Cambridge Stud stallions put rivals to the sword in a record-breaking Book 2

By Paul Symes and Lloyd Jackson

Cambridge Stud stallions dominated Book 2 of the New Zealand Bloodstock (NZB) National Yearling Sale as Embellish (Savabeel) achieved the highest price one of his daughters was knocked down at the business end of proceedings for $200,000 to Busuttin Racing, while his near neighbour Sword of State (Snitzel) continued his inexorable rise with 11 lots fetching six figures.

As with Book 1, NZB were once again rewarded for the change in format, reducing Book 2 to one session. New benchmarks were set on Tuesday where a condensed session saw 188 yearlings sell at a clearance rate of 77 per cent for total receipts of $12,247,000, a 25 per cent rise on last year’s results. There were improvements in all other metrics, with the average jumping an incredible 80 per cent to $65,145, while the median finished at $60,000, up an extraordinary 124 per cent.

NZB’s managing director Andrew Seabrook was understandably over the moon with the results.

"As we had expected, putting the Book 2 horses in front of the international buyers has been key," he said.

"To see a $2.5 million increase in turnover from a catalogue with 146 less horses, the results are just extraordinary really.

"The Australian spend has more than doubled compared to this session last year, and while the Kiwis were stronger too, there were plenty who missed out so we hope to see them active at the Karaka Summer Sale on Thursday."

Despite standing for a modest service fee of just $5,000 (plus GST), Embellish produced stakes winners on both sides of the Tasman Sea from his first crop of yearlings and the training team of Trent Busuttin and Natalie Young will be hoping that upward trajectory continues after they splashed the cash on the Cambridge Stud-offered sale topper.

The bidding had originally stopped at $170,00 when the filly passed through the sales ring, but Busuttin was quick to strike a private deal with farm's proprietors Sir Brendan and Lady Jo Lindsay at the back of the auditorium for the daughter of Queen of Wizardry (Not a Single Doubt).

Given that Queen of Wizardry was a winner at two and her half-sister Coco Sun (The Autumn Sun) won her first two starts as a juvenile before landing the South Australian Derby (Gr 1, 2500m) as a three-year-old, there is every chance that her second foal will possess an abundance of early precocity.

That is certainly the hope of Busuttin and Young, who also purchased a Best of Bordeaux (Snitzel) colt for $70,000 from the Wentwood Grange draft.

Their sale topper sealed a stellar auction for the team at Cambridge Stud, who took leading vendor honours at the NZB Yearling Sale for the 33rd time. Fresh off the back of being crowned leading vendors by aggregate during Book 1, the farm enjoyed an equally impressive day's trade on Tuesday, selling 14 yearlings for $1,195,000.

The Lindsays opted to sell all the farm's yearlings at the centenary edition of the sale, and their commitment was duly rewarded.

Much of their success this year has been built on the extraordinary impact made by Sword of State, who now stands for $20,000 (plus GST) from an opening service fee of $15,000 (plus GST). After some remarkable results across two days of Book 1 trading, his second crop of yearlings were again in high demand on day three at Karaka.

Lots 657 and 838, respectively a filly out of Tina Again (El Roca) and a colt from Membership (All American), were knocked down for $170,000 apiece as the buying bench again coveted Sword of State's progeny following the sale of his prized colt out of Las Brisas (Sharmadal) to Ciaran Maher Racing for $1.1 million on Monday.

A "terrifically happy" Robert Wellwood, who trains in partnership with Roger James, snapped up his filly from the draft of Lansdowne Park, run jointly by former professional rugby player Dave Duley and Irish expat Jude Latimer.

Late in the day, that fee was matched when Sam Beatson's Riversley Park teamed up with De Burgh Equine to swoop on Sword of State's bay colt from the Leanach Lodge draft.

The James and Wellwood combination had been active across the two days of Book

1 trading, purchasing seven yearlings headlined by their $440,000 acquisition of a St Mark's Basilica (Siyouni) colt from the Windsor Park draft, and the duo extended their spending spree on day three at Karaka after prevailing in a heated bidding dual.

Two of those seven were sired by Almanzor

(Savabeel) but the stable's acquisition of Lot 657 represented their first investment in a yearling produced by his fellow Cambridge Stud resident Sword of State.

"The Sword of States are in demand," Wellwood told ANZ News.

"We found this filly on our visit to the Lansdowne parade, and we fell in love with her from the outset. She has a great attitude and she should get up early, but there is also plenty of upside in her pedigree being from a sister to recent stakes winner Swiss Prince [El Roca]. We're pleased to have the opportunity to train this filly.

"She's got a great fluent walk and we're terrifically happy to have her walking into the stable. We've missed out on a few as you always do, and hopefully we're not kicking ourselves but we think we've bought really well so far. We've treated these three days as one book really, the only downside is that there are still some Australians here buying horses so it's a very competitive market.

"We've bought this filly without any owners, but I'm sure she will be very popular because she's pretty stunning. We also have some opportunities left in some of our Book 1 purchases including the two Almanzor colts, who we think are potential Guineas or Derby types. Almanzor is doing a great job and we only paid $150,000 for each of them, so we couldn't leave without them."

Lansdowne Park enjoyed a stellar sale at the NZB Ready To Run auction last November, finishing as the leading vendors by average after selling their four lots for an average of $277,500, and they have maintained that momentum this week.

Since 1935

While trading in Book 2 was never likely to scale such heady heights, Duley - who established Landsdowne Park in 2008 - was nonetheless delighted to achieve a very solid result with their Sword of State filly.

"She is so relaxed, kind and easy to work with," Duley told ANZ News.

"She's just a pleasure to have in the stables. We had a lot of x-ray hits and plenty of looks, so we knew she would sell well and quickly."

The filly was sold by Landsdowne on behalf of Karaka-based breeder Rosemary Carter who, with tongue firmly in cheek, revealed that her husband was bitterly disappointed with the outcome.

"My husband, Brett [Kendall], hoped she would be passed in because he wanted to race her, but I have bills to pay," she told ANZ News.

"She is my first sale filly, but I have too many horses."

Later in the day there was another surge of interest in Sword of State's progeny when, shortly after the training team of Richard and Will Freedman had purchased his daughter out of La Tardigrada (I Am Invincible) for $130,000 from the Cambridge Stud draft, Riversley Park went to $170,000 for Lot 838, the fourth foal produced by Membership (All American).

The colt's strong hind quarters evidently caught the collective eye of the team at Riversley, who less than ten minutes later recouped a significant chunk of their investment when they sold their Contributor (High Chaparral) colt to BBA Ireland, BMD Bloodstock, Sam Haggas of Hurworth Bloodstock and David Skelly for $150,000.

Leanach Lodge principal Ross Mackay was quietly confident that, of the five yearlings the farm offered in their Book 2 draft, their last lot would comfortably command the highest price.

"I thought he might top the sale as he is a ripping colt," Mackay told ANZ News.

"Sam Beatson of Riversley Park bought him, and I am pretty sure the colt will be back here for the Ready To Run Sale. I believe that Sword of State has the potential to be a champion sire because his foals are on a different level. I have seen a good number of his stock and he really upgrades his mares.

"This colt had a faultless prep, and once on the grounds he thrived. He has every attribute of a good horse and was worth top billing, but maybe came a little late in the sale."

New Zealand native

Glen Thompson, who trains at Flemington, also walked away from the Karaka complex with a pair of colts both sired by Sword Of State.

The astute horseman is an avid admirer of the progeny produced by the dominant 2021 Sistema Stakes (Gr 1, 1200m) winner, and he was determined to return to his adopted homeland with Lots 585 and 618.

Thompson had to fight harder to secure the former but, in one of several spirited battles played out in the Sir Patrick Hogan Auditorium, he eventually gained the upper hand with a bid of $150,000 for the sixth foal out of Palace Whispers (Snippetson).

"He's a big, strong colt who moves well," Thompson told ANZ News.

"I saw him on Friday, and he immediately went on my 'A-list'. I tried to buy a Sword Of State earlier but couldn't get near one. We will syndicate him, and I think he could be an early type."

Adrian Stanley echoed those sentiments, with the Woburn Farm founder hopeful the colt may be back at Ellerslie in 12 months' time to chase the riches on offer at the Karaka Millions raceday.

"The colt is a nice physical type and a great mover," he told ANZ News.

"I agree with Glen [Thompson], he looks like an early runner you could bring back for the Karaka Million 2YO. His reserve was low, but we knew he'd fly that because he's been so popular."

day two, the team at HGT Bloodstock was again toasting another outstanding result when trainer Graham Richardson teamed up with legendary former cricketer and current England head coach Brendon McCullum to purchase Lot 752 for $110,000.

At Book 1 on Monday, Richardson and McCullum had combined to purchase the half-sister to dual Group 1-winning mare Belclare (Per Incanto) for $260,000, and 24 hours later the same duo again raided the HGT draft to acquire another athletic filly.

By Sword of State out of Fascino Lass (Per Incanto), whose half-sister Girl Of My Dreams was a multiple stakes winner, Lot 752 oozed class according to Richardson.

"This is the second yearling I have purchased from Georgia at HGT," Richardson told ANZ News.

"I had her parade her entire draft before Book 1, and I told her that she had a really nice draft. I was impressed then and now I have put my money where my mouth is, twice. So I meant what I said.

"This filly has a lot of Per Incanto about her, and she is a slightly different type from the other Sword of States I have looked at. I reckon she might have a run as a late two-year-old, but look out at three.

"Brendon [McCullum] knows a thing or two about athletes, and she fits that bill. They have to walk well and she moves nicely. She is already partly syndicated, and she won't take long to complete."

Warwoven ruled out of potential Blue Diamond bid

SPORTPIX

Bjorn Baker's unbeaten colt Warwoven (Sword Of State) will not run in next month's Blue Diamond Stakes (Gr 1, 1200m) after being sent for a short break. The son of Sword Of State (Snitzel) landed his debut at Randwick over 1000 metres before doubling that tally in a 1200-metre handicap at Eagle Farm and was then installed as the favourite for the Magic Millions 2YO Classic (RL, 1200m). After missing a start in the lucrative Gold Coast contest after stewards deemed him to be lame, Baker has now decided to target the Golden Slipper (Gr 1, 1200m) instead of the Blue Diamond. Having been third favourite for the Blue Diamond

Stakes, Warwoven was still the $8 co-favourite for the March 21 Golden Slipper on Tuesday. "We'll try to get him to the Slipper, but we'll just take it one step at a time," Baker told Racing.com. "We thought he was ok to run [in the Magic Millions] and they [veterinary stewards] didn't, so that's the way it goes. If we have any doubts with him, we'll put him straight out."

Freedman happy with his trial trio

Michael Freedman came away happy from Tuesday's Randwick trials after sending out three Group 1 winners at the track. Last season's Golden Slipper winner Marhoona (Snitzel) produced a stylish performance to run out an 0.8-length winner of a 900-metre heat, defeating fellow Group 1 scorer Autumn Glow (The Autumn Sun) with multiple Group 2 winner Pericles (Street Boss) a further 0.2-length back in third. In the following heat, also run over 900 metres, Apocalyptic (Extreme Choice) and Manaal (Tassort) ran third and fourth respectively behind winner Beiwacht (Bivouac). "She will just have a fairly steady one and then we will probably bring her here for the Light Fingers," Freedman said of Apocalyptic. "I'm keeping options open. Depending how she comes back, we may look at keeping her to shorter course races. She is obviously pretty versatile but I'm a bit up in the air. The first two would be obvious choices, the Light Fingers and Surround, but beyond that we will keep an open mind. Manaal will run in either the Triscay or the Expressway on the same day, and Marhoona, I'm still trying to map a path for her. I'm really happy with her but I'm toying with the idea of having a look at Melbourne with her."

Hasan sets up GoFundMe for Quilty

Trainer Saab Hasan has set up and donated $1000 to a GoFundMe page to help support veteran jockey Cameron Quilty, who is currently battling cancer. Quilty believed that he may have injured his ribs or chest in the barriers when he rode She's Elusive (Lean Mean Machine) for Hasan at Sandown on December 10, but upon going for a check-up found that he had a tumour. "He's been an integral part of racing and he's fighting cancer at the moment, he's got a tumor on the lung," Hasan told Racing.com. "He started off at Flemington like I did with the Cerchis, he started off with Ray Lawson. He's 53 and credit to him, he's still coming up and riding trackwork for us, as is Johnny Keating, who's another fellow in his 50s always helping out. We need these people in racing." Jockey Andrew Mallyon and Kennewell Racing's Melissa Kennewell have also made donations through the page, which can be found here.

Interpretation bidding to break winning drought

Ciaran Maher will make a rare raid to New Zealand on Saturday as he prepares to run Interpretation (Galileo) in the Wellington Cup (Gr 3, 3200m) at Trentham. The now eight-year-old son of Galileo (Sadler's Wells) will be bidding to break a long drought, having last entered the winner's circle on November 1, 2023 when taking out the Bendigo Cup (Gr 3, 2400m). This weekend will not be Interpretation's first time in New Zealand or indeed at Trentham, with the gelding having run seventh in last year's Wellington Cup before a sixth placing in the Avondale Cup (Gr 3, 2400m) and third-placed run in the Auckland Cup (Gr 2, 3200m) - both at Ellerslie. "All has been good with the preparation leading in," Maher's assistant trainer Jack Turnbull said. "He galloped on Saturday morning and Luke Cartwright will be aboard." Interpretation is at $6 on the third line of betting in markets for the Wellington Cup, with last-start Trentham Stakes (Gr 3, 2100m) winner Rosso (Camelot) the $3 favourite. "He ran a cracker in the Bendigo Cup last year and he is the dourest stayer we would have," Turnbull added. "He's danced every dance but unfortunately with his rating and with the type of horse he is and the age he is, you've only got two or three races a year for him."

Weight and pedigree queries no bar for Patterson

Robbie Patterson isn't letting weight and pedigree queries dent his confidence with One Bold Cat (The Bold One) ahead of Saturday's Wellington Cup. The New Plymouth trainer reports that everything has gone to plan with One Bold Cat since running on the first two days of the Trentham carnival. Ridden by stable jockey Craig Grylls, in the first of those races, One Bold Cat won the Marton Cup (Listed, 2200m), followed by a late-closing third in the Trentham

Profitabelle impresses again at the trials

There were four heats run at Tuesday's Randwick trials that were won by juveniles, with the Bjorn Baker-trained Profitabelle (Profiteer) landing her second trial from as many attempts.

Having scored in a Rosehill trial over 900 metres last month, the filly made her debut with a third-placed effort in a 1000-metre maiden at Randwick on January 3 behind Knightsbridge (Farnan) and proved her wellbeing on Tuesday with a half-length success over her year-older rival Divine Secrets (Deep Field) in the 1050-metre heat.

A $100,000 Inglis Classic purchase, Profitabelle is a half-sister to four winners being out of the unraced Host (Hussonet) mare Mrs Vanderbilt, who herself is out of the stakes-placed mare Brillanti (Slavic).

Local trainer Michael Freedman sent out a pair of juvenile heat winners, with the Emirates Park-bred and-owned Naadra (Tassort) going two places better than her third placing at the Randwick trial meeting on January 15.

The daughter of Tassort (Brazen Beau) made all the running in the 740-metre heat under Tommy Berry and defeated Verismo (Blue Point) by a half-length. She is a half-sister to the stakes-placed Naifah (I Am Invincible) being out of the winning Snitzel (Redoute's Choice) mare Najmah, herself a Stakes. "I couldn't be happier with him, he's as good as he could be," Patterson said. "Craig said just keep doing what I've been doing, so it's all gone smoothly." Patterson does concede that One Bold Cat will be obliged to carry clear topweight in Saturday's staying test, while the gelding's pedigree does raise stamina queries, but neither is a great concern. His anticipated handicap of 59 kilograms is some five kilograms more than the favourite Rosso. "It's not like half-sister to dual Group 1 winner Charm Stone (I Am Invincible) and stakes scorer Najmaty (I Am Invincible) and out of the Group 3-winning mare Najoom (Northern Meteor).

Freedman's other juvenile trial winner was Extreme Choice (Not A Single Doubt) filly Celestial Charm, who ran out a 0.3 lengths scorer over Screen Icon (Nicconi) under Sam Clipperton - going one place better than her runner-up finish behind Coco Affair (Home Affairs) in a trial also on January 15.

A $400,000 Magic Millions purchase by Anthony Cummings Thoroughbreds out of Newgate, Celestial Charm is a sister to dual winner Esha being the fourth foal out of the Group 1-winning I Am Invincible (Invincible Spirit) mare I Am A Star.

The other juvenile heat was won by the Anthony and Sam Freedman-trained Jourama (Frosted), who defeated Helldeeva (Hellbent) by 0.3 lengths over 1050 metres.

the days of Great Sensation when he carried those massive weights, there was a much lower minimum back then and my horse has already managed big weights," Patterson said. "As far as pedigree goes, we won the [2024 Wellington] Cup with Mary Louise, who was also by The Bold One from a mare by a sprinting stallion and that didn't stop her. All I know is we've got a horse in the right form, we set him for the race a long time ago, and everything has gone to plan."

HK: Guyon chases ambitious memories with Top Dragon

Maxime Guyon captured Hong Kong racing's ultimate glory when he won the 2011 Hong Kong Derby (2000m) aboard former champion Ambitious Dragon (Pins), and this Sunday at Sha Tin the French rider takes his shot at landing the Hong Kong Classic Mile (1600m) aboard Top Dragon (Pierata) for trainer Chris So. Guyon won four times aboard Ambitious Dragon, who was twice Hong Kong Horse of the Year (2010/11 & 2011/12) and dominated his four-year-old division by also scooping the Hong Kong Classic Cup (1800m) a month prior to the Hong Kong Derby. "It's a long time ago. It was my first time in Hong Kong. It was amazing to have the chance to win the Hong Kong Derby. I was young then; I was very lucky to ride Ambitious Dragon," Guyon said. "He had a strong turn of foot. He was easy to ride, but he was just a really good horse." Meanwhile, triple winner Top Dragon continues to improve with each of his 11 starts, most recently rising to Class 2, where he was third behind Sagacious Life (Put It Back) over 1600 metres after being crowded for room at the 250-metre mark, before rattling home in a race-best 23.08s (400m). The gelded son of Pierata (Pierro) has trialled once since that effort, pinching ground late under Guyon last Tuesday behind Group 3 winner Patch Of Theta (Zoustar) at Sha Tin. "He's in good form. I trialled him over 1200 metres on the dirt, and he's an easy horse. He ran well last start, but he was a little bit unlucky," Guyon said. "I'm really happy with him. We just gave him an easy gallop, just to make sure he was moving well."

HK: Amazing Kid aims to extend remarkable run at Happy Valley

Amazing Kid (Exceed And Excel) has found his rhythm, and jockey Andrea Atzeni is optimistic the John Size-trained sprinter can complete a hat-trick of wins in Wednesday night's first section of the Class 4 Lockhart Handicap (1200m) at Happy Valley. During his familiar mid-season surge, Size has returned eight wins in January after slotting six in December. He trails the championship-leading Mark Newnham by 13 wins with 20 for the campaign as he chases a record-extending 14th training title. Amazing Kid broke through by a head in December before confirming that effort was no fluke with a length success in January - both times with Atzeni in the plate. "It just took him a bit of time to put it all together, but the ability was always there at that level. Once he got his head in front it's done his confidence good," Atzeni said. "His first win we had a good gate [one] and space opened up on the fence. He didn't win by far, but he won quite cosily. The second time, we thought, well everything went right for him the first time, but he took a step forward." Amazing Kid's two triumphs have come in Class 4 at Happy Valley over 1200 metres. "He's pretty good out of the gates; he puts himself in a good position most of the time. He travelled really well, and from being on top of him and watching the replay, he never actually looked in any doubt. When I let him down, he picked up and won quite well [last start]," Atzeni said.

JPN: I Am Invincible filly makes winning debut at Kokura

Juvenile I Am Invincible (Invincible Spirit) filly Empress K made a very promising start to her career when making a winning debut in a 1200-metre newcomer race at Kokura last Sunday. Trained by Yuki Uehara and ridden by Yuji Tannai, Empress K proved a length and a half too strong for Fukuotoko (Fierement) as she stopped the clock in 1:08.4s. Bred and sold by Cressfield, she was purchased at last year's Inglis Easter sale for $1.4 million by Champions Farm and Satomi Oka Bloodstock. Empress K is the second winner from as many foals out of Pippie (Written Tycoon), who landed both the Moir Stakes (Gr 1, 1000m) and Oakleigh Plate (Gr 1, 1100m). Pippie herself was bought by Tasman Bloodstock for Cressfield for $1.8 million at the 2021 Inglis Chairman's Sale. The daughter of Written Tycoon (Iglesia) died in 2024 and her final foal, a yearling colt by I Am Invincible, will be offered at Inglis Easter this year as Lot 20.

‘We’re very hands on’ - rugby league royalty Billy Slater turning his talents to racing and breeding

By James Thomas

In the pantheon of modern Australian sporting greats, rugby league icon Billy Slater sits front and centre.

His lengthy list of team and individual honours includes, to name but a few, two National Rugby League (NRL) premierships with the Melbourne Storm; a brace of World Cup triumphs with Australia; eight State of Origin successes with Queensland, who he has gone on to coach to three series wins; a Golden Boot Award, and a Daly M Medal for Player of The Year.

He was duly inducted into the NRL Hall of Fame in 2024.

Interestingly, the man many consider to be the game’s greatest ever fullback credits a spell working for iconic trainer Gai Waterhouse as having a profound impact on his rugby league career.

“I left school at 16 then went to work for Gai for six months,” he says. “It was seven days a week, I lived and breathed it. I loved it, and it actually taught me a great work ethic that helped me when I went on to play rugby league professionally.”

He also reveals that he toyed with the idea of going down the racing route before rugby league took over.

“I loved the track work but I was always going to be a bit too big and heavy to be a jockey,” he says. “Training was probably an ambition at certain points, but once I set my mind to giving rugby league a real shot, I was all in on that.”

Slater’s game was founded on a blend of speed, skill and strength. Although he never made it into the weighing room in a professional capacity, his post-playing career has featured an increasing amount of time in the saddle, showing that his soft hands and natural athleticism remain very much intact.

He is a key part of Channel Nine’s headline racing coverage, conducting heat-of-the-moment interviews while on horseback with winning riders like Jamie Melham after she landed last year’s Melbourne Cup (Gr 1, 3200m).

Slater has also utilised his horsemanship in his role as a Magic Millions ambassador. This link up has seen him ride in the iconic beach gallop on the Gold Coast as well as taking part in a celebrity polo match backed by the auction house. He was on the winning side during this year’s renewal of the latter event alongside royal family member Zara Tindall.

He and his wife, equine artist Nicole, also run their own racing and breeding operation, Slater Thoroughbreds. The couple’s three-strong broodmare band is based just outside Melbourne, where the 42-year-old remains as hands-on as he was during his teenage spell with the Waterhouse stable.

“Obviously while you’re playing rugby league professionally it’s a bit hard to dive into [having horses] because if you want to be good at something, you’ve got to be all in – and I certainly was with my footy,” he says. “But probably halfway through my career I started thinking about how can I do both, and not necessarily the racing industry, just how can I have horses and still do what I’m doing.”

“Then, towards the end of my career I started getting into the breeding industry; it started small with one mare when we didn’t even have a property. Now we live on a small property outside Melbourne where we have a few broodmares, yearlings and foals. We love educating them, and I even break in a couple that we race. We’re very hands on. It’s an exciting process, and you just don’t know, they could go on and be champions of the turf.”

The Slater Thoroughbred paddocks are home to youngsters by the likes of Maurice (Screen Hero), Shamus Award (Snitzel), Street Boss (Street Cry) and Arrowfield’s up-and-comer The Autumn Sun (Redoute’s Choice).

The Street Boss colt is out of Chilli Filly (Vancouver), a Magic Millions purchase who carried Slater’s silks to victory on the track before joining the broodmare band. He hopes current colour bearer Cooly (Cool Aza Beel), a Caulfield maiden winner trained by Peter Moody and Katherine Coleman, will follow a similar route once her racing days are behind her.

As the head coach of the Queensland State of Origin side, Slater is well used to appraising the respective strengths of the competition’s elite names. Breeders undertake a similar process when it comes to selecting stallions during the annual round of mating plans, and Slater says he particularly enjoys this part of the thoroughbred breeding process.

"You'd be naive not to get advice from people but I love making the decisions off the back of that," he says, speaking during the Gold Coast Yearling Sale. "And, at the end of the day, they're your decisions. That's pretty cool, and that's what makes it special, to put in the time and make those decisions."

"It's not an overnight thing, these horses here [at the sale] have been 12 months in decision making over matings, then they get born and there's another 15 months for them to get here. It's a long journey."

He also suggests that picking the Queensland squad is "much easier" than unearthing a future champion at the yearling sales.

"The Queensland team is much easier because you can really see the habits of the athletes, but here you can only try to predict the habits of the horses," he says. "You're only looking at the pedigrees and the physical, so you do get a lot more information when you're looking at rugby league players."

Although the two sports' participants may require vastly different physical attributes, Slater says he can see a clear crossover between racing and rugby league.

"I definitely see parallels in the training methods and the elite professionalism of both sports," he says. "Racehorses are trained to the minute, they're finely tuned, and that's what we see with elite sportspeople across the board. There are definitely parallels there."

While preparation may be key, either on the racetrack or on the rugby league field, Slater says he is drawn to the part fate and fortune has to play in the thoroughbred game.

"The one thing I love about the horses is that the person with $400 million can compete with the person with $10,000 in their pocket," he says. "There's still that element of luck. We're here at the Magic Millions yearling sales and there are lots going for $2 million, but there are also lots going for $40,000, and they can still compete because there's that element of luck."

Reflecting on where his affinity with horses stems from, Slater says: "My connection with horses started before I'd even become a professional athlete; I've always had a great love for the horse."

"It probably comes from my grandfather. I grew up in the country, I certainly wasn't a city boy, but we lived in town. My grandfather had horses and was an old stockman, so I'd go out to his property and we'd ride every now and again."

"Then my father was good mates with a couple of racehorse trainers, so he'd go there in the afternoon and I'd tag along. I ended up getting a job there walking horses, doing the boxes and that sort of stuff. From there, I got given an ex-racehorse as a pony and I started doing pony club and showjumping on her when I was about 14 years old. I actually met my wife at pony club, although we got together a little bit later in life."

He may have long since etched his name into the rugby league history books, but his equine endeavours have helped write a whole new chapter in the Billy Slater story.

"A lot of things that I would've never imagined have happened in my life," he says. "But you know what, you go out there and you set your sights and your goals high, and you never know what you can achieve. A boy from the bush, here I am standing at the Magic Millions!"

Having achieved almost everything there is to achieve in rugby league, what are Slater's thoroughbred ambitions?

"Breeding a Group 1 winner would be very special because it doesn't happen overnight, there's a lot that goes into breeding a champion," he says. "We've bred city winners, we haven't quite got a black-type winner yet, so taking the stepping stones to breeding a champion would be something special coming from a small little farm."
