Atlantic Jewel's orphan foal an 'outstanding colt'

Six weeks on from the devastating death of champion mare Atlantic Jewel (Fastnet Rock), who made her name on Australian racetracks and was building a reputation as a high-class broodmare, her sixth and last foal, by unbeaten US Triple Crown winner Justify (Scat Daddy), is a picture of health. "It was a very sad day for everyone at Coolmore when we lost the great mare Atlantic Jewel while foaling," Coolmore stud manager John Kennedy said yesterday. "We were fortunate enough to save her Justify colt who has continued to go from strength to strength on his foster mother, which is great for his owners Laurie Macri, Mathilde Texier and others. He is an outstanding colt, one of the best bred on the farm so far this year, and we look forward to presenting him at the sales in the future." Atlantic Jewel's best-performed offspring to date is this year's Royal Ascot Hampton Court Stakes (Gr 3, 1m 2f) winner Russian Emperor (Galileo). She also has an unraced filly and colt by Galileo (Sadler's Wells) in Europe.

Hope trans-Tasman travel bubble will be in place for 2021 yearling sales

BY TIM ROWE | @ANZ_NEWS

There is growing optimism of a trans-Tasman travel bubble being in place in time for the 2021 Australasian yearling sales that would enable agents and trainers Continued on page 3>>>

<< Continued from page 1 to easily attend auctions in Australia and New Zealand but stakeholders warn the floated plans are not over the line. Such a move between the two governments would, in particular, provide a significant boost to the prospects of a relatively healthy New Zealand Bloodstock Karaka Yearling Sale next January.

For months, NZB had debated whether to delay its national sale to April next year in the hope of more favourable economic conditions and a loosening of travel restrictions relating to the Covid-19 pandemic but in the end chose to maintain its traditional slot following the Magic Millions offering on the Gold Coast.

Australian Prime Minister Scott Morrison and New Zealand counterpart Jacinda Ardern, who is facing an election on October 17, have this week pledged support towards an outcome that would allow travel between the two countries.

New Zealand's foreign affairs minister Winston Peters, who also acts as racing minister, has also publicly backed calls for the bubble to be implemented which would also facilitate buyers being able to attend the respective Inglis sales in Sydney and Melbourne next year.

Andrew Seabrook, NZB's managing director, yesterday welcomed the speculation but stopped short of suggesting Australian participants will definitely be on the ground at Karaka next year.

"That would be fantastic for Karaka if they were, but I am not as confident as what they are saying on TV," Seabrook told ANZ Bloodstock News yesterday.

"It's not just the horse industry (who wants the borders open), but every industry. Tourism is our biggest industry in New Zealand and you would hardly find a person who isn't desperate for the borders to be open and it's great to have Winston, as the racing minister, speaking on the subject of getting the borders open.

"I'm cautiously optimistic, so fingers crossed we do get a bubble in place, but we don't want to get ahead of ourselves just yet."

Ardern and Morrison discussed the travel bubble issue on Tuesday night and the New Zealand Prime Minister yesterday suggested the ability to trace and prevent travellers located in Australian Covid-19 hotspots remains as a sticking point on the trans-Tasman bubble proposal.

"Essentially what a hotspot system would do, it would shut down those areas where there were heightened cases, while allowing the rest to be open. And so absolutely, we can also make that work," Ardern told AAP.

"What we just need to hear a bit more from Australia on is what the definition of a hotspot will be, how they'll manage the state borders in those situations, but we're working that through."

Ardern suggested that even if concerns over hotspots could not be resolved, New Zealanders may be allowed to travel to Australia in the very near future.

"There is a chance that we could have Australia simply open to New Zealand because of our status and where we are right now, which is pretty good," Ardern told AAP.

"They could just say, 'Well, look one-way (travel from New Zealand to Australia) is fine by us' until we work through some of the detail, and it's a possibility."

Seabrook yesterday maintained NZB's position that the auction house had made the right call by keeping the national sale in January.

Australian PM Scott Morrison supports the plan

"If they come out now and say, 'look, the border's going to open in April' we still believe January is the time to go, rather than going after 3000 yearlings have been through in Australia and $300-odd million already being spent," he said.

"It would be a very nice bonus if the borders did open come January ... because the Australians I have spoken to say they are keen to come to the sale. It would be massive if it did happen."

There is no suggestion, however, that a travel bubble will be in place in time for the upcoming Inglis Ready2Race Sale or the Magic Millions Gold Coast 2YOs in Training Sale, nor the NZB Ready to Run Sale on November 18 and 19.

"Auckland will be going to Level 1 (Covid-19 restrictions) shortly, I'm sure, as long as everything stays the same and it will still be a physical sale with all the Kiwis live on site, of course, and people from around the world will be bidding via online," Seabrook said.

"The great thing about the Australians, most of them have got good relationships with people over here who they can rely on to look at horses and do the necessary groundwork for them.

"That statistic of 20 Group 1 wins in the last five years coming from ready to run sales in Australasia, 19 of them are from Karaka, should make buyers realise that it is head and shoulders the best two-year-old sale in the southern hemisphere on performance."

Meanwhile, NSW Premier Gladys Berejiklian also weighed in on the trans-Tasman travel bubble yesterday, saying she would endorse any plan that would allow New Zealanders to travel to the state.

"NSW is saying to every part of Australia, except for Victoria, and understandably, to WA, to Queensland, South Australia, 'you are welcome to NSW'," Berejiklian told Channel Nine.

"We believe our system is resilient enough. If we are saying that to other states and New Zealand is about the same situation, I think it is important for us to consider those opportunities. I would also hope that it's reciprocal."

MORNING BRIEFING

AUSTRALIA

MiRunners pick up Eduardo for Everest

MiRunners have picked up the Joe Pride-trained Eduardo (Host) for The Everest (Gr 1, 1200m) on October 17. The group had previously booked in Rothfire to run in the $15 million sprint, but he was ruled out of the race after pulling up lame following the Golden Rose (Gr 1, 1400m) on Saturday. The dual Group 2-winning seven-year-old was last seen finishing runner-up in The Shorts (Gr 2, 1100m) behind fellow Everest contender Classique Legend (Not A Single Doubt) at Randwick last month. Eduardo will be ridden by Rachel King at Randwick.

Trekking in The Everest

Eduardo will line up alongside Godolphin sprinter Trekking (Street Cry), who will represent the slot held by prominent owners and racing identities Max Whitby and Neil Werrett. The dual Group 1 winner, who was third in the 2019 edition after an enterprising Tommy Berry ride and last seen finishing runner-up to Pippie (Written Tycoon) in the Moir Stakes (Gr 1, 1000m) on Friday evening, joined his James Cummings-trained stablemate Bivouac (Exceed And Excel) in the line-up after he was locked in for Godolphin's slot on Monday. "To have two horses in a race like this is always going to be a great thing," Cummings said. "But this is a lot more than merely having two horses in The Everest, this is a case of having two horses in the race that we believe can win it." Only two Everest places remain vacant with Chris Waller Racing and James Harron yet to announce their picks.

Champagne on ice for Nettoyer

It is nothing new for a trainer to pop open the bubbly if their horse wins a Group 1, but Wendy Roche will do it with a twist if Nettoyer (Sebring) lands the Epsom Handicap (Gr 1, 1600m) on Saturday. The seven-year-old mare is almost as famous for her unconventional diet of pizza and champagne as she is for her racetrack exploits and Roche has promised a memorable celebration if Nettoyer triumphs at Randwick. "If she wins the Epsom, I will guarantee everyone she will be drinking champagne out of the trophy," Roche said. Nettoyer will bid to become the first horse since Racing To Win (Encosta De Lago) in 2006 to claim Randwick's two major mile handicaps in the same calendar year, after landing the Doncaster Mile (Gr 1, 1600m) in April. It would appear a tall order after she finished 12th first-up in the Chelmsford Stakes (Gr 2, 1600m) last month, but Roche believes she is just coming into her own. "I would say she is only just mature physically," Roche said. "Mentally, I don't think she will ever be mature." All going well, Nettoyer will head to Melbourne after for the Cox Plate (Gr 1, 2040m).

Prized draw for Brandenburg

John Sargent is delighted with the Epsom Handicap draw of Brandenburg (Burgundy), after the dual Group 1 placegetter was given barrier three for Saturday's star-studded event. Brandenburg, who won the Hobartville Stakes (Gr 2, 1400m) last season, finished third in the Bill Ritchie Handicap (Gr 3, 1400m) last time out and Sargent is pleased with his condition heading into the Group 1. "The three marble is a big help, but a mile at Randwick everyone has got a chance," Sargent told Sky Sports Radio. "Jason [Collett] galloped him on the course proper at Randwick and he galloped very well. He can position himself, from that draw, in the first half a dozen. Hopefully he will get a bit of room and hit the line strongly. I think the mile, as he showed in the Doncaster, is a trip that he will do nicely in and will hit the line strongly with his breeding. He is peaking for this and hopefully he runs well and then onto the Golden Eagle."

Dry track to suit Hush Writer

Hush Writer

SPORTPIX

Co-trainer Adrian Bott believes Hush Writer (Rulership) will appreciate the anticipated dry conditions ahead of the Metropolitan Handicap (Gr 1, 2400m) this weekend after failing on rain-affected ground when finishing eighth in the race 12 months ago. Hush Writer arrives at Randwick on Saturday following his runner-up effort to the reopposing Mugatoo (Henrythenavigator) in the Newcastle Gold Cup (Gr 3, 2300m) last time out. "Last year we just didn't get the conditions on the day so the key is if we can get a dry track on Saturday," Bott said. "He is just a very happy horse at present. I thought he was going into the race last year in excellent order but I feel this year we might just have him open to that bit more improvement out of the Newcastle Cup. He was only second-up there in the Newcastle Cup so I thought it was a very tough effort to lead from the outset."

Enthaar set to live up to raps

Ciaran Maher is expecting Enthaar (Written Tycoon) to live up to the promise she showed in the official two-year-old trials last month, where she won by five lengths at Randwick under James McDonald. Following her impressive display, Enthaar has been installed as the warm favourite for the Gimcrack Stakes (Group 3, 1000m) on Saturday and Maher said champion jockey McDonald was keen to align himself with the filly. "I would say you'd need a crowbar to get him off," Maher, who trains in partnership with David Eustace, told Racing NSW. "We thought she was the one, we gave her a little jump out in Melbourne and then when she had a jump out at Warwick Farm she was equally impressive again. So it was no surprise what she did the other day. Her sectionals were impressive and the way she did it was impressive for me. She's an exciting horse for sure."

Verry Elleegant heading to Melbourne

Chris Waller has confirmed Verry Elleegant (Zed) will head to Melbourne for the Turnbull Stakes (Gr 1, 2000m) at Flemington. The multiple Group 1 winner was a dual acceptor in two states but will be scratched from the Hill Stakes (Gr 2, 1800m) at Randwick. Stablemate Finche (Frankel) was likewise paid up for both races and will join Verry Elleegant in the Victorian feature. Waller has also determined Flemington as the better option for Shared Ambition (Born To Sea), who will be scratched from the Metropolitan Handicap in preference for The Bart Cummings (Gr 3, 2500m). In another reshuffle, Kolding (Ocean Park) will head to the Hill Stakes after drawing barrier 20 in the Epsom Handicap. Giving an update on his Saturday runners, Waller's stable announced on twitter: "We have had a good look at the form for the races on Saturday and have decided that Kolding will run in the Group 2 Hill Stakes. Verry Elleegant, Finche and Shared Ambition will all travel to Melbourne and run in the Turnbull Stakes and the Bart Cummings respectively."

Baby ready to spring Turnbull surprise

Paul Preusker is excited to see his star stayer Surprise Baby (Shocking) in the Turnbull Stakes on Saturday, but identifies the Melbourne Cup (Gr 1, 3200m) as his main target. "He's going to be a good winning chance but for me, it's all about having a spar to get him right for the Melbourne Cup," Preusker said. "He worked super on Tuesday. Not too taxing, just beautiful and he's up for the fight on Saturday." Preusker was pleased with Surprise Baby's first-up second to Humidor (Teofilo) in the Feehan Stakes (Gr 2, 1600m) at Moonee Valley on September 5, which was the gelding's first start since finishing fifth in last year's Melbourne Cup, and the trainer is willing to bypass the Cox Plate to give them a better chance of winning in Melbourne this year. "We've got to be sensible. I don't want to sacrifice a Melbourne Cup by running in the Cox Plate," Preusker said. "He'll start on Saturday and then we'll unwind and make the right decision as to whether he has another run before it."

Steel Prince chasing cup berth

Still Prince (Nathaniel) will be trying to win his way into the Melbourne Cup when running in The Bart Cummings this weekend, with the winner earning a golden ticket into the two-mile showpiece. Last year Steel Prince secured a start in the Melbourne Cup by defeating Surprise Baby in the Andrew Ramsden Stakes (Listed, 2800m) and, as Steel Prince is number 38 in this year's Melbourne Cup order of entry, co-trainer Sam Freedman says he needs to win again to be assured of a spot, following a close third behind Orderofthegar (Galileo) in the Naturalism Stakes (Gr 3, 2000m) last time out. "At his last start he blew out late which was his second run in 12 months. He's taken a lot of benefit from it," Freedman told RSN radio. "You know he loves a scrap. Hopefully he can get another spot in the Melbourne Cup."

Newitt booked for Glenfiddich

Craig Newitt is delighted to secure the ride on the Peter Moody-trained Glenfiddich (Fastnet Rock) in the Cox Plate and believes the three-year-old has a strong chance at Moonee Valley. Moody's long-time rider Luke Nolen rode the colt to victory in the Stutt Stakes (Gr 2, 1600m) on Friday night and will be back on board for the Caulfield Guineas (Gr 2, 1600m), but with Glenfiddich only having to carry 49.5kg in the Cox Plate, Newitt got the call up for the second time after partnering the son of Fastnet Rock to a first-up third in the Memsie Stakes (Gr 1, 1400m) in August. "It was great to lock it in and he's definitely got a lot of class, I would have been disappointed if they'd gone with someone else down at that weight," Newitt told Racing.com. "I learnt a lot from my ride on him in the Memsie and then also Luke rode him perfectly the other night, that's obviously his pattern where he's comfortable to get out in front. I think he's in with a really good chance against them in the Cox Plate."

Pierro to the fore at Randwick

Pierro

COOLMORE

Two of Pierro's progressive three-year-olds made their mark on the midweek meeting at Randwick and earned themselves a shot at black-type races in October. Darling Diamond, who is out of 2014 Queen Of The Turf Stakes (Gr 1, 1400m) winner Diamond Drille (Al Maher), scored by two lengths in the Sky Racing Active Plate (1400m) for trainer Mark Newnham. "She is a lovely, well-bred filly who has kept improving the whole prep," Newnham said. "Her first ever trial she showed a bit of talent straight away and we put her in the paddock. I think she will keep getting better so the autumn will be more her time." Newnham nominated the Reginald Allen Stakes (Listed, 1400m) at Randwick on October 17 as her target. Another of Pierro's progeny, Private Cheetah, scored in the second race for John and Gary Moore. "He's got a lot of ability and I'm sure he's going to go on from today," Moore said. "We're probably going to look at the Brian Crowley Stakes (Listed, 1200m) with him."

Redwood Shadow emerges a Derby chance

The powerful Mick Price and Michael Kent Junior stable may have another string to add to their attack on the Victoria Derby (Gr 1, 2500m) with Ballarat winner Redwood Shadow (Redwood). Redwood Shadow is one of eight horses they have nominated for the Victoria Derby and their Warrnambool stable foreman Matthew Williams identified it as an option after his easy win over 1600 metres on Wednesday. "He looks like he's got a nice future. He's still learning but he's a nice horse," Williams said. "He's still in the Victoria Derby. It could come up too quickly but it's an option."

$425,000 Golden Horn colt wins first start

Golden Horn

DARLEY

Around The Horn (3 c ex Paper Round by Street City) brought up a debut win for both horse and stallion at Murray Bridge yesterday for Tony and Calvin McEvoy. The Victoria-bred Around The Horn, who cost $425,000 from the 2019 Inglis Melbourne Premier Yearling sales, is the first Australian winner for Golden Horn, who stood at Dalham Hall Stud, Newmarket for £40,000 (Approx AUD$72,000) in 2020.

Farnan has exhibition gallop

Gai Waterhouse and Adrian Bott sent Farnan (Not A Single Doubt) for an exhibition gallop at Randwick yesterday, which was his first public appearance following his fifth-placed finish in a controversial Run To The Rose (Gr 2, 1200m) last month. With Tim Clark on board, Farnan narrowly edged out Dawn Passage (Dawn Approach) and the jockey will reunite with the three-year-old colt for The Everest on October 17.

Jamaican Rain sets broodmare record at Inglis Digital sale

Dual Group 3-winning mare Jamaican Rain (Manhattan Rain) has become the most expensive mare sold through the broodmare category on Inglis Digital topping the September (Late) Online Sale at $280,000. It is also the fourth highest lot in the platform's history, following race fillies Manaya (Hinchinbrook) ($400,000 July 2019) and Set Goals (Snitzel) ($321,000 June 2019), plus a 25 per cent share in Mustajeer (Medicean) ($320,000). Offered unreserved by Swettenham Stud (as agent), the three-time stakes-winning mare was bought by Rosemont Stud following an intense bidding duel. "These quality race mares are very hard to buy in any market, so to secure a mare of her quality at that price, felt like good value," said Rosemont Stud's Ryan McEvoy who signed under his Sandhurst Bloodstock banner. "She was very dynamic at her best and we've seen time and time again that these talented sprinting mares have a superior record as producers, so let's hope that she is lucky and we are reflecting on a job well done in years to come."

Bradley takes home Yes Yes Yes relation

Arlington Park Racing's Brett Bradley, who celebrated the success as a part-owner of Golden Rose Stakes (Gr 1, 1400m) winner Ole Kirk (Written Tycoon) at the weekend, bought the second highest-priced lot yesterday, the mare Janneke (Olympic Glory) for $140,000. The four-year-old is out of Hell It's Hot (Zeditave), making her a half-sister to Group 1-winning sprinter In Her Time (Time Thief), while her dam is a half-sister to Bradley's mare Sin Sin Sin (Fantastic Light) who, of course, is the dam of Coolmore's Everest-winning first season sire Yes Yes Yes (Rubick). "The driving force behind buying Janneke was that Yes Yes Yes is in the family, I bred him and I want to increase my exposure to that family," Bradley said. "I still have his dam Sin Sin Sin and I'm breeding with her but when I saw this mare was on Inglis Digital, I thought I would have a crack. I received some good advice from Widden Stud who are taking a share in the mare, she's already booked to be covered by Yes Yes Yes' sire Rubick this season to keep that theme going with the family and I think he's a stallion that will suit her."

Spendthrift donates Overshare nom to charity

Spendthrift Australia, a leading thoroughbred stud farm located in Kerrie Valley, have offered to donate a nomination to stallion Overshare (I Am Invincible) to the community-owned, not-for-profit aged care facility, RM Begg Kyneton Aged Care Inc. Garry Cuddy, general manager at Spendthrift Australia, explained: "Covid doesn't discriminate and has meant that the annual stallion parades have had to go online. Traditional open days here at the farm usually attract large numbers of visitors, which translate into bookings for our stallions for breeding services. This season will have its challenges and we know that a lot of other people are doing it tough, especially in the aged-care sector. So, this is a way we can help make a difference in our local community. At an $11,000 service fee, Overshare is an ideal alternative for breeders whose budgets can't quite stretch to I Am Invincible's $209,000 fee. The aim of our fundraiser is to 'share' a nomination to Overshare with RM Begg." Bids to buy the donated stallion nomination to Overshare for this stud season can be made via Bloodstock Auctions: www.bloodstockauction.com.au

VRC submits carnival crowd proposal

The Victoria Racing Club yesterday submitted a proposal to the State Government for spectators to be allowed to return for this year's Melbourne Cup Carnival. Due to Covid-19, spectators have been banned from race meetings for the majority of 2020, but the VRC hope to see racing fans visit Flemington for the carnival, with the feature race being held on November 3. Racing minister Martin Parkula said the VRC proposal is now under consideration. "Decisions on attendance at major race days will be based on public health advice, which has been our consistent position," he told Racing.com. "We will give all proposals proper consideration and it's worth noting that interest in the carnival to date from Victorians and racing people interstate has been as strong as ever."

GCTC redevelopment takes a step forward

The Gold Coast Turf Club has received support from the Palaszczuk Government to light up Aquis Park, as they announced a $31.5 million commitment to the multimillion-dollar redevelopment at Bundall, which would deliver a full refurbishment of the racing surfaces, along with lights, an in-field tunnel and an all-weather synthetic track. Racing Queensland chairman Steve Wilson AM said today's announcement was significant for the Queensland racing industry. "The Gold Coast tracks and lights project is at the heart of RQ's night racing strategy and is a gamechanger for our industry," he said. "We want the Gold Coast to be our very own Happy Valley - showcasing the city to the world by unlocking new and exciting timeslots - whilst establishing itself as the most impressive night racing venue in Australia."

McDonald suspended

Champion Sydney jockey James McDonald received a three-day suspension for careless riding at Wednesday's meeting at Randwick. The charge occurred from McDonald's ride in the Benchmark 72 Handicap (1250m), with stewards ruling the jockey allowed his mount Xanthus (Better Than Ready) to shift out under riding over the latter stages of the race, causing Mission River (Redoute's Choice), who finished seventh, to lose it's running and be checked. The suspension was McDonald's first in more than 500 rides, which resulted in a deduction from the penalty. The suspension starts after Saturday's Epsom Handicap meeting at Randwick and McDonald returns to riding the following Saturday for Spring Champion Stakes day.

Ostini disqualified over fatal intravenous drip

Trainer Mark Ostini has been disqualified after pleading guilty to a charge of improper conduct for authorising his stablehand, Mitchell Faulkner, to administer an intravenous drip at Armidale Racecourse on July 8, 2020 that resulted in the fatality of racehorse Leshem (Canford Cliffs). The trial was conducted yesterday by Racing NSW Stewards and they advised Ostini that his period of disqualification will begin immediately and expires on September 16, 2021. Faulkner has also been disqualified for the same period of time.

Clegg handed 14-month ban

Craig Clegg has pleaded guilty to three charges relating to his treatment of Precocious Girl (Choir) in July and has been disqualified until September 23, 2021. Racing NSW Stewards determined that Clegg failed to provide necessary veterinary treatment to Precocious Girl when she displayed clinical signs of choke act and for acting dishonestly by fabricating and providing treatment records for the days preceding the euthanasia of Precocious Girl. He also pleaded guilty for being in possession of the unregistered medication B.E.L.L drops, for which he was charged $200.

Scorse injured in Canberra barrier incident

Jockey Patrick Scorse was dislodged after coming out of the barriers in race seven at Canberra yesterday. An update provided by Racing NSW said: "He is conscious and is being attended to by ambulance officers. Patrick is experiencing some pain to his left ankle and will be transported to Canberra Hospital."

Vale John Moc

Former Rosehill trainer John Moc, who also became a dedicated clocker at the Sydney racetrack for The Sportsman, has died. He was 69. Wyong trainer and former jockey Tracey Bartley was John Moc's nephew: "He came from a great era of trainers with the likes of Jack Denham and company," Bartley said. "He pulled off a huge plunge on King Amura; I think he was something like 33-1 into 2-1 and bolted in. He was still clocking horses up until 18 months ago before he developed health problems. At one stage John was clocking all of Chris Waller's horses at Rosehill." Trainer Stephen "Beaver" Schofield rode for Moc and recalled several of his best horses. "I learned a lot from John when I rode for him; we had many winners," Schofield said. "He had a lot of success with older horses that were passed on to him. He didn't work his horses real hard and that was the key. Some I can remember were Papagano, Willy Willy and King Amura. John was a real battler and loved going to the bush with his horses and getting money." Funeral details are yet to be announced.

Vale Mick Hood

Former racehorse trainer Mick Hood has died, aged 84. Mick, who began training when retiring from the saddle aged 30, had a long and distinguished career. Racing NSW tweeted: "Former racehorse trainer Mick Hood has passed away peacefully surrounded by his family after a short illness, aged 84. Mick will be sadly missed but never forgotten by all who knew him. The family will be having a private funeral at the request of his loving wife, Carmen."

Callsign Mav hoping to cause Windsor Park upset

Callsign Mav

TRISH DUNELL

Callsign Mav (Atlante), the surprise $81 winner of the Tazino Trophy (Gr 1, 1400m) a fortnight ago, is out to prove that was no fluke when he takes on the Windsor Park Plate (Gr 1, 1600m) on his home track at Hastings on Saturday, where he has four wins from six starts. However his trainer, John Bary, feels the four-year-old is being overlooked once again with quotes of $31 on his step up to the mile. "I think he is overlooked in the market," Bary said. "He showed last season he was up with the best of them, he raced with the best of them and beat some of the best of them. It showed two weeks ago. He has improved, and I was very happy with his gallop on Saturday over 1500 metres at home."

Americans have cause to celebrate with Boourbonaire

A decision to invest in a handful of yearlings at the New Zealand Bloodstock Karaka sale last year is looking set to pay off for a group of American owners. The Bourbon Lane Stable LLC, led by American investor Dennis Foster, will look forward to watching three of their purchases compete in New Zealand this weekend. Boourbonaire (Darci Brahma) will be the partnership's major focus this weekend when he lines-up in the Dundee At Arrowfield Hawke's Bay Guineas (Gr 2, 1400m) at Hastings on Saturday. He finished sixth in the Northland Breeders' Stakes (Gr 3, 1200m) at Te Rapa earlier this month after winning on debut at Matamata a fortnight prior. "He had his final gallop this (Wednesday) morning and he's going really well," trainer Stephen Marsh said. "I think the 1400 metres is ideal for him. On paper his last race looked a bit disappointing, but he did run the fastest last 600 metres of the race. He is a lovely colt, I am just hoping the track isn't too firm for him. If everything is going perfect, he will go from here to the Sarten and then onto the Guineas." The syndicate also has All Black Bourbon (Highly Recommended) and Mega Bourbon (El Roca) in the NZB Ready To Run Breeze Ups 12-13 October 3YO (1200m) at Te Rapa tomorrow.

Ears Carol (Carolingian), the dam of

Ears Carol

Melbourne Cup (Gr 1, 3200m) placegetter and fans' favourite Who Shot Thebarman (Yamanin Vital), has died. Ears Carol produced seven winners from the same number to race, being named South Island Broodmare of the Year in 2016. Who Shot Thebarman, who was third in the Flemington showpiece in 2014 and fifth in 2016, became a Group 1 winner when winning the Sydney Cup (Gr 1, 3200m) in 2018, earning over $4.5 million in prize-money during his career. Bred and owned by Brian and Lorraine Anderton, Ears Carol dies as a twenty-year-old, with her latest progeny to race, Ears The Barman, winning as recently as August at Sandown for trainer Phillip Stokes.

SIN: Watch out for Meagher's pair

Australian trainer Daniel Meagher sends out Watch Out Boss (Bullet Train) and Lim's Passion (Show A Heart) at Kranji on Saturday, in the hope the consistent pair can deliver an upturn in form with the trainer winless since August 8 after a flying start. The five-year-old duo have six wins between them, with Watch Out Boss second on his last start over 1200 metres, and Lim's Passion third over the same distance. While they both step back to 1000 metres on Saturday, Meagher feels they will be competitive. "Watch Out Boss goes better further (than 1000 metres), but there were no suitable races in the programme," said Meagher. "He has never been out of the first four, always consistent. Lim's Passion is lightly-raced, and he has had some issues in the past, but he ran well behind good horses like Mr Malek and Rocket Star at his last start. I think he is better over the 1200-metres or further, but those races are later in the month."

Tattersalls Autumn HiT catalogue released

The catalogue for the Tattersalls Autumn Horses in Training Sale was released on Tuesday, with Lot 530 Emperor Of The Sun (Galileo), a half brother to Zoustar (Northern Meteor) and Pacific Ocean (Galileo) (Lot 219) out of Atlantic Jewel (Fastnet Rock) among the 1,617 lots catalogued for the sale, which has produced the likes of Group 1 winner Fierce Impact and Group 2 winner Imaging from last year's sale. The sale will be conducted from October 26 to 29. Click here to view the complete catalogue

TREVOR MARSHALLSEA'S IN-DEPTH PEDIGREE ANALYSIS

TREVOR MARSHALLSEA | @ANZ_NEWS

You would have to think back to Atlantic Jewel, perhaps even Black Caviar, to find a horse who's created as much early excitement as the four-year-old currently bearing that most revered of titles in Australian racing – the Melbourne Cup favourite – Russian Camelot.

The powerful Danny O'Brien trained entire has already achieved the unprecedented. In May, he became the first Northern Hemisphere-bred galloper to win a Derby in Australia, overcoming tremendous odds as a natural two-year-old – he was 26 months at the time – against southern rivals who'd officially turn four only two months later, in the 2500m South Australia's three-year-old classic.

At the same time, he's been raising echoes of some glorious past.

The son of Camelot was bought for O'Brien by agent Jeremy Brummitt from Book 1 of the 2018 Tattersalls yearling sale for 120,000 guineas (approx AUD$228,000), as O'Brien sought to make hay in a field which had yielded some exceptional results for some other notable Australians.

Group 1 Australian Cup winner Fifty Stars, by Sea The Stars, and another son of Camelot, the Listed Warrnambool Cup winner Furrion, were also bought at the Tattersalls sale and shipped to Australia before racing.

But the template for such a long-range endeavour was set in more legendary fashion – if a little by accident – more than two decades ago.

Australian agent John Foote went to the Newmarket broodmare sale in 1998 to buy a breeder or two for a South Australian tuna fisherman making a splash in the world of thoroughbreds, Tony Santic.

Russian Camelot

Why go all that way? "The depth of quality is immense," Foote explained. "We in Australia advocate that our sprinters are better, and they probably are. But certainly the depth of pedigrees in England, when you're talking 1600 metres to 2400 metres and up, is better.

"They've been breeding horses for hundreds of years, and we haven't. They've got rid of most of the rubbish."

Foote bought the Riverman mare Tugela, who happened to be in foal. While originally intending to sell the offspring, Santic instead flew her to Australia where she raced – as Makybe Diva.

Of course she became the only horse to win three Melbourne Cups, and while such a feat remains fantasy, at this stage, for Russian Camelot's connections, you can see traits evident in the four-year-old which inspired the likes of Foote and O'Brien to look north; the qualities jockey Glen Boss witnessed when he first rode Makybe Diva in trackwork, feeling beneath him for the first time the sort of "ground-swallowing" English stayer who seemed able to "run all day", and recover from those exertions disarmingly swiftly.

Similarly, Damien Oliver felt quality when riding Russian Camelot to a comfortable debut victory up Ballarat's uphill straight in a 1400m three-year-old maiden last October.

"Good horse," the veteran said.

"I've trialled him and he's trialled like a nice horse, but because he's six months behind, being a European two-year-old, we haven't really tried him hard as such.

"He's a great looking horse and he's always given you the feel of a nice horse, but it's always nice to see it there when you ask them for the effort and they do respond."

O'Brien gave his developing colt time, spelling him after his next start, a Listed class second over 1800m at Flemington, and resuming in the autumn. It wasn't all smooth sailing. Russian Camelot blew the start by several lengths at his resumption, flashing home for fourth over 1400m at headquarters, then aborted his next assignment – and gave Oliver a sore head – when he reared in the gates at Caulfield and was scratched. That was the last hitch we've seen.

O'Brien hastily diverted him into a 1600m Benchmark 64 at Pakenham five days later and, quality of the opposition notwithstanding, Russian Camelot took the breath away with a seven-length annihilation. A month to the day later, he left eyebrows raised and heads shaking in wonderment when John Allen (Oliver couldn't travel due to Covid restrictions) sat wide and well back but purely sailed to a two-length victory in the SA Derby. A neck second in the Group 1 Makybe Diva Stakes first-up in September has now been followed by his second top-tier triumph, an imperious win in last Saturday's 1800m Underwood Stakes.

The future looks immense for Russian Camelot. His ancestral past is laced with quality as well.

One unsurprising but important point: he traces back to Pocahontas.

“ON RUSSIAN CAMELOT'S PATERNAL LINE, AUSTRALIANS ARE WELL FAMILIAR WITH THE SIRE WHO PROVIDES HALF HIS NAME, THE EPSOM AND IRISH DERBIES WINNER CAMELOT. THE SON OF MONTJEU, BY SADLER'S WELLS, HAS Sired SOME OTHER QUALITY STAYERS TO HAVE RACED HERE.”

In the 1990s, research on horses' hearts by American expert and author Marianna Haun identified the genetic trait for a large heart was carried in what she called the 'X-factor gene'. Her work suggested the gene traced back to one single thoroughbred mare:

Pocahontas, born in England in 1837, with an apparent mutation of a gene affecting heart size.

The gene reappears randomly, but appeared to be at play in two of her huge-hearted offspring - Phar Lap and Secretariat - and most probably Makybe Diva as well, although her heart has not been measured.

Pocahontas touches Russian Camelot as the dam of Stockwell, whose direct line flows down to Northern Dancer, sire of the great Sadler's Wells, who appears on both sides of Russian Camelot's pedigree in a 3x3 cross.

Now, since Pocahontas lived so long ago and produced a much-coveted line, she does appear in most modern pedigrees. Still, it's good to know she's there.

On Russian Camelot's paternal line, Australians are well familiar with the sire who provides half his name, the Epsom and Irish derbies winner Camelot. The son of Montjeu, by Sadler's Wells, has sired some other quality stayers to have raced here. There's last year's Moonee Valley Cup winner Hunting Horn, and another of Camelot's five Group 1 winners worldwide in Irish Derby winner and 2018 MacKinnon Stakes runner-up Latrobe. Plus there's one other imperious stayer who gave O'Brien more South Australian glory last autumn, and who's also high in Melbourne Cup markets, the Adelaide Cup winner King Of Leogrance.

Russian Camelot takes the first half of his name from dam Lady Babooshka (GB), a grand-daughter of Sadler's Wells. She was by the famed Cape Cross, sire of the champions Ouija Board and Epsom Derby winners Sea

Camelot (purple cap)

RACING POST

The Stars and Golden Horn. Russian Camelot is so far the only one of Lady Babooshka's three offspring to have raced.

On Russian Camelot's female line, you have to go back to his great-grand dam Bella Colora (GB) to find a stakes-winning producer. By Bellypha (IRE) out of the Jimmy Reppin (GB) mare Reprocolor (GB), Bella Colora was herself a triple stakes-winner in the UK and France. Put to Sadler's Wells she produced Stagecraft, winner of the (then G2) 1991 Prince Of Wales's Stakes at Royal Ascot and eight other Group races, and thrice G1-placed.

Stagecraft enjoyed success as a sire in Chile, siring the mare Noches De Rosa, a black type winner at home before moving to the US to win the 2004 G1 Breeders' Cup Handicap at Hollywood Park and Santa Anita's G2 Santa Ana Handicap, both 1800m.

Stagecraft also sired Benhur, who was good enough to win more than $US5.6 in such a market as Chile, with nine wins in 34 starts.

Another Bella Colora performer was Stagecraft's half-brother, Mullins Bay by Machiavellian (USA), a G3 winner at York who was multiple stakes-placed.

In all, Bella Colora was a prolific producer, with 13 named foals, 10 of whom raced. These also include the source of the current Melbourne Cup favourite's Russian flavour, Stagecraft's full sister Balalaika, a Listed class winner of two of 13 starts in the UK.

Russian Camelot is so far the only dual victor among Camelot's five G1 winners. With two G1s and almost a million dollars in the bank, he might just prove the best of his sire's offspring for quite some time at least.

BETTING FORECAST: 4-5 Pegasus Glory, 7 Sprint Forward, 8 Run Run Good, 10 Gintoki, Marvelous Fans, Whiskey Neat, 14 Hurricane Kunde, 33 Fresh Power, 50 Euro Lago.

VERDICT A market move for one (or more) of the newcomers will spice things up a bit but by far the most obvious answer to this uncompetitive race is PEGASUS GLORY, who moves up to 6f after a very promising second on last month's debut. Sprint Forward may provide the main threat.

BETTING FORECAST: 5-2 Vincy, 100-30 Tangmere, 5 Happy Sebring, 7 London Hall, Xiang Bai Qi, 10 God Of Dragon, More Than A Horse, 20 Divine Unicorn.

VERDICT There are good reasons to believe that both Vincy and Tangmere will be on the premises but XIANG BAI QI is only 11b higher than when winning over today's trip at Happy Valley just under a year ago and might be the answer. New jockey, Jerry Chau, rode 77 winners during a stint in Australia and is excellent value for the 10lb he is eligible to claim in Hong Kong.

BETTING FORECAST: 7-2 Good Days I, 5 Jimmu, Natural Storm, Starship, 6 Fast Pace, 8 Circuit Number One, Light My Day, 14 Salto Olimpico, 33 Indigenous Star.

VERDICT Good Days was very consistent towards the end of last season but today's drop back in trip is probably not ideal and it might be worth chancing SALTO OLIMPICO, who probably had a bit too much use made of him in the early stages when fifth over 1m2f here in June and has been given some help by the handicapper. Natural Storm and Fast Pace may also feature.

BETTING FORECAST: 8-13 Sky Field, 3 High Rise Soldier, 6 Take What You Need, 16 Master Albert, 20 Keep You Warm, Moeraki, 25 Hongkong Great.

VERDICT This is all about SKY FIELD and whether the latest 9lb rise from the handicapper is going to halt his hat-trick bid. He could be a cut above these. High Rise Soldier may be the one to chase him home.

VERDICT More can be expected from Wishful Thinker, who mixed it with the big league last season and should strip flitter after his recent return, but BIG PARTY won a very similar race to this over C&D last December and gets the nod. Computer Patch is being brought along nicely by Tony Cruz and he should have a role to play now stepping up in grade again.

VERDICT The recent break bid Seaweed Fortune the world of good for he returned over C&D last month and showed a good turn of foot to score comfortably. He should be involved but slight preference is for ANGEL OF MY EYES, who put in a solid effort over C&D last month when trying to make all. Meanwhile, Sumstreetsumwhere continues to run well and has the inside berth.

VERDICT Circuit Hassler got his reward for a string of solid efforts at the end of last season and could have a say on this seasonal return, despite the 7lb rise. However, a chance is taken with WORLD FAMOUS, who usually runs over further but, from a good draw, will try to make all. Heza Beauty should have more to give this season and is also considered.

VERDICT Zac Purton's mount MIGHTY GIANT has a tough draw to overcome today but he rocketed up the handicap last season, and the style of his eased-down C&D success in April suggests he could still have more improvement to come. He gets the vote ahead of Ballistic King, who also did very well last season. Beauty Legacy and Amazing Chocolate are others to consider.
