Cup (Listed, 1600m). Magic Millions co-owner Katie Page said the partnership reflected a belief in investing at the source of the industry, and that Magic Millions would work alongside Scone Race Club to enhance the profile of the Scone Racing Carnival. Club chairman Alister Fraser welcomed Magic Millions as a natural addition to the club's partner base, which includes many of the Upper Hunter's leading stud farms. "Magic Millions brings a highly complementary offering, and this partnership supports our long-term focus on sustainability and growth," Fraser said. "With the Polytrack now operational and continued investment in the surrounding equine precinct, the future for Scone and the Upper Hunter is extremely positive." Magic Millions managing director Barry Bowditch said the alignment created a seamless connection between breeding, sales and racing: "This partnership strengthens the conception-to-sales-to-racecourse pipeline. It ensures the economic contribution of Magic Millions directly supports the farms, businesses and communities that underpin the industry."

Narredu eager for another Aussie stint

Suraj Narredu has already made a powerful start to 2026 and the record-breaking Indian jockey has his sights firmly set on a return to Australian racing. The most successful rider in Indian racing history, Narredu began the year with a six-from-six clean sweep on New Year's Day in Kolkata before reaching another milestone on Friday, steering home the 2500th winner of his career - a tally unmatched by any jockey from his country. Narredu remains eager to resume riding in Australia, provided he can secure the level of support needed to justify stepping away from his family's substantial training operation in India. He completed a short but eye-catching stint in Australia in 2023, beginning in Victoria where he rode winners at Kilmore, Cranbourne and Donald before heading north. In New South Wales, he struck quickly with three winners across two Newcastle meetings for Anthony Cummings. "It was a great experience, I'll never forget it," Narredu told Racing.com.

Lindsay Park close to resuming work after devastating fires

Lindsay Park is close to resuming full training operations at Euroa just days after the Longwood bushfire tore through vast areas of the property.

While the blaze burned all but the small irrigated section of the farm and sadly claimed the lives of seven horses, the Hayes family issued an encouraging update on Monday.

"We continue to work steadily towards restoring normal trackwork and training, and we are very close," the family said in a statement.

"As our major training infrastructure is located within irrigated areas, horses have been able to safely complete slow work, and those currently in training with us will return to full, normal training over the coming days."

Attention has now turned to the longer-term management of horses displaced by the fire. Ben, Will and JD Hayes confirmed the 105 spelling horses and 23 retirees currently housed at Inglis' Oaklands facility will begin relocating to Dorrington Farm (now known as Nook Farm) at Nagambie via commercial transport.

The arrangement is expected to remain in place until mid-February, when the family aims to have their unaffected Collingrove property near Creighton's Creek fully operational.

Due to extensive fencing losses at Euroa, the family also issued an appeal for homes for the 23 retired horses.

"Lindsay Park is an acknowledged Off The Track retrainer and many of these horses were in line for our retraining program," the statement said. "But due to our current situation, they now need to be rehomed as is."

Hall of Fame trainer David Hayes, who flew back from Hong Kong to help defend the property, described the ordeal as the worst he has experienced, eclipsing the 2014 Euroa fires.

"It was as bad as you could imagine," Hayes said after returning to Sha Tin on Sunday. "There was only [wife] Prue and I and the twins [Will and JD] on the property with two wonderful maintenance men who wouldn't leave. Thank God they were there because the pipes would melt and then all of a sudden, water was shooting in the air, not getting to the stable.

"We were putting out spot fires for days. Then with all the fencing gone, spelling horses were loose. Catching horses in the dark during a firestorm was harrowing."

Despite the devastation, Hayes expressed deep gratitude for the industry support that followed.

"Once the road opened, Troy Corstens had organized a flotilla of volunteers, who came in and were able to get the horses to Inglis, who were so kind to let us get all the spelling horses there," he said. "They literally got them there in two hours."

“It was probably one of the best memories of my life. The first month was hard, but after that I was riding nearly every day. Had I stayed longer, it would have been much easier because people like to see long-term commitment.” Last August Narredu captained Team Asia to victory in the Shergar Cup at Ascot, producing a bold front-running ride aboard Fireblade (Frankel) to win the Stayers’ race and earning Ride of the Day honours. “To represent your country on a global stage like that and then to win – nothing can be better,” he said. “The whole of India was watching. The messages I received afterwards were unbelievable, not just about the win but about the ride itself.”

Tribeca poised to Star for Dunn on Ballina Cup day

The in-form Matthew Dunn stable is poised to make a strong impact at Friday’s Ballina Cup Day, with the Murwillumbah trainer sending a multi-pronged team less than an hour up the road. Dunn’s operation has been in scintillating form, producing 14 winners from its past 46 runners at a strike rate touching 30 per cent, and he will saddle one of the key chances in the $65,000 Ballina Cup (1590m) – which offers Big Dance (1600m) eligibility – in Tribeca Star (Star Turn). A winner of over $430,000, Tribeca Star has not raced at Ballina but has trialled twice around the circuit and brings proven country credentials as a Country Championships (1400m) winner at Lismore. He steps up to 1590 metres for the first time after two solid runs back from a four-month break, most recently closing for third behind Chief Witness (Star Witness) at Eagle Farm. “He’s come back well and the tighter track will suit,” Dunn told Racing NSW. “It’s his first go beyond 1410 metres, but it’s not a big jump and he’s in great shape. He’s got a sharp 200-metre sprint, so timing is key.” The stable will also be represented by The Torque Xpress (Toronado) in the Class 2 Handicap (1400m), who boasts two wins and a second from four starts, while former Victorian-trained gelding Tophet (Hellbent) will have his first run for the stable in the Country Boosted Class 1 (1000m) after two encouraging trials. Royal Commodore (Sooboog) also makes his debut for Dunn in the Benchmark 82 (1000m).

Savaglee camp contemplating first-up targets

Connections of last season’s outstanding

three-year-old Savaglee (Savabeel) face an important decision in the coming days after the Group 1 winner pleased in his 1100-metre trial at Ellerslie on Sunday. The Oaks Stud-raced four-year-old finished third under a tight hold, leaving trainer Pam Gerard satisfied with where the entire sits ahead of his return. “I was really happy,” Gerard said. “He never asked for anything, it was just a nice day out. He was a bit fresh and wanted to get on with it, but the time was good and his action was good. He’s never been 100 per cent comfortable going the Ellerslie way, so that’s nothing new. He pulled up well and we’re happy with where he’s at.” Savaglee has two potential first-up options: next Saturday’s Sistema Railway (Gr 1, 1200m) on Karaka Millions night and the BCD Group Sprint (Gr 1, 1400m) at Te Rapa two weeks later. “There aren’t a lot of choices,” Gerard said. “It’s either the Railway or miss that and go straight to the BCD Sprint. The trial was only yesterday, but he’s come through it well and improved off it. He’s right on the mark if we decide the Railway is the right race.” Savaglee was runner-up in last year’s Australian Guineas (Gr 1, 1600m) and Gerard said a return to Australia remains the longer-term aim. “Realistically he needs a run here first,” she said. “What he does in New Zealand is important, but the main objective is to get an elite-level result in Australia to enhance his stallion value.”

Almanzor Trophy looms for King’s English

A return to Ellerslie on Karaka Millions night looms for promising three-year-old King’s English (Snitzel) after he delivered a strong first-up victory at the Auckland track on Sunday. The Mark Walker and Sam Bergerson-trained colt placed at his first two starts before breaking through for a maiden win at Te Aroha in November. Freshened since, he resumed in the Elsdon Park 1200 (1200m) and was solidly supported into $2.50. Ridden by Craig Grylls, King’s English settled midfield on the rail and turning for home faced a wall of runners, but Grylls angled wider and the colt responded with a sharp late burst to claim a narrow victory over Confesara (Toronado). “I hoped to be a bit handier, but he just didn’t hit the ground running,” Grylls said. “The way he jumped out of the ground late once he got a gap was pretty exciting. I think the penny is only starting to drop now, he’s got plenty of ability.” Bergerson confirmed the Almanzor Trophy (Gr 3, 1200m) on Karaka Millions night is the likely next step for the son of dual Group 1-winning mare English (Encosta De Lago). “He ended up in a tricky spot, but he quickened when he needed to," Bergerson said. "It was a really patient ride and he's in fantastic form. He's taken a bit of time but he's putting it all together now. The Almanzor Trophy looks the logical option as long as he pulls up well. You'd have to think he's a strong chance."

Tulsa King keeps Derby dream alive

Trainer Aaron Bidlake has never worried about Tulsa King's (Staphanos) lack of size and the Hastings horseman was again rewarded for that when the gelding ran a brave second in Sunday's Gingernuts Salver (Listed, 2100m) at Ellerslie. The son of Staphanos (Deep Impact) cost just $1,500 from Gavelhouse and produced another strong staying performance to remain firmly on track for a shot at the New Zealand Derby (Gr 1, 2400m) in March. Having already shown his credentials this preparation with a win and a placing, including a runner-up finish in the Wellington Stakes (Gr 3, 1400m), Bidlake was delighted with how the gelding measured up against quality opposition over ground. "He's tiny and that probably put a lot of people off when he went through Gavelhouse," Bidlake said. "But I'm not worried about small horses. I won a Grand National with Eric The Viking and he wasn't a big horse either. He went super on Sunday and Sam Collett gave him a fantastic ride. They got held up a little in the straight, but for a horse she'd never ridden before, she rode him beautifully along the fence." The family-owned three-year-old will take a slightly different Derby path to some of his rivals. "He's only about 400 kilos, so I don't want to be carting him all over the country in the heat," Bidlake said. "We'll keep him closer to home and run him in the Wairoa Cup [2100m] at Waipukurau, then it's on to the Derby. He goes to sleep in his races and everything about him suggests the further he goes, the better he'll be."

HK: Hayes steadies Ka Ying Rising path as sprint crown defence looms

Ka Ying Rising

HKJC

After a confronting return to Euroa to help battle the Longwood bushfire at his family's property, the sight of superstar sprinter Ka Ying Rising (Shamexpress) back on the track was a welcome one for David Hayes on Monday. The world's highest-rated sprinter stretched out in a light gallop at Sha Tin as he builds towards his first start of 2026 in the Centenary Sprint Cup (Gr 1, 1200m) on January 25. While Hayes concedes the gelding has the lung capacity to develop into a top-class miler, there is no temptation to deviate from the sprinting program that has delivered an extraordinary winning sequence. "He blew the smoke away today, it was very nice," Hayes told Racing.com. "He had a little easy gallop... he's trialling on Thursday. It's hard to say he's improving, but he certainly hasn't gone backwards." Victory in the Centenary Sprint Cup would see Ka Ying Rising draw level with Hong Kong legend Silent Witness (El Moxie) on a 17-race winning streak, further cementing his place among the jurisdiction's greats. Following that assignment, the five-year-old is set to step up in trip for the Queen's Silver Jubilee Cup (Gr 1, 1400m), a distance Hayes believes will hold no fears. "He'll be very impressive over 1400 metres," he said. Ka Ying Rising is expected to follow a near-identical campaign to last season. He is already a $1.85 favourite with Sportsbet to defend his crown in The Everest (Gr 1, 1200m) at Randwick in October. "He's in a good place," Hayes said. "We know what works with him, and there's no reason to change it."

IRE: Mullins eyes Melbourne Cup bid with Sober

Sober

RACING POST

The 2026 Melbourne Cup (Gr 1, 3200m) has emerged as a genuine long-range target for the Willie Mullins-trained Sober (Camelot) following his dominant victory in a Grade 2 novice hurdle in Ireland on Sunday. Owned by Australian powerhouse OTI Racing, the seven-year-old was resuming from a 204-day break following his five-length demolition of the Queen Alexandra Stakes (2m 5.5f) at Royal Ascot and powered clear to win the contest by five and a half lengths. The manner of sustained acceleration reinforced the Camelot (Montjeu) gelding's profile as a horse capable of excelling beyond the jumps sphere. Assistant trainer David Casey acknowledged that the Melbourne Cup is already being discussed behind the scenes. "Given his owners, you'd always be thinking about November," he said. "He's got the class, he stays well and he quickens - those are things you can't teach."

Kiwi Chronicles

Outside the square

The sole New Zealand stakes race last weekend took place at Ellerslie, the last meeting at the track before the big Karaka Millions night, set for January 24. Named after former New Zealand Derby (Gr 1, 2400m) winner Gingernuts (Iffraaj), the Gingernuts Salver (Listed, 2100m) provides a preview of Derby aspirants as it is not only run over a fairly testing 2100 metres but also staged at the same track.

Sunday's Good 4 surface also meant a fair contest with the winner emerging from an unlikely preparation. Thinking outside the square, trainer Stephen Marsh backed up Ammirati (Savabeel) eight days after running fifth, beaten three lengths (fifth), in Trentham's Levin Classic (Gr 2, 1400m).

Ammirati's last run prior to Trentham was over 1600 metres, at Otaki in the Wellington Stakes (Gr 1, 1600m), a race he was handed when leader Road To Paris (Circus Maximus) dumped his rider strides from the line. Ammirati was severely hampered but managed to hold on by the barest of margins, the win achieved by pure good fortune.

The Levin Classic is 200 metres shorter than the Wellington Stakes and Ammirati was seen putting in his best work late which set up Marsh's plan to back up for the 700-metre further Salver.

Although bold, the plan succeeded. Ammirati sat third past the 600 metres then moved out a lane entering the home straight. Rider Matt Cartwright was patient and waited until the 300 metres to level up. At the 200 metres they led but the connections would have been rapt to see the gelding lower his head and stretch out approaching the line, exactly what you'd like to see aiming for the Derby.

Ammirati

RACE IMAGES

In eight starts Ammirati has three wins for earnings of $140,805, so, some way to go to recoup the $450,000 outlaid at the 2024 NZB Karaka Yearling Sale. He is the only winner from Happily (Pins), a three-quarter sister to Anniversary Handicap (Listed, 1600m) winner Glad (Pins). Happily's half-brother, Listed two-year-old stakes winner Exuberant (Savabeel) and Ammirati are three-quarter brothers.

Happily's granddam McHappy (Rory's Jester) ranks as a half-sister to Scandinavia (Snippets), the granddam of unbeaten champion Black Caviar (Bel Esprit). Ammirati was bred by Waikato Stud who will offer his brother (Lot 467) later this month at the 100th NZB National Yearling Sale.

Marsh Stable representative Dylan Johnson stated that Ammirati will now head towards either the Waikato Guineas (Gr 2, 2000m) or the Avondale Guineas (Gr 2, 2100m) in between now and the March 7 Classic. Johnson didn't rule out racing in both Guineas as they are two weeks apart.

Black-type bound

A quiet weekend regarding stakes racing provides an opportunity to reflect on two runners which made substantial impressions during the holiday period. Sweynesday (Sweynesse) and Afternoon Siesta (Shamus Award) are clearly bound for bigger and brighter things judging from their recent form and their race records to date.

The final race of Ellerslie's two-day carnival saw Sweynesday put away a useful field in the open class Skycity 1200 (1200m), taking his record to five wins and three second placings in his eight career starts.

This was Sweynesday's first attempt in open class and despite a wide draw and fair degree of greenness in the home straight, he is destined for black-type success. The slow 6 surface meant that the 1200-metre was run in a leisurely 1:11.47 but he is just as effective on top of the ground, having recorded a shade under 1:10 when taking out his third win which was at Te Rapa in December 2024.

The five-year-old has been patiently handled by trainers Roger James and Robert Wellwood and was not tried at two, breaking his maiden at his second of two starts at three. At four he faced the starter just four times for two wins and this season is unbeaten in two races. His winning margins are not large but he knows where the line is.

In both starts this preparation Sweynesday has caught the attention of the stipes. During the concluding stages of his Benchmark 75 win at Eilerslie on November 29 he bumped another runner at the 50-metre mark. The same wayward tendencies were apparent in his most recent win, this time throughout the home straight. On the plus side, when he is balanced he shows very good acceleration as well as determination. When he learns to gallop straight he will only add to his already promising record.

A graduate of the 2022 NZB Ready to Run sale fetching $80,000, he is one of five winners from the three-time winner Keep Thinking (Faltaat) whose brother Faaltless (Faltaat) was twice a Listed winner in Singapore. His granddam, Riccarton winner Circus Dance (Carnegie), ranks as a half-sister to International star and ten-times Group 1 winner So You Think (High Chaparral). Sweynesday was co-bred by Windsor Park Stud's Mike Moran who also bred his sire.

The last on the card at Trentham a week ago resulted in another performance which had patrons buzzing when Afternoon Siesta demolished a Benchmark 75 over 1400-metre, careering away by five lengths with plenty in hand.

Like Sweynesday, Afternoon Siesta is a lightly raced five-year-old, her most recent win just her fourth start and her third successive win. She didn't see a raceday until she was four which involved two starts, breaking her maiden at the second time of asking, bolting clear to win by a huge margin. This season she was impressive when scoring at Tauherenikau by more than three lengths but her Trentham win was another level. Stakes company should be well within her scope.

Her owner Graham Stewart found the mare at Wm Inglis's digital on-line sale in July 2023, outlaying a mere $4,000 for the daughter of Shamus Award (Snitzel), then an unraced 3YO filly. Her dam, Princess Snooze (Hard Spun) was sold at the same sale for just $700.

Princess Snooze is the only foal of Sooze (Archway) a Melbourne winner who was twice Listed placed. Sooze ranks as a three-quarter sister to Roman Arch (Archway) whose 17 wins included the Australian Cup (Gr 1, 2000m) and the Toorak Handicap (Gr 1, 1600m). Sooze's great granddam is a three-quarter sister to the flying Luskin Star (Kaoru Star).

Numbers don't lie

As we are on the cusp of the 100th National Yearling Sale it might be interesting to compare stats from 40 years ago when Wrightson Bloodstock held their Diamond Jubilee or 60th National Yearling Sale at Trentham, the second to last sale staged there.

The foal crop of 1,984 totalled more than 5,400. The most recent stud book stats reveal that the total foals born in 2024 was half that of 1,984.

The Diamond Jubilee catalogue featured eight New Zealand-based first season sires, two of which turned out to be successful, namely Grosvenor (Sir Tristram) and Prince Echo (Crowned Prince). For the Centenary Sale there is just one New Zealand-based first season sire, Windsor Park Stud's Profondo (Deep Impact). Numbers don't lie.

Perhaps one advantage of fewer stallions is less competition meaning they can attract and cover more mares. In the case of Profondo, in 2023 he covered 177 mares resulting in 115 live foals, 62 of which have found their way into NZB's 100th National Yearling Sale including 37 in Book 1. Only Rich Hill Stud's Satono Aladdin (Deep Impact) and Proisir (Choisir) have a greater representation with 68 and 63 lots respectively.

Profondo topped the Magic Millions Yearling Sale in 2020, fetching $1.9 million and took out the Rosehill Guineas (Gr 1, 2000m) at just his third start. Although he lost form at four he was, due to his good looks and first-rate pedigree, much sought after as a potential stallion.

By multiple champion sire Deep Impact (Sunday Silence), Profondo also represents the female family which produced US Horse of the Year and Champion US Sire AP Indy (Seattle Slew) whose three-quarter sister Almond Essence (Seattle Slew) is Profondo's great granddam.

AP Indy raced just 11 times for eight wins which included the Belmont Stakes (Gr 1, 12f) and, courtesy of an epoxy-built hoof, the Breeders' Cup Classic (Gr 1, 10f). His half-brother, Summer Squall (Storm Cat) was similarly talented, landing 13 wins including the Preakness Stakes (Gr 1, 9.5f). Interestingly, both AP Indy and Summer Squall were ridglings.

Sweynesday

RACE IMAGES

Of the large selection of Profundos on offer at Karaka last this month, three caught the writer's attention. Lot 139, from the Carlaw Park draft, is the half-sister to Thorndon Mile (Gr 1, 1600m) winner Stolen Dance (Alamosa). Stolen Dance also scored the Cal Isuzu Stakes (Gr 2, 1600m) among ten wins and placed at Group 1 level on three occasions. The family has been represented recently by Hawkes Bay Guineas (Gr 2, 1400m) Magic Carpet (Satono Aladdin). Plenty of residual value here.

Leanach Lodge will offer Lot 307, a colt from Bellaconte (Burgundy), his dam's second foal. Bellaconte's four wins included the Gold Trail Stakes (Gr 3, 1200m) as well as a Listed race at Wanganui, so she could run. He is from a nice back family containing Horse of the Year Probabeel (Savabeel) as well as champion three-year-old Savvy Coup (Savabeel).

Another filly with plenty of residual value is Lot 323, offered by Beaufort Downs. The filly is from a Makfi (Dubawi) half-sister to dual Group 1 winner Lizzie L'Amour (Zabeel). Apart from the New Zealand Stakes (Gr 1, 2000m) and the Herbie Dyke Stakes (Gr 1, 2000m), Lizzie L'Amour also recorded three Group 1 placings. Granddam Sabia (Sadler's Wells) is a sister to European dual Group 1 winner Saddex (Sadler's Wells). Successful sire Spinning World (Nureyev) also features in the family.

Profondo

WINDSOR PARK STUD
