MAGIC MILLIONS

Riverstone hopeful of some Home Affairs magic in Adelaide

By Paul Symes

With their Magic Millions Adelaide draft featuring the only Home Affairs (I Am Invincible) progeny on offer at this week's yearling sale and their pinhook success Shiki (Too Darn Hot) going round in Saturday's $5 million Golden Slipper Stakes (Gr 1, 1200m), there is plenty for the team at Riverstone Lodge to look forward to over the coming days.

Given how highly sought-after Home Affairs' first crop have been so far this season, and the fact that the colt's half-brother has already shown plenty of promise in his embryonic career, there is every expectation that Lot 115 will be front of mind for the buying bench when the two-day sale gets underway at the Morphettville complex on Thursday morning.

As the Coolmore sensation's sole representative up for auction this week, the colt already stands apart and his exclusivity has been enhanced by the feats of his elder half-brother Blandford Baron (Extreme Warrior), who is trained by Travis Doudle and races in the Riverstone colours. Continued on page 3

Charmein Phelan buys ANZ News

ANZ Bloodstock News has been bought by Charmein Phelan from the industry-leading publication's owner, Spotlight Sports Group.

Established 20 years ago, ANZ Bloodstock News has long been a pillar in delivering bloodstock and racing news to a global audience. It was purchased by the Racing Post in 2017 and has continued to grow under its tutelage.

Phelan has been with the Racing Post, part of Spotlight Sports Group, since May 2022, most recently as global head of bloodstock, and said she was looking forward to leading ANZ Bloodstock News into a new chapter. Continued on page 7

The team at Riverstone, headed by general manager Nick Taylor and his assistant Billy Brooks, elected to stay in the colt and that decision has borne fruit with Blandford Baron breaking his maiden at Morphettville in impressive fashion last spring, before being unsuited by the attritional conditions at Flemington in the Inglis Banner (RL, 1000m).

While his half-brother still has some maturing to do, both physically and mentally, Brooks believes that the strides the colt has taken in recent weeks should stand him in good stead as the prized asset prepares for his ring entrance.

"He's probably still on the smaller side for a Home Affairs colt, but he's made a lot of progress in the last few weeks," Brooks told ANZ News.

"The mare is also on the smaller side so his size is to be expected, the half-brother was much the same but it hasn't stopped him from running well so I'm sure the buyers will look past that this week. There's no doubt he's got some more maturing to do, but he's still a very nice type and has handled everything well so far.

"I'm sure Travis [Doudle] will be interested in him and as the only Home Affairs at the sale, he should create plenty of interest. It's only the first day of inspections so we haven't been overly busy so far, but I'd like to think that things will pick up on day two and he'll be well received."

Aside from the Home Affairs colt, Brooks has high hopes for the sole filly in their five-strong draft, sired by Yulong's upwardly mobile stallion Tagalao (Lord Kanalao).

 With Salty Pearl having embellished Tagalao's sterling success with the fairer sex when she raced away with the VOBIS Platinum Guineas (1600m) at Caulfield last weekend, following three stakes placings to open her autumn campaign, the timing is opportunistic to put one of his fillies through the ring.
 "This filly would have to be my favourite from our draft," Brook told ANZ News. Cont. on page 5

“She looks good, she moves well, and she just wants to please you. Tagaloa is doing a very good job with his fillies and she really looks the part. Hopefully we can get a good result with her because she deserves to sell well with such a good attitude.”

Riverstone’s three other lots are all colts, sired by Darley’s experienced campaigner Tassort (Brazen Beau) and two freshmen in Artorius (Flying Artie) and Portland Sky (Deep Field). The latter’s colt (Lot 425) is an athletic type out of the stakes-placed mare Northern Glory (Northern Meteor), whose second foal Evening Glory (Smart Missile) won four times and placed on a further 11 occasions in his 34-start career.

Similarly, stakes-placed mare Miss Moana (Uncle Mo) - the dam of the Artorius colt (Lot 362) - has already shown she can produce a fast one with the team at Tricolours Racing holding a high opinion of her first foal, John Sargent’s unraced filly Beyond The Reef (Flying Artie).

While wary of making any outlandish predictions, Brooks is therefore hopeful that the trio of colts will all find good homes.

“They’ve all settled in nicely,” he told ANZ News.

“The market has been pretty selective recently, so it’s difficult to know what will sell well and what will struggle to fetch a good price. But all our horses have handled the travel well and settled in nicely, so the signs so far have been good.

“We’ll get a better guide of how things are placed over the next 24 hours, once we get through the initial inspections and we get a few more people through the barns. Hopefully we can get some good results for our clients.”

Once the two days of trading are over, Brooks and the rest of the team will dust off their raceday suits and board a flight north to Sydney to see if Shiki can extend Gai Waterhouse’s extraordinary Golden Slipper record in Saturday’s $5 million showpiece.

The first lady of Australian racing, who now trains in partnership with Adrian Bott, has saddled up the winner of the world’s richest juvenile race on no fewer than eight occasions. And although Shiki is considered a rank outsider at $101, Brooks has not given up hope of springing a surprise with a filly they sold to her co-trainers and Kurrinda Bloodstock for $420,000 on the Gold Coast last January - thereby returning a very healthy profit on their $150,000 investment at the 2024 Inglis National Weanling Sale.

“I definitely think she’s in with a chance of winning,” said Brooks.

“She’ll jump from barrier seven if the two emergencies don’t get a run, and she should be able to put herself right in the race from that gate. She’ll be up on the speed, like all Gai Waterhouse runners, and I think she’ll take some catching.

“We had her on the farm and we still own 20 per cent of her, so it’s very exciting to have a runner in the Slipper. We sold the half-sister by Ole Kirk for a good price [$380,000] to Gai and Adrian at the Magic Millions earlier this year, that was probably the highlight of the sales season for us so the dam [Just Excel] has been very good for the farm.”

Schofield confident Stretan Ruler is a leading Slipper contender

Chad Schofield believes he is aboard one of the key contenders in Saturday's Golden Slipper Stakes (Gr 1, 1200m) at Rosehill after seeking out the ride on the Phillip Stokes-trained colt Stretan Ruler (Wild Ruler) when he first arrived in Sydney. The colt impressed with a dominant victory in the Silver Slipper Stakes (Gr 2, 1100m) before finishing second to Paradoxium (Extreme Choice) in the Todman Stakes (Gr 2, 1200m), and will attempt to become the first horse since Farnan (Not A Single Doubt) in 2020 to complete the Silver Slipper-Golden Slipper double. "I'm in the game, I honestly wouldn't swap him for any other horse," Schofield said. "It's wide open, whatever wins the Slipper might be the one that gets the right run. In terms of ability of the horse I think I'm on the right one." Stretan Ruler drew midfield at the barrier draw and is rated a $13 chance, a price Schofield said surprised him given the colt's performances this preparation. "That Silver Slipper run was enormous, he got a good tempo and showed a devastating turn of foot and demoralised his opposition," the rider said. "His next run in the Todman was a very different race, it was a trot and canter and a sprint home for 300 metres. I thought Paradoxium was entitled to win that the way he did but I love my horse's strength the last 50 metres and through the line. A high pressure 1200 metres is what he wants and that's what he looks like he'll get in the Slipper. He does have good early speed, hopefully we can let him find his rhythm and unleash his turn of foot. Schofield will also partner Regal Award (Ole Kirk) for Stokes in the Darby Munro Stakes (Listed, 1200m), with the three-year-old resuming after finishing second in the Carbine Club Stakes (Gr 3, 1600m) in November. "He might find it a bit short on the weekend but he's a really nice horse going forward," Schofield said. "I worked him [Tuesday] morning and he's going well."

Rosehill Guineas to test Autumn Boy's Cox Plate credentials

Chris Waller will step Autumn Boy (The Autumn Sun) up to 2000 metres for the first time in Saturday's Rosehill Guineas (Gr 1, 2000m) as he looks to assess the colt's potential as a Cox Plate (Gr 1, 2040m) prospect later this year. The Caulfield Guineas (Gr 1, 1600m) winner had also been considered for the George Ryder Stakes (Gr 1, 1500m) on the Golden Slipper program, but Waller said the decision to target the Rosehill Guineas was about testing the colt's staying credentials rather than avoiding unbeaten stablemate Autumn Glow (The Autumn Sun). "We could have gone to the shorter option for him and run into Autumn Glow in a George Ryder and Doncaster, and we could still go to a Doncaster," Waller said. "But I want to know whether he is a solid, 2000-metre horse to see whether he's in a Cox Plate when he comes back in the spring." Autumn Boy has finished third in the Hobartville Stakes (Gr 2, 1400m) and second in the Randwick Guineas (Gr 1, 1600m) to Sheza Alibi (Saxon Warrior) at his two runs this campaign, and Waller expects the colt to peak third-up at Rosehill. "He ran into a pretty smart one last week, but he will be ready to peak as well third-up," he said. Waller confirmed blinkers, which were used during the colt's previous preparation, will not be applied on Saturday.

The Autumn Boy

"Precious" Extreme Choice pregnancy added to Chairman's Sale

Stakes-winning juvenile Kiki Express (Sepoy), in foal to world-class stallion Extreme Choice (Not A Single Doubt), is the latest star addition to what is building to be another stellar catalogue for the Inglis Chairman's Sale which will take place on May 7 in Sydney.

A daughter of champion two-year-old Sepoy (Elusive Quality), Kiki Express won the Debutant Stakes (Listed, 1000m) beating colts at Caulfield and is closely related to dual Group 1-winning sprinter Isca (Rory's Jester).

But it is in her secondary career as a broodmare that Kiki Express looks like making an even bigger impression.

In January this year, her first foal, a much-admired filly by nine-time Group 1-winning star Anamoe (Street Boss), realised $800,000 when offered by Newgate Farm, purchased by Matt Laurie Racing/Willannah Park Bloodstock/ARJB.

The reception by the market of that filly – no Anamoe yearling filly has sold for more – only enhances the appeal of her pregnancy to Extreme Choice.

The Newgate domiciled stallion has achieved extraordinary things in his stud career to date, with compromised fertility limiting the number of his progeny in each crop.

To date, he is the sire of over 12 per cent stakes winners to runners, with his six Group 1 winners including two-year-olds like Stay Inside, Devil Knight and She's Extreme, while colts Paradoxium and Hidrix will represent him in this Saturday's Golden Slipper (Gr 1, 1200m).

"Kiki Express is a spectacular looking mare and her first two foals have been both A++ physicals," Newgate Farm's Henry Field said.

"Her Anamoe filly, that sold for $800,000 earlier this year, was a beautiful filly and her Ozzmosis weanling filly is equally outstanding.

"She's a blue-chip investment, being a young, fast mare, proven to produce stunning foals and carrying an October cover to Extreme Choice.

"Extreme Choice has the highest Group 1 winners to runners ratio of any stallion on the planet and his Group winners to runners strike-rate is just under ten per cent, which is phenomenal.

"The Chairman's Sale is a tried and true formula for high-end mares and it's a sale we've enjoyed tremendous success at previously with the likes of She's Extreme, Montefilia and Icebath.

"We also have a strong line up of weanlings this year, one of our biggest ever for the Australian Weanling Sale, so we look forward to what will be an exciting week," added Field.

Inglis Bloodstock CEO Sebastian Hutch said he had expected no Extreme Choice pregnancy to be offered to the market this year given their scarcity, so is "delighted" to have Kiki Express committed to Chairman's.

"Extreme Choice is a freak and to have achieved what he has to date is quite incredible," said Hutch.

"As has been well documented, he doesn't have a lot of pregnancies in any given season, so this is a precious pregnancy, especially considering that Kiki Express was herself a very good two-year-old that has already produced a show-stopping yearling with her first foal.

Kiki Express

"There is no such thing as a 'certainty' in breeding and racing, but I think a package like this is as close as it gets and we are very grateful for the opportunity to offer her to the market," Hutch said.

In its short history, The Chairman's Sale has become one of the most significant events on the global bloodstock calendar.

In 2025 pregnant mares averaged $461,481, significantly higher than the average price of the top-100 pregnant mares sold at the Magic Millions National Sale of $369,200.

Entries for The Chairman's Sale must close this coming Friday, March 20.

Darby Munro likely target for Hidden Motive

Nathan Doyle concedes Hidden Motive (Capitalist) is unlikely to gain a start in Saturday's Galaxy (Gr 1, 1100m) at Rosehill, with the colt currently sitting 26th in the order of entry. Instead, the three-year-old is expected to line up in the Darby Munro Stakes, on the Rosehill card where he could again meet Beadman (Snitzel) and Inkaruna (I Am Invincible), who finished ahead of him when he resumed with a third in the Fireball Stakes (Listed, 1100m). "The Darby Munro is the only real option with him," Doyle said. "I'd say we'll be struggling to get into The Galaxy, but if he did make the field I'd definitely have a crack with him because he's an on-speed horse with no weight on his back." Hidden Motive defeated Beadman in the Roman Consul Stakes

(Gr 2, 1200m) over the same course and distance in the spring and Doyle expects improvement second-up. "He rails like a greyhound and flicks on corners, I think that's his best attribute," the trainer said. "He can ride a hot tempo, flick, then just maintain so Rosehill is going to suit him down to the ground. He's got a good attitude towards things. He's a good eating horse, he's pretty casual around the stables, so he doesn't overexert himself, which allows him to stay up, continue on as a racehorse and put his best foot forward." Doyle said the colt has traditionally improved deeper into his campaigns. "He's always a big roly-poly horse, so he takes a bit of time to come to hand," Doyle said. "That's probably shown in his last preparations as well, third-up when he won the Roman Consul was probably his best run. But we've had him in quite a while this time in. I think he's probably more forward than last preparation which he'll probably need to be, taking on that class. We're really pleased with the horse and how he's come on from that first-up run."

McNeil picks up William Reid ride on Angel Capital

Jye McNeil will partner Angel Capital (Harry Angel) in Saturday's William Reid Stakes (Gr 1, 1200m), with the Group 1 sprint to be run at Caulfield while Moonee Valley undergoes redevelopment. McNeil partnered the Chris Waller-trained entire in trackwork at Caulfield on Tuesday morning, taking the opportunity to familiarise himself with the four-year-old ahead of the race. Regular rider Ben Melham will be in Sydney chasing Golden Slipper success aboard Streisand, opening the door for McNeil to take the ride on the $6 second favourite. "He can look a bit tricky in his races, but this morning he was beautiful and relaxed and worked nicely," the jockey said. "He's a nice horse and I'm grateful to be given the opportunity. He does like Caulfield and hopefully he can put his best foot forward on Saturday." McNeil said he plans to speak with Melham before raceday to gain further insight into the horse. "Watching the replays, it looks like he can get a little bit strong, that's what I mean by a bit tricky, but this morning he never gave me that feel at all," McNeil said. "The 1200 [metres] out of the chute at Caulfield, it shouldn't be a problem. I'll speak to Ben, potentially. He's been on him a bit and between now and Saturday I'll hopefully have a chat to him and see what he thinks. It's a good race, with the good horses there, but on his day, he's more than capable."

Chayan favourite for Golden Slipper following draw

Chayan (I Am Invincible) was promoted to $5 outright favouritism for Saturday's $5 million Golden Slipper (Gr 1, 1200m) after the top six chances in betting drew gates ten or wider at the all-important barrier draw on Tuesday morning.

Winner of the Reisling Stakes (Gr 2, 1200m) on her most recent start, the Annabel and Rob Archibald-trained Chayan was drawn to start from 12 but will move into gate ten after the emergencies come out of Saturday's big race at Rosehill Gardens.

"I'm happy with that barrier for Chayan, she should be able to find a good position with cover," Annabel Archibald said. "But it is such an open race and it will come down to luck in running. Guest House has drawn well [barrier 10] and I think the Blue Diamond winner, Streisand, is the forgotten filly."

Connections believe Guest House (Home Affairs) has drawn ideally for Saturday's race after the colt came up with barrier ten. Assistant trainer Ben Elam, representing the stable of Mick Price and Michael Kent Jnr, said the gate should suit the big colt, who finished third in the Blue Diamond Stakes (Gr 1, 1200m) at his most recent start.

Guest House is expected to come into barrier eight should emergencies Gin Twist (Home Affairs) and Screen Icon (Nicconi) fail to gain a start.

Chayan

"I think the alley is perfect for him where he has got a bit of room to move," Elam said. "He's 565 kilograms - he's not a small two-year-old - he's a big-bodied colt who is quite athletic. He's not a heavy colt, he's athletic and he's very fast so if he's got a bit more room to move in the early part of what is going to be a high pressure Group 1 - we can't have him any fitter or better - so goes there with every chance."

Guest House firmed into $9 (from $11) following the barrier draw and fared best among the leading Victorian contenders. Blue Diamond (Gr 1, 1200m) winner Streisand (Magnus) drew barrier 11, runner-up Close To Free (Street Boss) came up with gate 17, while Stretan Ruler (Wild Ruler) will jump from barrier 13.

Canonbury Stakes (Gr 3, 1100m) winner Hidrix (Extreme Choice), one of three starters for Chris Waller, drew barrier one, historically the most successful gate in the Slipper with 11 winners, most recently Shinzo (Snitzel) in 2023, and firmed into $21 (from $51) following the draw.

Strictly Business set for Caulfield return

VRC Oaks (Gr 1, 2500m) winner Strictly Business (Grunt) is set to resume in Saturday's Sunline Stakes (Gr 2, 1600m) as Thomas Carberry plots a path towards the Australasian Oaks (Gr 1, 2000m) and South Australian Derby

(Gr 1, 2500m). One of the fairytale stories of last spring, Strictly Business rose from maiden winner to Oaks heroine in the space of 13 days and will begin her third racing preparation at Caulfield this weekend. While Carberry acknowledged the filly may already be suited by 2000 metres, he is inclined to start her over a mile before stepping up in distance towards the Adelaide carnival's staying features. "She might be looking more for the 2000 metres, to be honest, but with the future in mind, we'll start at a mile," the trainer said. "That way we can step to 2000 metres in a couple of weeks, and she'll have taken a few steps towards the Oaks in Adelaide. Even then, I think the 2000 metres there will be pushing on her lower limit, but she's a VRC Oaks winner, so she'll go there. But the 2500 metres of the Derby might suit her better, and fillies have a great record in that race - they've won the last two." Strictly Business has prepared for her return with two jump-outs against sharp opposition, most recently over 1200 metres at Ballarat last Thursday. Regular rider John Allen is expected to partner the filly again if he can reach her likely 54 kilogram impost.

Australian Cup next target for Pride Of Jenni

The Australian Cup (Gr 1, 2000m) at Flemington on March 28 looms as the likely next target for Pride Of Jenni (Pride Of Dubai) following the mare's gallop at Caulfield on Tuesday morning her trainer Ciaran Maher has revealed. Maher took a small team away from his Cranbourne base for trackwork, with the evergreen mare among those to stretch out ahead of a possible return on Australian Cup day. The Queen Of The Turf Stakes (Gr 1, 1600m) at Randwick on April 11 also remains under consideration. Pride Of Jenni resumed her campaign with a third placing behind Tom Kitten (Harry Angel) in the All-Star Mile (Gr 1, 1600m) at Flemington on March 7 and Maher said she had taken improvement from the run. "Dec [Declan Bates] said she was wanting to pull him in half early in the gallop, so that's always good to see," Maher said. "She had a nice blow after her first-up run where she ran pretty quick time, fresh up, so she will take natural improvement and she wasn't here to bring her on or anything, it was just a tick over gallop. I'm quite happy with how she came through her first-up run. Her weight is good, her action is good and she just had an easy time this morning. The Australian Cup or the Queen Of The Turf, is next, but at this stage the Australian Cup. You would think Flemington is more chance of being drier than Sydney, but the main thing is she came through it well and we'll track towards the Australian Cup."

Truck driver and three horses dead after accident in Victoria

A truck driver and three horses trained by Patrick and Michelle Payne have died following a road accident involving a horse transport truck in Victoria's west on Monday morning. The horses were being transported to Camperdown for jump-outs when the truck rolled on a sweeping bend shortly after 8am on Slate Quarry Road at Bamganie, near Meredith, about 100 kilometres west of Melbourne. Two horses died at the scene while a third died from injuries sustained in the accident. Payne Racing said in a statement. "The accident has deeply impacted the entire team as well as the wider racing community and we thank you for your support." The stable also paid tribute to truck driver Peter Butler, who died in the accident. "Peter brought character and laughter to our jump-out mornings and he will be sorely missed as a regular at our stable," the statement said. "Our thoughts are with the team at South West Horse Transport, Peter's work colleagues Troy, Bruce and Brooke. We would like to thank the emergency services and responders who attended the scene including Victoria Police, Ambulance Victoria, Country Fire Authority and SES volunteers and for the countless locals and members of the public who assisted at the scene. A special mention and thank you to the veterinarians and the entire team at Golden Plains Equine, we thank you for taking care of the six injured horses who survived."

O'Shea to appeal four-month ban

John O'Shea is set to appeal a four-month ban handed to him by Racing NSW stewards over conduct related charges. Racing NSW stewards announced the penalty for the Group 1-winning trainer on Tuesday, which he received following a lengthy inquiry into an incident at Rosehill on February 21. O'Shea was left upset after Racing NSW veterinarians made the call to scratch Bev's Nine (Shalaa) from a race having deemed the gelding to be 1/5th lame behind the barriers.

The four-year-old subsequently stretched his unbeaten record to five when successful at Canterbury six days later. In the aftermath of the Rosehill race, O'Shea was seen in discussions with Dr Carly Garling and Dr Claire Moore, which ultimately led to complaints being lodged and Racing NSW stewards launching an inquiry into the matter. More than six hours of evidence was heard at an inquiry on March 9 before O'Shea pleaded guilty to the charges. While announcing the penalty, Racing NSW revealed O'Shea's co-trainer Tom Charlton would receive a provisional training licence to train in his own right in the event that a stay of proceedings request lodged by O'Shea is unsuccessful.

Long-term plan dictates next mission for Omega Boy

RACE IMAGES

With a view to what the long-term future holds for last Saturday's Tauranga feature winner Omega Boy (Time Test), the Awapuni Gold Cup (Gr 2, 2100m) will be next on his schedule to assess his middle-distance potential. Off the back of a Rating 75 1400-metre win a fortnight before at Hawera, Peter and Trent Didham made a well calculated move to step their rapidly improving five-year-old up to Group company for the Japan Trophy (Gr 2, 1600m). Ridden by apprentice Sam McNab, Omega Boy proved right up to the task, finishing hard down the centre of the track to overhaul Sterling Express (Shamexpress) and fellow proven performers Khafre (American Pharoah) and

NZTR upholds Australian Racing registration embargo

New Zealand Thoroughbred Racing (NZTR) has confirmed that it will recognise and support the enforcement of key traceability provisions within the Australian rules of racing relating to broodmare returns and foal ownership declarations.

Some time ago, Racing Australia amended its rules of racing to prohibit any horse from racing unless both a mare return and a foal ownership declaration have been lodged in accordance with the Australian rules. These rules are now being actively enforced, and horses that have not complied with the requirements are being prohibited from being registered to race in Australia.

Under Australian rules of racing AR 285 and AR 286, the following requirements apply:

A mare return must be lodged with the Australian Stud Book by the manager of a broodmare, or their authorised agent, within 30 days of the broodmare giving birth to a live foal.

A foal ownership declaration must be lodged with Racing Australia by the manager of the foal, or their authorised agent, within 30 days of the foal's birth.

These provisions form part of the traceability section of the rules of racing and are designed to protect the integrity and image of horseracing while enhancing the welfare and lifetime traceability of thoroughbred horses.

Importantly, horses affected by this prohibition remain fully recognised as thoroughbreds. In cases where the required returns were lodged late, the horses have still been accepted and registered within the Australian Stud Book. As such, they are recognised as thoroughbred horses and are eligible for breeding purposes.

From a stud book perspective, these horses may still enter the New Zealand Thoroughbred Stud Book through the standard export and import process. They may be named and used for breeding purposes in the usual way. The restriction imposed in Australia applies only to racing eligibility within that jurisdiction.

The NZTR Racing and Integrity Committee recently considered whether New Zealand should recognise the Australian embargo when such horses are imported.

The committee determined that New Zealand should not provide a pathway that would allow participants to avoid the consequences of non-compliance with the Australian rules of racing. Accordingly, under rule 408(4), NZTR resolved that any horse prohibited from being registered to race in Australia due to non-compliance with AR 285 and AR 286 will not be approved for racing registration in New Zealand.

As a result, while a horse prohibited from racing in Australia under AR 287(1) may still be imported into New Zealand and recorded in the New Zealand Thoroughbred Stud Book, it will not be eligible to be registered for racing in New Zealand.

NZTR said the decision reinforces the importance of industry traceability requirements and supports the broader international framework designed to maintain confidence in thoroughbred racing and breeding.

Qali Al Farrasha (Almanzor). Peter Didham has since confirmed another Group 2 set weight and penalty feature for the gelding, the Awapuni Gold Cup at Trentham on Saturday week. "We've thought for a while that he would make a good middle-distance horse, so while he's at the top of his form is the ideal time to test him," Didham said. "The Wingatui race was tempting but at a rating of 79 he wouldn't have been very well placed under weight-for-age conditions and we decided on the Benchmark race up at Hawera. We were looking for a soft kill and that's exactly how it turned out. As well as giving him a confidence boost, winning that race got him out of that danger zone where horses in the high 70s, low 80s can find themselves. That took his rating to 83 and even though he was up against some decent types at Tauranga, he's just kept improving and we felt he deserved his chance at a race like that."

Entries open for 2026 NZB National Weanling Sale

Entries for New Zealand Bloodstock's 2026 National Weanling Sale are now open, with the sale to be held at Karaka on June 25. The weanling session has proven a popular avenue for buyers seeking pinhook prospects and future racetrack performers, while also providing breeders with access to a strong domestic and international buying bench. More than $2.5 million was returned to breeders at last year's edition, headed by a $190,000 colt by Per Incanto (Street Cry) offered by Seaton Park. Four weanlings realised $100,000 or more during the sale. Following another successful sales season in New Zealand, NZB managing director Andrew Seabrook said the sale continues to be a proven source of talent. "Industry players know the National Weanling Sale is a proven source of genuine racehorses and pinhooking success. After a strong yearling sale, the demand for weanlings in June is going to be as strong as ever," he said. "Last year, the Australian support of the sale grew, so we look forward to producing a catalogue that will entice them back to Karaka again." Entries close on April 16. To enter the sale, visit NZB's online portal at portal.nzb.co.nz. All weanlings offered are eligible to be nominated for the Karaka Millions Series.

Elite nursery Daandine Stud celebrates a century of success

By Tayla Dyke

From its base in Queensland's picturesque Goomburra Valley, Daandine Stud is celebrating a century in the thoroughbred industry, a milestone that reflects generations of family involvement and a breeding philosophy that has consistently produced elite racehorses from a modest broodmare band.

Run by Jan Clark alongside fellow director John Robbins and stud manager Gerard Jones, the Darling Downs nursery operates on a scale far smaller than many commercial farms, with just 20 mares. Yet despite its boutique size, Daandine has produced some of the most recognisable names in Australian racing and breeding.

Among them are champion stallion Written Tycoon (Iglesia), Champion 2YO Colt turned stallion Capitalist (Written Tycoon) and dual Group 1 winner Southport Tycoon (Written Tycoon), who now stands at Widden Stud in Victoria.

The honour roll more recently includes star mare Isotope (Deep Field), who sold to Yulong Stud for $2.3 million in 2023. Her first foal, a filly by Alabama Express (Redoute's Choice), will be offered at the upcoming Inglis Easter Yearling Sale as Lot 356.

Emerging runners such as Ciaron Maher's unbeaten filly Educated (Zoustar) and Hong Kong's Salon S (Zousain), who is now three-from-three in the jurisdiction, have continued to underline the farm's ability to produce high-quality performers.

"People are starting to know that Daandine produces winners," Robbins said. "We've got a good name throughout, probably Australia, and our name is getting stronger every year. We get repeat buyers, particularly in January."

The farm's roots stretch back more than a century. Clark represents the fourth generation of her family involved in the operation, which became a commercial enterprise in 1926 before relocating to the fertile Goomburra Valley in 1948.

The farm's identity is also reflected in its distinctive brand, a crescent symbol that has become a recognisable mark on horses raised at Daandine and a nod to the Clark family's history. The brand has been used by the family for generations and remains one of the farm's most enduring traditions.

"We still brand the old Queensland way," Clark said. "My family had sailing yachts in the 1840s, and there was always a black crescent on the sail. I'm not sure of the exact origins, because I never knew my grandfather or my great grandfather. And Dad didn't seem to know, but we've always had that brand registered."

"My great grandfather James Clark started out," Clark said. "There's been four generations of the Clarks involved, and they turned commercial in about 1926. So we are 100 years old. It's generational and it's genetic with me.

"It's in a beautiful part of the world, it's in a valley with the beautiful Dalrymple Creek running through it, so it's creek flats. Very good water with high calcium."

Robbins believes the land itself plays a role in the development of the farm's young horses.

"We had some water tested there when we put a new bore down and we were told this water has got the highest calcium percentage that he has ever stuck," Robbins said. "That helps bone growth and development and all the stuff. That's a plus. We have nearly 1400 acres of it. It's all in horse country."

While Daandine has long been involved in breeding, Robbins believes the modern era of the farm began with a strategic shift more than a decade ago.

"I think the changing point, as far as the horse side of the business goes, is when we upgraded in 2012," he said. "We realised we had to do something if we wanted to stay on this side of the business. We needed to have better mares and select stallions."

To help drive that change, the farm enlisted bloodstock agent Craig Rounsefell of Boomer Bloodstock, beginning with the purchase of mare Kitalpha (Fusaichi Pegasus) for $82,500 at the 2012 Magic Millions National Broodmare Sale.

The mating that followed would produce one of the farm's most famous graduates.

"It's what we aimed to do when we upgraded in 2012," Clark said. "Kitalpha was one of the first two mares we bought in the upgrade program. So we didn't really expect to do that well that quickly. But it just happened, because we aimed at that market."

In what proved perfect timing for the farm's upgrade program, Written Tycoon had just been crowned Champion First Season Sire of 2010-11 and stood the 2012 season at Eliza Park's Innisplain property in Queensland before returning permanently to Victoria.

"Written Tycoon came up to Queensland, and we took advantage of that, and his service fee was nowhere near where it is now. When he came up to Queensland, with the two mares we had bought, we made a beeline for him."

The resulting foal was Capitalist, who was sold for $165,000 to James Harron and Snowden Racing at the 2015 Magic Millions Gold Coast Yearling Sale before going on to become the first colt to win the Breeders' Plate (Listed, 1000m), Magic Millions 2YO Classic (RL, 1200m) and the Golden Slipper (Gr 1, 1200m).

"He was the cheapest one that James Harron bought that year," Clark said. "They probably looked at him 25 or 30 times. He and Snowden would come at different times of the day to see how his demeanour was and he was perfect."

Capitalist later joined the roster at Newgate Farm and has since become a rather successful stallion, siring 452 winners including 29 at stakes level and two elite-level winners.

"I think it's every breeder's dream to win a Golden Slipper and we were very lucky and appreciate very much what it took to do that," she said. "Particularly, given we had bred the stallion as well. From a small farm from humble beginnings and that's the result. But we'd like to do it again, too."

Despite producing elite performers, Daandine has intentionally remained a small operation, focusing on quality rather than numbers.

"We only have 20 mares and we send all the mares away, mainly to the Hunter Valley and to the top Queensland sires," Robbins said. "What we aim for is early, two-year-old speed."

Explaining the process, Clark said: "We have a meeting and then it's a team contribution between us, Gerard and Craig, as to who and where we go for the final decision. So, it's a team effort."

Robbins added: "It's the most expensive part of the business, so you have to try and get it right. And we've been fairly successful."

Clark believes the strength of the farm lies not only in its breeding strategy but in the people behind the operation.

"It was unbelievable to think, just a couple of years after that we produced the winner of the Magic Millions and the Golden Slipper," she said. "We achieved our goal remarkably quickly. And we've done it with the help of other people. John and Craig have been an integral part of all of that. And, of course, our staff."

Four permanent staff live and work on the property, with additional casual help assisting during busy periods such as yearling preparation. Robbins and Clark believe the team has been a crucial part of the farm's continued success.

"I'd say that we've got to give a lot of credit to the staff we've got now," he said. "They're the best team you could ever put together. And they're a happy team. They work well together."

Stud manager Gerard Jones said the farm's growing reputation at the sales reflects improvements in both systems and a clearer understanding of the type of horse Daandine wants to produce.

"We've really started to identify the product we want to bring to the sales, and it's starting to show with the results," Jones said.

"Having the team we've got there now, we can do that, and from January and this sale here [Easter], it shows you that the systems we've got are producing a nice type. And the buyers want to put their hand up for us."

Despite producing high-profile graduates, Clark emphasised that the farm's goal remains to cater to a wide range of buyers.

"I think we've accomplished a lot for being a very small stud, with not many mares," she said. "But a lot goes into the fact that teamwork and what we've chosen to do, we produce horses for all budgets."

Robbins believes that philosophy has helped build a loyal client base that continues to return year after year.

"Anyone can buy a horse off us and we have winners every week, everywhere," he said. "We have a horse for every budget and that's why we get people coming back."

For Clark, the approach is simple - keep the operation practical, stay loyal to the people involved and allow the horses to develop naturally.

"With me it's genetic," she said. "I just have to do it. So we just continue to try and get better and keep it simple and natural. We let them grow out naturally and just be horses, and it is working."

And while Daandine has already achieved what many breeders only dream of, Clark said the excitement of what might come next never fades.

"Every time we look at the weanlings," she said, "you just don't know which one might be the next one, do you?"

Gear change for Guest House as Price aims for breakthrough Slipper win

By Trevor Marshallsea

Mick Price is hoping a crossover noseband can improve the focus of the headstrong Guest House (Home Affairs) as he seeks a breakthrough victory for his trainer and strives to improve the recent record of colts in Saturday's Golden Slipper (Gr 1, 1200m).

Having his first run in a month since his third in Caulfield's Blue Diamond Stakes (Gr 1, 1200m), Guest House could raise a couple of firsts if successful in the $5 million Rosehill highlight.

It would bring an affirming early Group 1 for his sire Home Affairs. Coolmore's young stallion - looking likely for a service fee boost from his $82,500 of 2025 - is off to a flyer, leading the first season sires' tables on both sides of the Tasman, with a Group 2 winner in New Zealand and a Listed victor in Australia.

Guest House counts as his highest earner though he's yet to crack a stakes victory, having debuted with a two-year-old handicap win at his home track of Cranbourne before a tough second in the Blue Diamond Prelude (Gr 3, 1100m), and his third in the main event.

For all of Price's successes - he won 35 Group 1s solo and has 13 in partnership with Michael Kent Jnr - the respected trainer is still chasing a first win among Australia's Big Four of the Slipper, the Melbourne Cup (Gr 1, 3200m), Cox Plate (Gr 1, 2040m) and Caulfield Cup (Gr 1, 2400m).

He has a strong record with juveniles having won the Blue Diamond twice, with Samaready (More Than Ready) in 2012 and Extreme Choice (Not A Single Doubt) in 2016.

But he's only come tantalisingly close in the Slipper, claiming thirds with Samaready and then with Flying Artie (Artie Schiller) in 2016, and fourth with Ready For Victory (More Than Ready) in 2015, when that colt ran wide on the home turn and only wider down the home straight.

While a Slipper win for a colt wouldn't count as a first, Australia's greatest stallion-making race has been dominated by fillies in recent years, to the chagrin of some.

Females have won six of the past nine editions, the past two thanks to Marhoona (Snitzel) and Lady Of Camelot (Written Tycoon), and with Fireburn's (Rebel Dane) 2022 victory giving them three of the past four.

The three colt winners in that nine-year period have gone to stud. Farnan (Not A Single Doubt) and Stay Inside (Extreme Choice) are making a good fist of it so far in their early seasons with runners, while Shinzo's (Snitzel) eldest are foals.

Therefore a victory for Guest House would be warmly appreciated by Price, who bought the colt with Roll The Dice racing and Rogers Bloodstock for $270,000 from Newgate Farm's draft at 2025's Magic Millions Gold Coast Yearling Sale.

"I'd love to win it. I've been thereabouts but no victory so far," said Price, who's won his share of other stallion-makers such as Extreme Choice's Blue Diamond, and the three-year-old Flying Artie's Coolmore Stud Stakes (Gr 1, 1200m).

"The Slipper is the ultimate two-year-old race in Australia. The fillies have done well in the race lately. They're lighter, sharper and faster. Colts are not easy. They get things wrong and misbehave.

"But usually any colt who wins the Slipper will find a good home at stud, and hopefully it's Guest House."

The sixth foal of the twice stakes-placed Flamboyant Lass (Stratum), Guest House was sent out a $4.80 second favourite in the Blue Diamond behind $4.60 shot Closer To Free (Street Boss), Danny O'Brien's colt who ultimately finished second behind Streisand (Magnus).

Guest House's run for third was meritorious, weaving a passage home after being blocked early in the straight having trailed the leader, and being beaten one length. Yet he didn't show a great burst of acceleration once clear, rather taking time to work through his gears before hitting the line strongly.

Price is hoping the addition of a crossover noseband will help make him more responsive. At the same time he accepts the sizeable colt will take his time to hit top speed, and is hopeful a faster tempo and the longer Rosehill straight will help his Slipper chances.

“I was happy with the Blue Diamond run,” Price told ANZ News.

“Whilst he got a little bit wrong and he had to zig zag in the straight, I still thought he ran very well. He might not have been smoking up, but he was still finding the line at the finish.

“He’s a big horse and it did take him a while to get going, and that’s the thing about him. The Slipper’s a big, open, 1200-metre race and there’s usually speed on - they don’t usually sit up - and I think that part will suit him.

“The thing about the Slipper is you’ve got to find your position by the first corner. If you’re three-wide and posted after that corner it’s never beneficial. Hopefully that’s not him.

“He needs to do things correctly, to bounce out and put himself in a reasonable position.

He’s not the quickest out of the barriers, but hopefully he can muster up and find a good position after 400 or 500 metres, and when they get to that corner, hopefully he’s found a good position.”

Price said Guest House had been working well clockwise since settling in at the stable’s Rosehill satellite base, and would finish his preparation with a Tuesday morning gallop under race jockey Zac Lloyd.

“The only change we’ve made is a crossover rubber noseband - just for a bit of control and to just keep his mouth closed, and so the rider gets a bit of a proper response from him,” Price said. “He wasn’t quite respecting the bit and the bridle, but now he seems to be pretty respectful of it.”

Guest House goes into the world’s richest two-year-old race without a barrier trial since his last run, in the Blue Diamond. Price believes that will add freshness to the equation of trying to have the colt on-song for two major assignments a month apart.

“I get the Slipper picture has changed since the Blue Diamond,” he said. “The difficulty will be trying to peak him twice. He was ready to go in the Blue Diamond and he came very close there.

“But I would say, he’s a big, strong, robust colt, he’s got no issues with his knees, shins, or joints, and his immune system is good.

“He’s been lovely and bright since he’s been in Sydney and he’s eating well. So I don’t think he’s trained off, and I think he’ll run very well towards the end of the Slipper.”

The Price-Kent stable initially looked set to have a double barrelled colts attack on the Slipper. But Big Sky (Bivouac), after winning his first two starts to earn Blue Diamond favouritism, was scratched from the Caulfield feature for lameness and subsequently sent to the paddock following minor surgery “to have a cartilage clean-out,” Price said.

“The spell will do him the world of good,” the trainer said. “He’s an immature type of horse, so I think he’ll be a lovely horse in the spring.”

VERDICT Glorious Ryder is well worth a second look down in class while Lucky Blessing, Sterling Wongchoy and Wah May Wai Wai also make the shortlist. However, the selection is TELECOM POWER who has only been stepped up to this trip for his last two starts and has been placed both times. There may still be more to come from him over this far. VERDICT Beauty Thunder has to be respected given his record over C&D (41222) while the well-drawn pair Heroic Master and Savvy Twinkle are also worthy of respect. Happy United has dropped to a dangerous mark and could bounce back at any time, but the vote goes to the topweight PARENTS' LOVE who possesses plenty of early speed and won over C&D the last time he raced at this level. BETTING FORECAST: 4 Legend Star, 6 World Hero, 7 Goko Win, Superb King, Very Grateful, 8 Free Pony, 10 Zephyr, 12 Quartz Legend, 14 Fortune Supernova, Marvel And Gold, Trendy Rush, 16 Magic Super.
VERDICT Goko Win and World Hero are both below their latest winning marks so could go well, while C&D winner Free Pony is another for the shortlist. Zephyr looks to have a bigger effort in him but, despite another 7lb rise, LEGEND STAR can make it three wins from his last three visits here. [David Bellingham]

VERDICT In a somewhat uncompetitive Class 4 the suggestion is SWAGGER BRO, who ran quite well from a tough draw over 7f at Sha Tin this month and is now 8lb lower than when making the frame over C&D on his stable debut in December. Recent C&D winner Rainbow Seven is well drawn again and feared most, while Holmes A Court and Winning Champion might also feature. [Chris Wilson]

VERDICT Reliable Dad was placed when upped to this trip at Sha Tin last month and, after only four starts, probably still has some potential. However, ACE WAR was a very convincing 1m3f winner here on his recent stable debut and is taken to overcome his recent 8lb rise. Amazing Gaze also makes significant appeal. [Chris Wilson]

BETTING FORECAST: 6-4 Colourful King, 9-2 Romantic Son, 7 Brave Star, Young Champion, 8 Magic Control, 14 Crimson Flash, Gustosissimo, 20 Chateaufneuf, Son Pak Fu, 33 Kahoalo Angel.
VERDICT Improving 4yo Colourful King was probably unlikely not to win a 5f Group 3 handicap at Sha Tin in January, having persistently been denied a clear run, and remains of strong interest but he's not sure to be as effective over this C&D. He is opposed with ROMANTIC SON, who has won his last two over C&D and is much better drawn than last time. Young Champion and Magic Control can also feature. [Chris Wilson] VERDICT Several of these have possibilities but the suggestion is MASTEROFMYUNIVERSE, who evidently wasn't suited by the Sha Tin dirt ten days ago but drops in grade for this quick return to turf and has become quite well handicapped. Lucky Planet is second choice, ahead of Power Kopp, Aurio and Storming Dragon. VERDICT Zac Purton's mount Max Que seems sure to be right in the thick of things again but slight preference is for WITHALLMYFAITH, who has been knocking on the door this year and has a favourable draw today. Do You Part moves up to 1m after a string of good efforts over 7f, while Stormi has won his last three and it will be interesting to see how well he copes with today's rise in grade.
