'I thought the sale was sensational' – Leading industry figures provide glowing reports on Magic Millions

By Trevor Marshallsea

A “steady to strong” forecast for the rest of the Australian yearling sale season according to a range of industry figures, based on the results of Magic Millions Gold Coast.

Book 1 of the first sale of the year was hailed as an emphatic success by Magic Millions managing director Barry Bowditch. The sale’s average of $270,468 was up by around $1000 on 2025 - fulfilling some vendors’ projections of a similar sale to 12 months ago.

The clearance rate of 87.35 per cent - up from 83.05 per cent a year earlier - was what had several observers particularly impressed, leading to mostly upbeat projections for the sale season ahead.

Bowditch noted 45 buyers had spent $1 million or more, which “shows there’s a great thirst for yearlings in Australia”.

With the catalogue streamlined this year, Magic Millions was also buoyant over a Book 1 gross of $204 million through 753 lots sold, close to 2025’s figure of $207 million from 16 more yearlings.

Incognito nearing return in Canonbury

The $1 million Magic Millions Gold Coast Yearling Sale purchase bypassed the $3 million feature in favour of a second trial last Thursday as Freedman keeps his focus firmly on the March 21 Golden Slipper.

Continued from page 1 Book 2 was markedly up, with an average of $51,466 over $44,198, and a clearance rate which on Monday - a day after the auction ended - stood at 84.04 per cent, up from 73.29 per cent year on year.

Furthermore, Book 2 had grossed $9.2 million from 179 sold lots, compared to $10.9 million from 247 sold lots in 2025, confirming most judges' views that the bottom end of the market was the scene of robust trade.

That has spurred widespread expectations of pleasing results for vendors at Inglis's two lower-end sales - Classic and Premier.

And industry figures canvassed by ANZ are also tipping a bumper outcome at Inglis's marquee Easter sale.

That assertion is based on the middle market having been strong at the Gold Coast, and the fact that only 15 lots reached seven figures there - down from 22 in 2025 - suggests a relatively large number of elite yearlings have been saved for Easter. Three lots sold for more at the Gold Coast in 2025 than last week's peak price of $2 million.

"I thought the sale was sensational," said Peter O'Brien, general manager of Segenhoe Stud, the sale's fourth largest vendor by aggregate, and third-highest by average. "The clearance rate was great, and overall the sale was buoyant all the way through.

"I was always confident about the top end of the market going in. All the main players were there and that was very strong.

"The middle market held its own. But the biggest surprise for me was the bottom of the market was stronger than expected. I thought the lower end of the market would be very difficult, and that the clearance rate would drop from last year.

"So that part really surprised me, and it's very encouraging leading into the likes of Classic and Premier."

He added: "Overall it's very encouraging for the rest of the year.

"I think Easter will be very strong. That's middle to top end, and that very much held its own at Magics. Continued on page 4

Continued from page 2 “And then you see the number of million-dollar horses was down, but that’s a measure of farms supporting Easter - spreading those top quality yearlings out more.

“Easter will probably have more quality than Magics at the very top end. Easter was a very strong sale last year, and so a lot of the farms will have held back some top end horses for easter.”

Forecasts of a robust sale season were echoed by Henry Field, managing director of Newgate Farm, which was third on the vendors’ grossing list at the Gold Coast.

“It was a very good sale, with very good execution by Barry Bowditch and his team once again,” Field said.

“There was particularly good strength in the middle market, which I probably didn’t expect was going to be so strong, and the lower end horses exceeded our expectations. The clearance rate shows there was a very good market for horses across the board.

“I expect the rest of the sale season will be strong. Such a strong appetite for stock on the Gold Coast suggests the rest of the season should be good, plus there’s a lot of people who still have orders to fill.

“A number of different buyers made comment they still hadn’t filled their orders. That, combined with the Gold Coast clearance rate, says there’s plenty more money in the market.”

Prominent bloodstock agent and breeder Sheamus Mills took a slightly more measured approach. Just as the Magics’ Book 1 average was on par with last year’s, he said the sale reflected the wider Australian economy’s stable, unspectacular atmosphere, and tipped this would continue as the yearling sale season evolved.

“I think it was steady as she goes, which is what I was expecting” Mills said.

“We are reflective of the wider economy, and I don’t think there were any dramatic shifts in the wider economy, and that was probably always going to be the case as far as our own bubble inside that goes.”

Unlike the boom year of 2022 when buyers were cash-rich after spending curbs during Covid, Mills said the market was currently characterised by far more middle ground.

“I don’t think anyone feels rich and no one feels poor,” he said. “As far as I can tell from my own clients’ interest, there’s still a level of hesitation as to where the economy sits. And investment inside the industry is still at a cautious level.

“I think the rest of the season will be pretty much the same. I don’t think there’s any dramatic shift due any time soon.

“My guess, and my feeling from my own clients’ interests, is they’re happy to play to a level, but I don’t see any massive new investment”

Mills, like others, noted no major new buyers had emerged at the Gold Coast, like American John Stewart had done in recent years, and said none were likely in the remainder of the season.

He also added that some years of stability in the market would “not be the worst thing in the world”.

“That insatiable desire for record, record, every year - I think it’s a double-edged sword in that it does as much harm as good,” he said.

“We did reach a place where a lot of people were saying yearling prices were out of control. I take a slightly different view - the cost of production prices are the issue, not the yearling sale prices.

"The whole cost of getting a yearling to a sale has risen, not only in service fees but associated costs - monthly bills, from stud farms or trainers. They keep going up.

"A few years of steady as she goes might settle the market a bit. In terms of confidence from both sides, steady results are not a bad thing at all. From an investor's point of view, if they can just make a rational assessment on whether it is possible to make money in the game, to be a breeder and make it viable - and I'm talking about people who don't own stallions - I think that's good.

"The constant advertisement of record this and record that, I don't think it does a lot of good for the industry."

Mills, who felt the competition in the market at the Gold Coast from the fact he bought four yearlings of a hoped-for seven, said the "hugely important" clearance rate was "the most pleasing aspect of the sale", and was aided by vendors setting more realistic reserves this year.

"A total of 11 vendors sold million-dollar yearlings, but I would say, 'Who cares?' I understand why that makes news, but I would say things like clearance rates are a much more important factor," he said.

Waterhouse-Bott were the busiest buying stable at the Gold Coast, purchasing 17 lots with Kestrel Thoroughbreds for a combined $7.03 million.

Despite their haul, Adrian Bott said his team missed out on several "due to the strength of the market", which was a sign the rest of the sale season would also be upbeat.

"I usually think the Gold Coast does set the tone for the rest of the year," Bott said. "So I'd expect that to hold up all the way through, and that the market will be strong. I certainly can't see it going backwards.

"And I don't think remaining at the same average as last year is necessarily a sign that things have softened. I think the last few years have been particularly strong, and I think that's still the case.

"The market seemed very healthy at Magics. We had to be strong on the right horses and we were selective with what we were able to buy. With the horses we were on, there seemed to be a lot of competition, at all different levels."

Bloodstock agent James Harron - who was involved in the buying of nine colts and three fillies - was another forecasting positive results for the rest of the sale season, robust enough at least to keep parity with 2025.

Applying his own reliable metric - "how long it took to queue up to get lunch" - Harron said the Gold Coast benefitted from "a lot of engagement", which he expected to continue through the sale season.

"From the first lot to the very end, the whole place was full. It might have been a record attendance," said Harron, adding that scheduling the post-festive season auction a week later than last year will have "helped more people get organised to get there".

"The sale was fantastic - very buoyant. I was pleasantly surprised with how well the market held up across the board right through Book 2.

"It felt like a very fair market. If there was going to be a weak spot in the market it would have been Book 2, but by all the metrics that was very successful.

"It sets the tone for the whole season, and I think it's a great indication of a good year to come. I think it will probably be holding its own on last year.

"The top end we'll see right through the year being very strong. Easter is setting itself up to be really, really strong on those big lots. But if we can see that low-to-mid level continue as it was this week, that'll be really important, particularly for Classic and Premier."

Syndicators were also busy at the Gold Coast, with Star Thoroughbreds the most active in securing 11 lots for $2.94 million, the fifth-largest buyer overall.

"It was a typical Magic Millions sale," said Star boss Denise Martin. "There was lots of quality, and lots of interested participants, and a lot of people attending for the first time.

"It felt very similar to last year, and I'd say the rest of the year will be very similar to Magic Millions."

Triple Crown Syndications, who bought nine yearlings, expects a vigorous market for the next few months, based on Gold Coast metrics.

"It was as strong as ever," said Triple Crown director Sam Mannion. "We don't feel there was any sort of dip this year at all. Particularly for those middle range yearlings, we thought it was particularly strong.

"It's as tough as ever. In that mid market where we play, anything from $100,000 to $350,000, it was strong. We were underbidder on a fair few, but we stuck to what we were going to spend.

"In theory, 2026 is as strong as ever. As the year goes on, people will die off a little, but in the first four or five months, it'll be strong."

Incognito nearing return in Canonbury

Incognito

SPORTPIX

Incognito (Stay Inside) remains at the head of Golden Slipper (Gr 1, 1200m) betting following Saturday's Magic Millions 2YO Classic (RL, 1200m) and is nearing a return to the races for trainer Michael Freedman. The $1 million Magic Millions Gold Coast Yearling Sale purchase bypassed the $3 million feature in favour of a second trial last Thursday as Freedman keeps his focus firmly on the March 21 Golden Slipper. Incognito finished third in the 850-metre Rosehill trial, his second hit-out this year following a January 2 trial win, and Freedman said the colt is tracking well towards a late-January race return. "At this stage the plan is to head to the Canonbury Stakes on January 31 at Rosehill," Freedman said. "Things can change with two-year-olds very quickly, but he's a really well-behaved, sensible colt and he's got plenty of substance to him." Incognito has raced just once, scoring a convincing win in the Breeders' Plate (Gr 3, 1000m) at Randwick in October. He was ridden by Tommy Berry in last week's trial, finishing 2.5 lengths behind stablemate Enriched (I Am Invincible), with another stablemate, Manaal (Tassort), in second. Group 1 winners Lady Shenandoah (Snitzel) and Beiwacht (Bivouac) finished immediately behind him. "He travelled nicely, came off heels and quickened up when we wanted him to," Freedman said. Incognito is a $8 equal-favourite for the Golden Slipper alongside the Bjorn Baker-trained Warwoven (Sword Of State), who was a late scratching from the 2YO Classic due to lameness.

Antino to step out at Deagon on Tuesday

Antino (Redwood) headlines a strong line-up of Queensland talent at Deagon on Tuesday morning, when he will have his first public hit-out ahead of a likely Sydney autumn campaign. Trainer Tony Gollan said the seven-year-old has returned in good order after a disappointing Cox Plate (Gr 1, 2040m) performance last spring, where he finished last, beaten nearly eight lengths. "I'm very happy with him," Gollan said. "I did bone scans and had all sorts of tests done, x-rayed all his joints everywhere and there was nothing that we didn't know. He's got a bit of wear and tear but there are no significant injuries. He seems as good or better than where he was last year." Gollan is targeting a traditional path toward the Queen Elizabeth Stakes (Gr 1, 2000m) at Randwick on April 11, with Antino likely to resume in Sydney on February 14. The gelding is set to contest trial three over 1050 metres at Deagon alongside Magic Millions Snippets (1200m)-winning stablemate Zarastro (I Am Invincible). "It will be a soft trial," Gollan said. "He'll be at the back and probably won't trouble the scorer just following them around. Then he'll have another one a couple of weeks later and then hopefully head to Sydney for his first-up run." Antino is currently rated an $11 chance for the Queen Elizabeth Stakes, with Sir Delius (Frankel) the $3 favourite. "Taking out the Cox Plate run, his elite level form was up there in the spring," Gollan said. "If I want to drop the bar or space him out, I can look at saving him for the Doomben Cup as well." Antino won the Doomben Cup (Gr 1, 2000m) in emphatic fashion last May.

Rockhampton abandoned

Racing Queensland (RQ) has abandoned Wednesday's scheduled meeting at Rockhampton due to flooding of the Fitzroy River, with the peak now forecast for Wednesday morning. RQ said it will assess the potential addition of extra races at other meetings over the coming week to offset the cancellation. Participants have been notified via SMS.

Vale Colin Webster

The Australian racing community is mourning the death of Group 1-winning Western Australian trainer Colin Webster, aged 85. A former accountant, Webster began training at just 21 and went on to build a remarkable six-decade career, preparing elite performers and earning widespread respect as one of the state's finest horsemen and mentors. His achievements spanned generations, from Wolf City's (The Lampert) Tattersall's Cup (Gr 3, 2212m) success in 1971 through to Trix Of The Trade (Trade Fair) winning the Railway Stakes (Gr 1, 1600m) in 2022 under former apprentice Troy Turner. "Colin Webster was one of those rare horsemen who left a lasting mark, not just through results, but through the way he treated people and horses alike," Turner told Racing.com. "Riding for Colin was always a privilege." Webster was also revered as a master mentor of apprentice jockeys, with alumni including Turner, Peter Knuckey, Rod Staples, Craig Staples and many others. Veteran trainer Neville Parnham paid tribute to Webster's influence. "He was probably one of the most-loved people in racing and no-one would have a bad word to say about him," Parnham said. "He was a wonderful man." Webster received numerous honours, including the Centenary Medal in 2003 and the WA Spirit of Racing Award in 2004. His legacy extends beyond his own stable, having also played a pivotal role in Rogan Josh's (Old Spice) path to Melbourne Cup (Gr 1, 3200m) glory after recommending the gelding be transferred to Bart Cummings.

New Zealand

Stablemates primed for Karaka Millions 3YO

Lollapalooza

RACE IMAGES

A strong exhibition gallop at Te Rapa on Friday has Graham Richardson and Rogan Norvall confident Lollapalooza (El Roca) and Fleeting Star (Cool Aza Beel) are on track for Saturday's Karaka Millions 3YO (RL, 1600m) at Ellerslie. The stablemates worked together over 1000 metres on a Soft 6 in 1:01.56, clocking 34.98 for the final 600 metres. "It was very good work and confirmed that they're on target," Richardson said. "They're both really fit, but they need to be for what's coming up." Lollapalooza resumes after finishing second in both the New Zealand 1,000 Guineas (Gr 1, 1600m) and the Eight Carat Classic (Gr 2, 1600m). "She has put together a very good record but she's still learning, so she'll be wearing vizzor blinkers on Saturday," Richardson said. Fleeting Star followed her maiden win with a solid third in the Eight Carat Classic. "We've always rated Fleeting Star and lately she has really come to it. Blinkers have worked well for her and she'll have them on again." Angela Jones will ride Fleeting Star, with Vincent Colgan staying aboard Lollapalooza. The stable is also hoping last-start winner State The Obvious (Sword Of State) can gain a start in the Karaka Millions 2YO (RL, 1200m), while Romilly (So You Think) is set to contest the Jo Giles Stakes (1400m) on the undercard. Romilly's ownership group includes New Zealand cricket legend Brendon McCullum, and he and Richardson combined to make a purchase at last week's Gold Coast Yearling Sale. "We paid $340,000 for a filly by So You Think [Lot 901], which we felt was good buying, especially as they don't make any more of them by that stallion," Richardson said. "Like others that Baz and I put our names to, we're putting together a partnership and there's only 25 per cent left in her."

Williams booked for Knobelas ride in Aotearoa Classic

Craig Williams will ride progressive mare Knobelas (Belardo) for Mick Price and Michael Kent Jnr in Saturday's Aotearoa Classic (Gr 3, 1600m) at Ellerslie. Williams is already booked to partner Alabama Lass (Alabama Express) in the Sistema Railway (Gr 1, 1200m) on the same card, with the Price-Kent stable hopeful of better fortune for Knobelas after a luckless run in a BenchMark 84 (1600m) at Flemington last start. Despite that experience, punters have remained confident, backing the daughter of Belardo (Lope De Vega) into favouritism for the Group 3. "I see she is favourite, at the moment," Kent Jnr told Racing.com on Monday. "She is very progressive. She's still looking for an out from last weekend - that was a tragedy." Kent Jnr confirmed the OTI Racing-owned four-year-old has travelled well to New Zealand, with attention now turning to the barrier draw. "She's drawn barrier one, her last two starts, which is less than ideal," Kent Jnr said. "She just wants a bit of room. Hopefully, we draw well. She has arrived, I can confirm her bloods are great and she's lovely and sound, bright and eating."

breeder Waikato Stud in partnership with Jamie Beatson's Ohukia Lodge, will contest the Entain/NZB Insurance Pearl Series 2YO (1100m) ahead of a targeted tilt at the Matamata Slipper (Gr 3, 1200m) on February 14. Justin Case won a Taupo trial in the spring before finishing runner-up on debut at Pukekohe in November and was then given a short break. "It was always the plan after Pukekohe to give him a couple of weeks off and then target the colts and geldings' race at Matamata, so this is a good lead into that," said trainer Kris Shailer, who manages Courtza Park for Waikato Stud. "He put on a bit of condition and strengthened right up during his little break, then he spent some time with Jamie and Chanel Beatson for a bit of pre-training, and they did a great job." Justin Case is out of Group 2 winner Do Ra Mi (Savabeel) and was originally slated for the Ready to Run Sale before being retained to race. Meanwhile, well-bred stablemate Convinced (Super Seth) will make her debut in the Elsdon Park At Karaka 2026 Maiden (1200m). "She was pretty impressive winning a trial at Rotorua in September, but tweaked a hamstring," Shailer said. "We've given her the time she needed and brought her back slowly, but she's fit enough to run well."

Inglewood looking ahead to Karaka

Inglewood Stud will present a 12-strong draft at the 2026 New Zealand Bloodstock National Yearling Sale, with the North Canterbury nursery confident its latest offering is its strongest to date. The draft features ten yearlings in Book 1 and two in Book 2 and comes off the back of a productive decade for the operation, whose Karaka graduates include Group 1 winners Velocious (Written Tycoon) and Ugo Foscolo (Zacinto). "We've worked out that since we took over, our drafts have produced 110 runners and 26 of them have performed at black-type level. That's a pretty good strike rate and something we're quite proud of," Inglewood's manager

Gus Wigley said. Wigley believes the current draft reflects increased investment and depth across stallion choice and mare quality. "It's a bit of a cliché, but I think this is the best draft of yearlings we've taken up to Karaka," he said. "It represents some decent investment in terms of service fees and the quality of mares that we've bought." The draft includes two colts by Harry Angel (Dark Angel), a stallion Wigley said the farm has strongly supported. "We're big fans of Harry Angel and have sent mares to him every season," he said. "We have two Harry Angel colts in our draft that we really like [Lot 245 and Lot 559]." Also among the highlights is Lot 124, a filly by Street Boss (Street Cry) out of Shuffled (High Chaparral), the only yearling by the sire in the sale. "Overall, I think it's just a good, consistent draft," Wigley said. "They all looked great in their parade [on Monday] and I think it was the best turnout we've had for a yearling parade." Wigley said interest from trainers and buyers has been encouraging ahead of Karaka. "There were lots of South Island trainers there and plenty of interest, so it all bodes well," he added.

Karaka Yearling Sale preview set to air on Sky

Caroline Searcy's comprehensive preview of the 2026 New Zealand Bloodstock National Yearling Sale will premiere on Sky Thoroughbred Central on Monday night at 7.30pm AEDST. The 90-minute program will showcase more than ten per cent of the Book 1 catalogue along with a select group of Book 2 yearlings, providing viewers with an early look ahead of on-farm inspections and the sale's opening on Sunday. A total of 11 of New Zealand's leading breeding operations are represented, including Cambridge Stud, Haunui Farm, Curraghmore, Waikato Stud, Wentwood Grange, Hallmark Stud, The Oaks Stud, Windsor Park Stud, Pencarrow Stud, Woburn Farm and Elsdon Park. The preview features progeny by established and emerging New Zealand sires alongside yearlings by leading Australian stallions. Among the highlights are full and half relations to recent Group 1 performers including Ceolwulf (Tavistock), Mr Brightside (Bullbars), Savaglee (Savabeel) and Marky Mark (Makfi), drawn from some of the country's strongest broodmare families. The program will air on Sky Thoroughbred Central (Foxtel Channel 528) with replays throughout the week and will also screen on Trackside NZ at 9am on Wednesday ahead of the Karaka Millions barrier draw. Online viewing will be available in the days following the premiere.

HK: Voyage Bubble and Romantic Warrior to meet again at Sha Tin

Voyage Bubble

HKJC

Ricky Yiu has given Voyage Bubble (Deep Field) the green light to begin his Triple Crown defence in Sunday's Stewards' Cup (Gr 1, 1600m) at Sha Tin, where the six-time Group 1 winner will clash with Romantic Warrior (Acclamation). Voyage Bubble tuned up with a strong gallop on Saturday and Yiu said the feedback from jockey Zac Purton was encouraging ahead of the mile feature. "He had a really good gallop on Saturday. He's fit and he wasn't blowing at all. Very good signs," Yiu said. "The feedback from Zac Purton was very promising. It seems as though the horse has never had a run and that he is coping with everything." The gelding created history last season when becoming only the second horse to complete Hong Kong's Triple Crown. He worked alongside stablemate Tourbillon Golfer (Cosmic Force) on the Sha Tin turf as preparations continued. "He's really, really well," Yiu said. "I would say the mile is Voyage Bubble's best distance, but we're up against one of the world's best horses on Sunday. It's a big challenge for my horse, but he'll definitely run well. We'll follow the same path as last season. Our fingers are crossed." The Triple Crown carries a HK$10 million (approx. AU$1.91 million) bonus and continues with the Hong Kong Gold Cup (Gr 1, 2000m) on March 1 before concluding with the Champions & Chater Cup (Gr 1, 2400m) in May. Despite having yet to beat Romantic Warrior, Yiu believes Voyage Bubble is ideally placed at the mile. "I thought he lost the race, but in the final 100 [metres] he fought back... He has a great heart," Yiu said.

HK: Jimmy Ting's Little Paradise charges into Classic Mile contention

Rapid improver Little Paradise (Toronado) has emerged as a leading contender for the upcoming Four-Year-Old Classic Series as he continues his rise through the grades in Hong Kong. Trained by Jimmy Ting, the gelding sits on a rating of 95 ahead of the Hong Kong Classic Mile (1600m) at Sha Tin on February 1, making him one of the highest-rated four-year-olds in the city with the Hong Kong Derby (2000m) on March 22 firmly in sight. Little Paradise will line up among the favourites for the Classic Mile despite the distance being new territory. His owner Ko Kam Piu is familiar with the race, having finished fifth in the 2011 edition with Little Bridge (Faltaat). Purchased for AU$270,000 at the 2023 Inglis Classic Yearling Sale, Little Paradise has progressed rapidly this season, culminating in a decisive win in the Class 2 Racing Club Cup (1400m) on January 11 under Zac Purton. "He's a nice horse. I had confidence he could measure up in Class 2," Ting said. "I think he can handle the mile and I think the horse is improving. At this stage I think his best distance will be 1600 metres. One thing is that maybe at the 1600 metres the pace is a bit slower and he will need to learn to calm down at the back of the field." With Purton booked elsewhere, Vincent Ho will ride Little Paradise in the Classic Mile. "At this stage, I don't know yet but I think the horse could handle the longer distances because he is a quiet horse. Hopefully he can," Ting said.

Last minute promo

By Lloyd Jackson

Leading into the 100th National Yearling Sale at Karaka, a few studs will not be disappointed with some last minute results to keep their stallions in the news.

From Trentham, Rich Hill Stud's Proisir (Choisir) added individual stakes winner number 24 with Fairy Dream's win in the Desert Gold Stakes (Gr 3, 1600m). A race later, in the rich Thorndon Mile (Gr 2, 1600m), Grangewilliam Stud's Derryn (Hinchinbrook) was provided a timely boost for next week when Doctor Askar improved on his Easter Handicap (Gr 3, 1600m) win earlier in the year, announcing himself as one of the country's leading milers.

Waikato Stud, too, had a say in the weekend's results with two metropolitan winners, one at Flemington and the other at Rosehill, both by their up and coming sire Super Seth (Dundee). Cross Tasman looks particularly smart having won four of his seven starts including the last three in succession, at Kensington, Randwick and Rosehill. Also at Rosehill was four-times winner Aroha Stone by Westburys Stud's El Roca (Fastnet Rock). There are 63 lots by Proisir on offer next week plus 47 by Super Seth but only four by Derryn and three by El Roca.

Not so great were the results from the big-money meeting at the Gold Coast. A bounding $12.5 million was on offer there but not a single New Zealand-bred won or placed.

One statistic regarding the Magic Millions may give hope to those who were priced out of the market at last week's sale which saw the turnover top $200 million, surely a promising sign for Karaka. Yet again, racing, the great leveller, threw up a result which flies in the face of high-priced bloodstock when the $3 million Magic Millions 2YO Classic (RL, 1200m) winner, Unit Five (Supido), was purchased for just $80,000. That should encourage more involvement to keep our wonderful industry going forward.

More to look forward to

Now that Doctor Askar (Derryn) has returned to form it is not a stretch to believe that he could be in for a healthy late summer and autumn. Although the Thorndon has lost its Group 1 status, the $500,000 stake brought together a decent field headed by triple Group 1 winner Legarto (Proisir). Also present was Ellerslie's Rich Hill Mile (Gr 2, 1600m) winner Queen Zou (Zoustar).

Doctor Askar had no favours in the running and was wide but with cover, sitting worse than midfield at the 800 metres. Rounding into the straight he had most of the field in front of him but Joe Doyle pushed widest for better going and found it. Once balanced, the five-year-old charged hard but still had Marotiri Molly (Per Incanto) to catch. Using perfect timing, Doyle got the best from his mount to nail the leader a stride from the line.

He landed his last five wins in succession to complete his four-year-old season, culminating with the Easter Handicap. He didn't have much to spare that day either, leaving his winning run very late to score in a crowded finish. That was his first try right-handed and he wobbled around the turn but was also very determined, something he displayed again at Trentham.

Doctor Askar has taken a little time to reach winning form. Saturday's victory was his sixth run for the season but his fifth, in the Manawatu Challenge Stakes (Gr 2, 1400m) last month, was the first indicator that he was on his way back. Trainer Joanne Moss explained that the gelding had a deep-seated stone bruise which took some time to resolve itself, thus causing a slowish return to his best.

Two weeks ago he was a strong second in Trentham's Phar Lap Trophy (Gr 3, 1600m) which set him up nicely for career win seven from 21 starts. The win takes his earnings to $586,095. Doctor Askar was never offered for sale. His trainer also part-owns the gelding while he was bred by Jill Moss. He is one of two winners from Petipas Delight (St Petersburg), herself a three-race winner trained by Joanne Moss.

His grandam Tights Delight (Tights) won four times including at Avondale and Te Rapa while great grandam Jambiere (Balmerimo) ranks as a three-quarter sister to Listed winner Te Akau Prince (Balmerino).

Te Akau Prince was from the tough mare River Queen (Serenader II) who loved Ellerslie where she nabbed the George Adams Handicap (Gr 2, 1600m) and recorded three Group placings there including third in the Easter Handicap (Gr 1, 1600m). River Queen's dam was a half-sister to Kewney Stakes (Gr 2, 1600m) winner Sweet Vamp (Idomeneo).

Another Prowess?

The training team of Roger James and Robert Wellwood will no doubt be hoping so after a solid performance from Fairy Dream, their three-year-old filly by Proisir (Choisir), sire also of recent stable star Prowess.

After acceptances, the quality of Desert Gold Stakes (Gr 3, 1600m) fell away when warm favourite Tajana (Darci Brahma) bypassed the race due to the heavy rains in Wellington last Thursday. The track ended up a Soft 6 and nearer the rail the course was not ideal and there were comments that the inside running was shifty. It must have been, as evidenced by all the fields tracking wide into the straight. The rail was not the place to be.

Midfield to the 600 metres, Fairy Dream, with three behind her, was taken wide by Masa Hashizume. Improving quickly she had three to beat at the 200 metres, levelled up to be one of four chances near the 100 metres then took a narrow lead with 50 metres to run. She was very determined to the line and held on by 0.1 lengths from stablemate Waimea Bay (Savabeel) with 0.4 lengths back to Crimson Sky (Ocean Park). The race was run in a dawdling 1:39.83, more than three seconds slower than Doctor Askar in the Thorndon.

RACE IMAGES

Fairy Dream is raced by Roger James and Robert Wellwood's long-time clients Colin and Helen Litt who enjoyed great success with recently retired Orchestral (Savabeel), the 2024 New Zealand Derby (Gr 1, 2400m) winner who scored in the Vinery Stud Stakes (Gr 1, 2000m) in Sydney the same year.

Fairy Dream has been to the races four times, breaking her maiden on the synthetic Cambridge track last September. After a short break, her second-up run saw her finish fast for fourth in the Eight Carat Classic (Gr 2, 1600m) at Ellerslie on Boxing Day. The Desert Gold payout brings her earnings to $140,060 which means she will need to earn another $220,000 to match her purchase price from Book 1 of the 2024 NZB Karaka Yearling Sale. According to her trainers, that might well be on the cards as they rate her highly.

In one for the oldies, Fairy Dream is the last of nine foals from Sydney Listed winner Fairygem (Viscount) who was 18 when she dropped Fairy Dream. Six foals are winners and a seventh, Dottie Dee (Brazen Beau), was Listed placed in Adelaide without winning.

Fairygem's half-sister Penny Gem (Pentire) was a quality mare who scored at Group 1 level in Trentham's Captain Cook Stakes (1600m). Among her placings were four at the elite level including seconds in the Zabeel Classic (2000m) and the Waikato International Stakes (2000m), now run as the Herbie Dyke Stakes.

Rising star

Purchased somewhat cheaply for $47,500 from Wm Iglis' digital auction platform just last August, Rosso (Camelot) is looking like he might be a star middle-distance or staying performer, judging from his clear-cut win in Saturday's Trentham Stakes (Gr 3, 2100m).

Rosso was a 120,000gns purchase out of Book 1 of the 2022 Tattersall's Yearling Sale and raced five times as a three-year-old in Ireland for a win over 12 furlongs and four placings. Sold to Australian interests he had four races in Victoria without winning but placed at Geelong and Sandown. His last run was in August after which he was promptly catalogued for sale, purchased by J Pitman.

Since his arrival in Christchurch the gelding has faced the starter six times for four wins, flying through the grades with wins at Ashburton, Riccarton and Timaru prior to the step up in class for the Trentham Stakes, which he handled very well.

Punters were on the money as Rosso started as favourite. He settled midfield until the 800 metres where Daniel Stackhouse sent him forward. Into the straight he gained quickly and at the 200 metres had one to pass before taking over soon after. Bursting clear, inside the 100 metres it was all over despite a late run from Royal Flower (Proisir).

Rosso has turned A$47,500 into NZ$163,735, thus a very cagey purchase and it will be surprising if the five-year-old doesn't add to his record. The win cemented his place as favourite for the upcoming Wellington Cup (Gr 3, 3200m).

Rosso's unraced dam Egyptian Sky (Fastnet Rock) has produced three winners for two stakes winners. Her 2018 foal, Solar Power (Dynasty) is a five-time winner in South Africa where he scored at Grade 3 level at Kenilworth. Egyptian Sky is a half-sister to Francis Of Assisi (Danehill Dancer), winner of Flemington's

Rosso

RACE IMAGES

Queen Elizabeth Stakes (Gr 3, 2600m) as well as the Bendigo Cup (Gr 3, 2400m). Francis Of Assisi was a Listed winner in Ireland but also won three times over hurdles before his export to Australia.

Another half-sister to Egyptian Sky is Wave (Dansili), dam of Group 2 winner Cliffsofmoher (Galileo) who was second in the 2017 Epsom Derby (Gr 1, 1m 4f) before he too was exported to Australia where he finished third in a Caulfield Cup (Gr 1, 2400m).

Kiwi Chronicles will return on February 3rd as next week we will be attending the Centenary National Yearling Sale.
