Arrowfield Stud pulls out of digital Australian Easter Yearling Sale

Inglis adds Round 2 live auction in July to help vendors sell horses during coronavirus crisis

BY TIM ROWE | @ANZ_NEWS

Arrowfield Stud has made the stunning decision to withdraw its entire draft from the Inglis Australian Easter Yearling Sale and instead will sell their stellar crop of horses by private treaty in response to the auction being forced to go solely online.

The dramatic turn of events yesterday, just 24 hours after Inglis told vendors it would conduct the flagship sale digitally, prompted management to broker a compromise with fellow sellers by tentatively scheduling a back-up live Easter Round 2 auction on July 5, pending a current government ban being lifted.

The initial 514-lot, two-day catalogue had already been brought forward to April 5 and 6 but the selling of the Easter yearlings via the Inglis Digital platform will now proceed over four days and finish on April 8. Bidding will start at 10am on April 5 and each lot will sell sequentially in lot order from 10am on April 7 and 8.

Queensland winter carnival scrapped

The Queensland winter racing carnival has been scrapped as the state moves to racing in five separate regions.

The winter carnivals in all three codes, thoroughbreds, harness and greyhounds, have been abandoned for the first time in a century and they will be replaced by standard metropolitan race programming with selected feature races.

"Given the circumstances, it is the right decision to abandon our carnivals," Racing Queensland chief executive Brendan Parnell said.

"Our carnivals are used as the shop front to showcase our codes and to attract patrons, and in this current environment, it is not responsible."

The company had been working for weeks to ensure its premium Easter sale went ahead in the face of a worsening coronavirus outbreak which resulted in federal and state government-imposed restrictions on people movement and businesses.

Up until this week, Inglis was planning to have a live sale in front of a select invite-only buying bench but that idea was quashed after prime minister Scott Morrison on Tuesday banned auction houses from operation in a bid to slow the rate of coronavirus infection.

The state of NSW and its capital Sydney, where Inglis was to hold the sale, currently has the most cases of Covid-19 in Australia.

Arrowfield Stud's withdrawal, and that of interstate vendors Gilgai Farm and Element Hill also pulling out, came as another blow to the prospects of the sale during a significant economic downturn as the potential for the country to go into full lockdown if the coronavirus continues to spiral out of control.

Other Easter sale vendors yesterday remained committed to the April online auction, including large-scale rivals Coolmore and Widden Stud, but Arrowfield Stud principal John Messara "felt we had no other option but to conduct the sale of our horses by private treaty" once it could not be held at Riverside Stables.

"It was a terribly hard decision to make but we didn't bargain for having these horses in an online sale," Messara told ANZ Bloodstock News yesterday.

"I know there was no other option and Inglis tried really hard to find a way through ... and when they went online it was an agonising decision that we just had to make for our own protection."

On market values achieved earlier this year, particularly at January's Magic Millions Gold Coast Yearling Sale, it would be reasonably assumed that Arrowfield Stud's draft of 60 yearlings would be worth between $20 to $25 million.

Among Arrowfield Stud's draft was the Redoute's Choice

VENDORS DRAFTS AVAILABLE FOR INSPECTION

(Danehill) half-brother to this season's three-time stakes-placed juvenile Stellar Pauline (Not A Single Doubt), a Shalaa (Invincible Spirit) son of champion mare Miss Finland (Redoute's Choice) and a host of colts and fillies by champion sire Snitzel (Redoute's Choice).

Messara was confident Arrowfield would be able to on-sell the majority of their large draft of yearlings despite not having the assistance of Inglis, in particular its buyer credit facility.

"I think we will have a group of them sold at sensible prices, recognising the fact that the market will have to adjust downwards for what's happened in the world and the stock markets, etc, but there are some prized animals there," Messara said.

"Racing will revert back to normal in a few months' time hopefully and next year's Golden Slipper and all the races next year (will still be on). In the short-term, things will be a bit hard, but in the long-term I am sure we will get back to square one again."

Messara did not rule out offering some yearlings through the Easter 2 sale if it proceeded in July and hoped that Arrowfield's long-standing relationship with Inglis would not be damaged by what transpired yesterday.

"We have been supportive of Inglis for 30 or 40 years now - a long time - and we've been the leading vendor there for at least the last five years," he said.

"We are cognisant of the good job they do and it pains us to have done what we have had to do, but we felt it was the right thing to do for this enterprise.

"We have 110 staff here to feed and we needed to ensure we could do so."

An email was circulated to Easter vendors yesterday outlining the plan to schedule an Easter Round 1 and Easter Round 2 sale before the company later released a statement confirming the plan.

Vendors have the option to participate in the online sale or hold off for the potential of selling at a live auction, or offering yearlings in both.

"To assist vendors and buyers during this difficult time we have decided to conduct the 2020 Easter Yearling Sale in two rounds," Inglis said.

"We feel two rounds (or offerings) is most important as some vendors who are not located in the Hunter Valley have not had as many inspections as others.

"We also recognise that many buyers have not been able to undertake inspections. Two rounds provides everyone with greater flexibility, with our goal being to provide a vital service to our industry - to keep trade in place between breeders and buyers.

"It is really important that the industry remains united, that vendors hold firm and support the tradition of the Easter Sale and put the good of the industry first and foremost."

A number of interstate or not centrally located vendors have or will move their horses to other stud farms to make it easier for buyers to undertake inspections but three vendors have chosen to withdraw their lots.

Seven New Zealand vendors have also been affected by a travel ban into Australia.

Element Hill had a draft of four that included an I Am Invincible (Invincible Spirit) half-sister to Group 1-winning stallion The Mission (Choirs) and a Choirs (Danehill Dancer) half-sister to Group 2 winner and Group 1-placed entire Zousain (Zoustar) but have withdrawn the quartet.

Gilgai Farm owner Rick Jamieson has also taken out his trio of Easter yearlings which included a Divine Prophet (Choirs) half-brother to champion stayer Jameka (Myboycharlie) and an I Am Invincible colt who is the first foal out of Zabeel (Sir Tristram) mare Ultimata, the sister to Group 1 winner Shower Of Roses.

Gilgai Farm manager Kelly Skillecorn said not being able to parade their horses in front of the buying bench made it impossible for Jamieson to offer his horses for sale next month.

"It's just going to be too difficult for us and we're going to get left behind being down here (in Victoria). We haven't had any on-farm inspections, so we are just going to get crucified," Skillecorn told ANZ Bloodstock News.

"We'll take our chances by racing them and hoping that we can trade them as racehorses. If they are just OK they will go to Asia and if they show a bit then we might jag a stallion but that is a needle in a haystack job.

"But more than likely we will get them traded to Asia, be it Hong Kong, Macau or Singapore."

Skillecorn added: "It's not their fault - it's no one's fault. The worst thing we could have done was put a price tag on them. We could've gone up there with an I Am Invincible colt with that pedigree and been offered $200,000 when a couple of months ago he was a million-dollar horse and that's what's going to happen."

Inglis release new sales schedule

The difficulties faced by Inglis in holding its Easter sale also saw the company release a new schedule for the remainder of 2020 and in doing so confirmed that its feature breeding stock offering, The Chairman's Sale, would be held as an online-only event. It will remain on the same date as initially planned, being Friday, May 8.

The Australian Weanling and Broodmare Sale has now been split, with the mare catalogue to be offered online on the digital platform on May 10 but the weanling sale is planned for July 10 in a live Riverside Stables setting.

Next month's Melbourne Gold Yearling Sale has also been postponed until July 12 and 13 at Oaklands, with supplementary entries being taken on top of the catalogue which had already been finalised.

The Great Southern Sale has also been pushed back and will follow on from the Gold auction, with two days (July 14 and 15) set aside for weanlings and other stock.

The Scone Yearling Sale has also been delayed due to it being deemed that buyers need to be able to adequately inspect the horses, with a date for the White Park offering set for July 26.

The Inglis Ready2Race Sale at Riverside Stables remains in its set date of October 20, following The Everest carnival.

Zahra cleared of coronavirus

Mark Zahra has tested negative to coronavirus - clearing racing to return in Victoria today. Racing Victoria chief executive Giles Thompson said the situation "has placed undue pressure on Mark through no fault of his own". "I want to again publicly thank and acknowledge the professional and responsible manner in which he has acted," Thompson said. "Mark's negative test paves the way for racing to resume in Victoria tomorrow and for this we are extremely grateful. We are acutely aware of the incredible hardship that many Australians are facing as at this time through the loss of their jobs, which is why we are continuing to work so hard to protect the livelihoods of all those within Victorian racing who depend on it."

Lees hoping to be Thorn in side of rivals

While Funstar (Adelaide) and Probabeel (Savabeel) are set to clash for the fifth time in tomorrow's Vinery Stud Stakes (Gr 1, 2000m) at Rosehill, they will face several fresh rivals, including Kris Lees' Game Of Thorns (Animal Kingdom), who is coming out of the Kembla Grange Classic (Gr 3, 1600m). Game Of Thorns was one of the hard luck stories of the Kembla race after she was strung up behind runners in the straight but if the form out of the Classic does stand up in the Vinery, Lees has no doubt his filly will be right in the mix. "She was a bit luckless but she's come out of it well," Lees said. "If there is any benefit of having a 'held up' run, it is that they normally bounce out of it well. Outside of the top two, I think she's going to be very competitive. She is on the way up so that's positive."

Probabeel on song for Vinery

Meanwhile, connections of Probabeel believe she is in terrific order leading into the feature race for three-year-old fillies and has every chance to turn the tables on arch rival Funstar. Te Akau Racing principal David Ellis credited the work of Jamie Richards' father Paul, along with Ashley Handley, who have stayed on in Australia to oversee the autumn campaigns of Probabeel as well as Te Akau Shark (Rip Van Winkle) and Melody Belle (Commands). "They (Paul and Ashley) are really happy with her and they are expecting she is going to go well over the 2000 metres," Ellis said.

Sunlight wins trial

Three-time Group 1 winner Sunlight (Zoustar) is one step closer to making her return to the races with a one and a half length trial win at Strathalbyn yesterday. Co-trainer Tony McEvoy told Racing.com: "Barend (Vorster, rider) said she slipped at the start, her hind legs basically went from under her. From that point, he ensured she was OK, got her balanced, found her rhythm and then let her build into the trial. He felt she was a little tired late but overall we were very happy. I would like to add in difficult times, I felt the track was in terrific order. Excellent coverage of grass and nice moisture, well done to the Club and ground staff." Sunlight will have another trial at Morphettville on April 9 before resuming in the R.N. Irwin Stakes (Gr 3, 1100m) at Morphettville on April 18, and will then target the Robert Sangster Stakes (Gr 1, 1200m) on May 2 and The Goodwood (Gr 1, 1200m) two weeks later.

Mystic Journey in paddock

Adam Trinder said yesterday that a decision had been made to spell Mystic Journey (Needs Further), given the uncertainty of interstate travel in Australia.

The inaugural All-Star Mile (1600m) winner returned with a promising fifth in the William Reid Stakes (Gr 1, 1200m) at Moonee Valley. While Trinder said that she had come through the run in great shape, a decision had been made to pull up stumps and to focus on the spring with closed borders in her home state of Tasmania and her intended destination of South Australia making a campaign too difficult.

Libertini sidelined

Anthony Cummings' Group 1 placegetter Libertini (I Am Invincible) has been sent to the paddock and will not race again this autumn after sustaining an injury to a hind leg. The three-year-old filly raced twice this time in, finishing fourth in the Light Fingers Stakes (Gr 2, 1200m) and ninth in the Newmarket Handicap (Gr 1, 1200m).

Vengeur Masque retired

Last year's Sydney Cup (Gr 1, 3200m) runner-up Vengeur Masque (Monsun) has been retired. "It's a sad day for us as he's a stable favourite but after his run in the Mornington Cup last Saturday we decided it was time for him to finish," trainer Mike Moroney told Racing.com. "He ran in an English classic, the St Leger, then came to us and won a Geelong Cup and a Queen Elizabeth Stakes. He ran in a Melbourne Cup and a Caulfield Cup and just missed when a close second in a Sydney Cup so he doesn't owe anybody anything."

Boss booked for Vow And Declare

Melbourne Cup-winning jockey Glen Boss will link up with another Melbourne Cup winner in the form of Vow And Declare (Declaration Of War) when Danny O'Brien's galloper tackles the Queen Elizabeth Stakes (Gr 1, 2000m) at Randwick next month. Boss announced the booking on Twitter yesterday. He has only ridden the four-year-old once, steering him to victory in the Tatt's Cup (Listed, 3000m) at Eagle Farm last year. Vow And Declare returned with a good third in the Australian Cup (Gr 1, 2000m) earlier this month.

Corstens forced to lay off staff

Troy Corstens, who trains in partnership with his father Leon, said he has been forced to lay off staff amid the coronavirus crisis. "It's literally a day-to-day proposition at the moment," Corstens told Racing.com. "As a horse training business, we don't run at a high profit and things are really starting to tighten up and unfortunately I've had a couple of horrible conversations in the last couple of days. I've had to put five staff off, it's been really hard because they're not conversations that you want to have. You're playing with people's lives and it's not something that we want to do but we've had to move five on to make sure that the other 25 can stay in work for the time being and keep going."

Pike denied Covid-19 test

Perth jockey William Pike was denied a coronavirus test at Sir Charles Gairdner Hospital in Western Australia on Wednesday after he was made aware his connection to Mark Zahra was responsible for the cancellation of the meeting at Ascot. "Obviously with my link to the Melbourne jockeys being the reason we were called off I wanted to go and get tested so I could have an answer and we could get on with racing and also reassure my family that all was okay," Pike told Racing.com. "They wouldn't let me take a test as I've only come in contact with someone who's come in contact with someone else who has it. You can only get a test if you're the one who's directly come in contact with someone who's tested positive to it, so I was told to go home."

Cumani considering options if racing is suspended

With the uncertainty surrounding the Australian racing industry due to the coronavirus pandemic, Ballarat trainer Matt Cumani is considering his options should racing be shut down. "Does a racing shutdown mean a training centre shutdown too?" Cumani said. "If we can continue training then it's a completely different story to if we can't train. And do they set a timeline on the shutdown like they did with the AFL? All those different things change the picture so much, so we are trying to work through the different scenarios. We're hoping at the very least we can continue to train because then the staff have a job. We try and take a family approach and a lot of our staff are full time which would make it a lot harder. If we have to lay off staff then you need an awful lot of cash for redundancy payments and that might make it prohibitive."

NEW ZEALAND

Karaka May Sale cancelled

New Zealand Bloodstock (NZB) yesterday announced the cancellation of the 2020 Karaka May Sale. With New Zealand on lockdown, it was becoming increasingly untenable for vendors to prepare horses to go through the ring as scheduled on May 15. After consultations with vendors and buyers, NZB said that the feedback suggested that the only move was to cancel the sale and investigate alternative options. "Even though the lock-down period may finish in four weeks, it is highly likely that travel and public gathering restrictions will remain in place. We want to give our vendors and buyers some direction and clarity, thus we have made the call now," NZB managing director Andrew Seabrook said. "Gavelhouse.com provides a great opportunity for those clients that still wish to offer their horses to the market. As recent results demonstrate, the success of the online sale keeps going from strength to strength. New Zealand Bloodstock is confident that its subsidiary will handle the overflow well."

Downey appointed Valachi Downs GM

Kevin and Joanna Hickman yesterday announced the appointment of Gareth Downey as General Manager for their operation, Valachi Downs.

Downey joined the stud in 2018 as their breeding consultant, which focused on the management of the stud's stallions US Navy Flag (War Front), Zacinto (Dansili) and Savile Row (Makfi). "We have been impressed with Gareth's in-depth knowledge of our business and the natural leadership he brings from his past management roles in both this and other industries," the Hickmans said. "We believe Gareth is the right person to help us progress our ultimate aspirations of breeding and racing high quality athletes, as well as leading a team where the culture is an important reflection of our personal values."

Cambridge Stud hunkers down

Brendan and Jo Lindsay have prepared Cambridge Stud for the New Zealand government's Covid-19 lockdown, which began yesterday. Like most farms, Cambridge is operating to reduced capacity, with all horses in their care being looked after by staff that live on-site at the stud farm. "We are very grateful for their commitment," the couple said in a statement yesterday. "All other staff will remain at home during this time and will be welcomed back to the farm when the government determines it is appropriate. We remain committed to the welfare of all our staff and horses, and will support them fully during this time. We are also dedicated to the industry and will continue with the vision we have for Cambridge Stud when it is safe to do so."

Te Akau spells large team

One of New Zealand's largest racing groups, Te Akau Racing, has elected to spell nearly all of its horses and will remain operational only with a skeleton staff. "We have brought most of the horses home to spell at Te Akau Stud," said Te Akau principal David Ellis. "We will only have a limited number of horses at Matamata and a few yearlings that are in the breaking-in and education phase. Te Akau is trying to show responsibility. We have told all of our staff that they have still got jobs. Some are having holidays, some have relocated to Te Akau Stud to help with all the horses that are spelling. Most of our horses go out for a spell in the next month anyway. After a month we will be into the period where the tracks are heavy and Te Akau doesn't race much then anyway."

Ellis proud of strong season

Te Akau Racing has had one of its best seasons on record with Group 1 winners in New Zealand and Australia and the Singapore-based Mark Walker leading the premiership there. "We have had an absolutely unbelievable season," said Te Akau's David Ellis. "To have a mare like Avantage win Group 1 races at 1200 metres, 1400 metres, 1600 metres, and 2000 metres is just a remarkable effort from Jamie Richards and all the team at Matamata. We have won seven Group 1 races already this year, 11 Group 1s this season, and 20 black-type races – 17 in New Zealand and three in Australia. These sort of statistics don't get achieved very often in New Zealand. I am incredibly proud of the entire team here at Te Akau Stud and Te Akau Racing, and Te Akau Singapore too."

Saundry urges vigilance

New Zealand Thoroughbred Racing chief executive Bernard Saundry has cautioned all participants in racing to adhere to stringent government protocols in response to the spread of Covid-19 for both the good of the industry and the health and well-being of the nation. "Industry participants will be aware that this week, in view of the country moving to Level 4 on its COVID-19 alert system, New Zealand Thoroughbred Racing made representation to MPI to allow for the care of our horses to continue during this time. These steps were taken purely for animal welfare purposes," he said. Advice from the Ministry for Primary Industries confirms that training stables and centres, stud farms and agistment properties, where horses are in containment are listed as essential services under animal welfare considerations. However, time is of the essence for those businesses with over five staff members (including the owner), who are required to register with the Ministry for Primary Industries by 5pm local time today. Singapore racing cuts meeting numbers

The Singapore Turf Club (STC) announced yesterday that Kranji Racecourse would be closed to the public immediately until April 30 in an attempt to minimise further spread of Covid-19. Local racing will continue but the number of race meetings will be reduced, with tonight's meeting the first to proceed under the new measures. Throughout April, there will only be one meeting per week at Kranji, with a revised schedule to be released in the coming days. Next month features the running of the Singapore Derby (Listed, 1800m) on April 18.

Gary Lo loses HK jockey's licence

Former Adelaide rider Gary Lo has been sacked by the Hong Kong Jockey Club (HKJC), just days before he was due to make his debut in his hometown. Lo, who rode 66 winners in South Australia, had returned to Hong Kong earlier this month. The HKJC's Executive Director of Racing Andrew Harding would not expand on the decision beyond it being an "employment-related matter" but the South China Morning Post reported that Lo's conduct had raised questions at Sports Road. Lo was set to have his first Hong Kong rides at Sha Tin on Sunday.

McNamara settles into Hong Kong

Australian commentator Mark McNamara has been earning plenty of plaudits since his move to Hong Kong late last month. McNamara has quickly settled into his role as the voice of Hong Kong racing and last weekend provided an excited call to match a thrilling finish in the Hong Kong Derby (Listed, 2000m), won by Golden Sixty (Medaglia d'Oro). "I was pretty nervous before the Derby, even though in New Zealand I had called the Group 1s, the Thousand and Two Thousand Guineas among others," he said. "This was a global audience and it was important to get it right. You have one chance to nail your first big feature race and thankfully, it was the most remarkable, entertaining Derby that they have had there in a long time. I've learnt quickly that racing is the be all and end all in Hong Kong."

Zoffany to shuttle to Argentina

Zoffany (Dansili) will shuttle from Ireland to Argentina for the southern hemisphere breeding season later this year after Haras Firmamento reached an agreement with Coolmore for the leading sire's services. "He had a quick start as a stallion and now has larger crops of better mares to represent him, so the best is yet to come," said Laurent Benoit of the Broadhurst Agency, who brokered the shuttle deal. "I'm an admirer of Dansili and I think Zoffany could be one of the leading stallions in Europe in the coming years." Zoffany will stand at Haras Firmamento alongside Hit It A Bomb, a Breeders' Cup Juvenile Turf (Gr 1, 1m) winner by War Front (Danzig).

Racing Post suspends print operations

British industry newspaper Racing Post has suspended its print operations in the face of the Covid-19 crisis. Racing Post, whose owners Spotlight Sports Group also produce ANZ Bloodstock News, is the only daily newspaper covering racing in the UK and Ireland. With the sport coming to a halt in both countries and betting shops closed until the crisis abates, there was simply "no other choice," according to Racing Post editor Tom Kerr. "At some point in the coming weeks or months, when the worst of this disease has passed, horseracing will resume. When racing is back, the Racing Post newspaper will be back as well," he wrote in an open letter to readers.

Field of 13 for Florida Derby

The Florida Derby (Gr 1, 9f), which has been won by three of the last four horses to finish first past the post in the Kentucky Derby (Gr 1, 10f), has drawn a field of 13 as racing continues at Gulfstream Park. The race still serves as a Kentucky Derby points race this year, with the winner all but guaranteed a start at Churchill Downs, but instead of heading to Louisville on the first Saturday in May, the three-year-olds will have to wait until the first Saturday in September due to Covid-19. The field is headed by Grade 1 winner Tiz The Law (Constitution) and Grade 2 victor Ete Indien (Summer Front), who finished one-two in the Holy Bull Stakes (Gr 3, 8.5f) last month.

AAP

The Queensland winter racing carnival has been scrapped as the state moves to racing in five separate regions.

The winter carnivals in all three codes, thoroughbreds, harness and greyhounds, have been abandoned for the first time in a century and they will be replaced by standard metropolitan race programming with selected feature races.

"Given the circumstances, it is the right decision to abandon our carnivals," Racing Queensland chief executive Brendan Parnell said.

"Our carnivals are used as the shop front to showcase our codes and to attract patrons, and in this current environment, it is not responsible."

It is the latest step taken by individual racing bodies across Australia as authorities attempt to balance restrictions imposed by federal and state governments to counter coronavirus.

Racing has continued in Queensland with strict biosecurity measures including no public attendance but race clubs were facing millions of dollars in losses if the carnival went ahead without crowds.

RQ has also announced racing will be in five regions and include eight zones from Tuesday to help stem the spread of COVID-19.

The thoroughbred regions are:

- Metro North (Brisbane and Sunshine Coast);
- Metro South West (Gold Coast, Ipswich and Toowoomba);
- Darling Downs and South-East Queensland (SEQ) Coast;
- Central West and Central; and
- North West and North.

Queensland winter racing carnival

GETTY IMAGES

"With a raft of biosecurity measures already in place, including patron-free racing and a mandatory 14-day self-isolation period for licensed participants, RQ will introduce measures from Sunday that will provide five key thoroughbred regions and four key greyhound regions as part of a multi-staged approach to health and safety," the statement said.

As part of the decision, thoroughbred racing will be consolidated to 15 racetracks and jockeys will be permitted to ride in one of the five designated regions.

Trainers and stable staff will be further restricted to one of eight zones within those regions.

During this period, horses will not be permitted to be transferred between zones for the purpose of racing.

Any horse presently domiciled interstate and not in Queensland by 11.59pm on Sunday will not be allocated a region and will not be able to race until further notice.

Horses will be permitted to be transferred across regions for non-racing purposes such as agistment or re-homing.

"The health and safety of our participants, who are presently confronting a challenge like no other is our paramount concern," Parnell said.

"We must do everything within our powers to provide for the 40,000 Queenslanders who participate across the state.

"By introducing a regional racing model, we are able to further support the Queensland government's direction to stay local, reduce non-essential travel and to limit the spread of this insidious virus.

"In this instance, the sheer size of Queensland is advantageous. The state is almost eight times larger than Victoria and twice the size of NSW and this presents racing with a unique challenge and opportunity.

"While none of us knows what is on the horizon, we can reduce the risk, limit the spread and collectively work together for the greater good."

In order to implement the regional racing model, RQ will be forced to abandon Sunday's programmed thoroughbred meetings.

Thoroughbred racing will recommence at Mackay on Tuesday and will be restricted to Central area participants.

Purton tops the charts with a Happy Valley double

BY DAVID MORGAN | HKJC_RACING

It's taken 52 race meetings but a Zac Purton double at Happy Valley on Wednesday night meant the champion jockey poked his nose into the lead in the title race for the first time since late September.

The Australian ace arrived at the city-side venue one win behind his great rival Joao Moreira. At Sha Tin last Sunday, Purton outpointed the Brazilian by three wins to two.

The championship race seems set for a ding-dong battle through to the season's final meeting at the Valley on July 15.

"It looks that way but we'll just see what happens, it's going to come down to which of us gets the better support – that'll be the decisive factor," Purton said.

Jolly Honour (Reliable Man) capped a race-to-race brace for the rider and pushed him to 90 wins over Moreira's 89. The Me Tsui-trained galloper hit the front 250 metres out in the Class 3 Po Chong Wan Handicap (1650m) and held the late drive of Naboo Star (Casino Prince) by three-quarters of a length.

"He got a nice position and travelled well the whole race," Purton said. "He got left in front a little earlier than I wanted but that's just the way the race unfolded – I think there's more there."

The three-time champ enjoyed a cosier win one race prior when the John Moore-trained Shouson (Star Witness) took section two of the Class 3 Kong Sin Wan Handicap (1200m) by two and a half lengths.

"He travelled well into the race and did it nicely but really everything just happened perfectly for him," Purton said.

Van Niekerk hits three

Purton and Moreira are well clear of the rest of the jockeys' pack but a fascinating secondary battle is taking shape after Grant van Niekerk bagged a hat-trick.

The South African has struck a rich seam

Jolly Honour

of success lately, and, with his trio arriving on the back of a brace at Sha Tin last weekend, the South African is accelerating into a three-way race for third place in this season's premiership.

Karis Teetan currently holds the coveted third spot with 50 wins, ahead of Vincent Ho's 45, while Van Niekerk is now on 37.

"Vincent and Karis are two very good riders so I'll just take it as it comes; they are in sight and I'll be trying hard to get third place – it's not an easy task but when you get support here it's not impossible," Van Niekerk said.

The rider opened his night's account on the Douglas Whyte-trained Best Alliance (Dark Angel) in section two of the Tin Wan Handicap (1650m), and that first success on a Whyte stable galloper was his personal pick.

"Douglas is an iconic person – growing up around racing people in South Africa you always hear the name Douglas Whyte, so riding my first winner for him in Hong Kong is something special and close to my heart. Obviously, I've been trying for a couple of meetings to get that first winner for him so it's really special for me," he said.

Van Niekerk made an early race-winning move on Best Alliance as he urged the top-weight from eighth with 900 metres remaining to grasp the lead at the 700-metre mark; the five-year-old kicked on at the turn for home and held off his closing pursuers by a length and a quarter.

"If you get horses with chances, and you get the results, you naturally get confidence. I'm getting the results and that confidence is building, so hopefully I can keep getting support," he said.

Van Niekerk followed up in the next race, section two of the Class 4 Sha Wan Handicap (1000m) on the John Size-trained Zero Hedge, and made it three wins aboard the Frankie Lor-trained Blooming Spirit in section one of the Class 4 Tin Wan Handicap (1650m).

But the in-form hoop left the track with a sting of a three-meeting suspension (April 15 to 23) and a HK$120,000 fine for a charge of careless riding aboard Best Alliance.

Neil Callan had to get tough with Super Lucky (Myboycharlie) to come out on top in a tight finish to the Class 4 Shek Pai Wan Handicap (1200m). The Caspar Fownes-trained six-year-old emerged from a pocket to score by a head.

Matthew Chadwick took the finale, section one of the Class 3 Kong Sin Wan Handicap (1200m), on the Danny Shum-trained Winning Method (Holy Roman Emperor). The three-year-old finished strongly to score by a length and a quarter.

Jockey Chad Schofield and trainer Chris So combined for their first win together since September 8, thanks to the success of Wonderful Tiger (Approve) in the opener, the Class 5 Waterfall Bay Handicap (1650m).

With his win at Warwick Farm on Wednesday, Damaged (Exceed And Excel) joined an illustrious group that includes Redzel (Snitzel), Winx (Street Cry), Foxwedge (Fastnet Rock), Plagiarize (Stravinsky), Eremein (Timber Country), Show County (County), Bint Marsday (Marsday) and Slight Chance (Centaine).

The common thread? All broke 1:04 for the Warwick Farm 1100 metres as two-year-olds. This fact, pointed out by leading form analyst Dominic Beirne on Twitter.

Even if the track was running incredibly fast - which looks likely given the other two-year-old winner at Warwick Farm, Forbidden Love (All Too Hard), also broke 64 seconds, although in slower time than the colt - it is still a performance that suggests Damaged is one to follow going forward.

In particular, the manner of Damaged's two and a half length win over Mark Newnham's debutant Codebreaker (Exceed And Excel) suggests that the Godolphin colt will be a horse to watch against better company.

"He's pretty push button, which makes life really easy," said British jockey Tom Marquand, who rode his first winner in the royal blue down under. "He showed the promise that he half teased he had. It's always an honour to ride a winner for Godolphin."

Damaged had stepped out for the first time on Boxing Day, finishing second behind the subsequent Group 3 placegetter Return With Honour (Fastnet Rock). He is next likely to head to the Kindergarten Stakes (Gr 3, 1100m) on the first day of The Championships.

Damaged's dam Shatters (Lonhro) was lightly raced, winning three times in the Darley maroon colours late in her three-year-old season in 2009 and defeating the likes of Group 2 winner Vintedge (Flying Spur) and Listed victor Jersey Lily (Catbird).

She has produced six foals; five who have raced, with Damaged the fourth to win. Her best foal has been Shards (Medaglia d'Oro), winner of the Up And Coming Stakes (Gr 3, 1300m) in 2015; he continues to race in Singapore under the name Wonder BB, having also had the name Yulong Medal.

Shatters has an Astern (Medaglia d'Oro) filly at foot currently and visited Astern again last year.

Third dam Destruct (Sir Tristram) was a Listed-winning half-sister to Strategic (Zeditave) and Clang (Bellotto), while the family traces back to 1967 Golden Slipper winner Sweet Embrace (Todman).

Farnan clocks impressive sectional times in overcoming wide barrier in Golden Slipper Stakes victory

BY KEN BOMAN | @ANZ_NEWS

Farnan (Not A Single Doubt) staged a brilliant performance in overcoming his wide barrier in winning Saturday's Golden Slipper Stakes (Gr 1, 1200m), aided by a well-rated ride from Hugh Bowman.

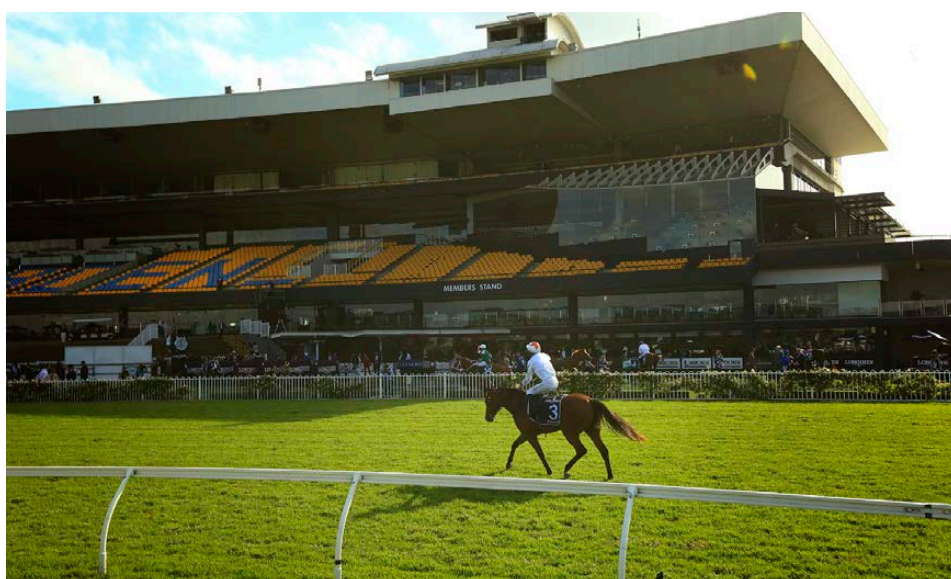

After beginning quickly from barrier 12, Farnan worked in the early stages, covering the first 200 metres in a conservative 13.49 before crossing clearly to the lead with the next 200 metres proving a more taxing 10.93 – the first 400 metres on the Soft 5 track clocking 24.42.

On passing the 800-metre mark, Bowman established a good pace for a Golden Slipper, quick enough without inviting challengers, with a 200-metre breakdown of 11.46, 11.43 and 11.26.

That saw the high-speed colt return a 600-metre section of 34.15 (from the 800m to the 200m) before Farnan demonstrated his class in repelling bids from Away Game (Snitzel) and Mamaragan (Wandjina), running his final 200 metres in 11.58 to win comfortably by a length and three quarters.

The time for the 1200-metre journey was 1:10.19 – Farnan clocking a fast 56.66 for his last 1000 metres, 45.73 (last 800m), 34.27 (last 600m) and 22.84 (last 200m), impressive closing sectionals on the affected track.

The Gai Waterhouse and Adrian Bott-trained colt is now the winner of five of his six starts with prize money earnings of $2,502,200. Connections subsequently announced Farnan will now be spelled and reserved for his three-year-old term.

The runner-up Away Game has now established a unique juvenile record, winning the Magic Millions 2YO Classic (RL, 1200m) at the Gold Coast in January, running a close fourth after a torrid run in the Blue Diamond Stakes (Gr 1, 1200m) in February, supported now by a brave Golden Slipper performance.

Away Game was timed to run her last 1000 metres in 56.80, last 800 metres in 45.84, last 600 metres in 34.38 and 22.95 for her final 400 metres.

The third-placed Mamaragan also achieved a rare achievement, the colt proving to be so competitive in Australia's richest two-year-old race when having only his second race start.

Mamaragan was timed to run his last 1000 metres in 56.63, last 800 metres in 45.75, last 600 metres in 34.28 with his final 200 metres in 23.02.

The John Thompson-trained colt looks to have a very bright future.

Earlier in the day, his vastly more experienced stablemate Dreamforce (Fastnet Rock) broke through for his first Group 1 victory after a well-rated, front-running ride by Nash Rawiller saw the seven-year-old take out the George Ryder Stakes (Gr 1, 1500m).

Away Game

SPORTPIX

Dreamforce went through the first 900 metres in 55.97 (12.43 200m rate) before lifting the tempo from the 600 metres, that final section clocking 34.09, a much quicker 11.36 200-metre rate.

Those tactics saw him hold off The Bostonian (Jimmy Choux) who continued to make ground in the sprint home, failing by a short-neck at the post, with a final 600-metre time of 33.75 (11.25 200m rate).

However, the tactics of the race proved the undoing of the favourite Te Akau Shark (Rip Van Winkle), who made ground without threatening from back in sixth place at the 600 metres to take third, a length and a quarter further back.

Te Akau Shark returned the quickest closing sectionals of the race with his last 800 metres in 45.66, last 600 metres in 33.74, with his final 400 metres in 22.32.

By that stage of the day at Rosehill, a strong line of thought had developed regarding the track as favouring horses either leading or racing close to the pace.

That could be correct but On The Watch would also like to point out that the moderate early tempo in a number of races would have had a significant bearing on the results, as in the aforementioned George Ryder Stakes.

And that certainly included the Rosehill Guineas (Gr 1, 2000m) where Castelveccchio (Dundeel) raced relatively close to the pace before defeating Prince Fawaz (Fastnet Rock) by a half-length in a time of 2:04.10 in a race that also developed into a sprint home.

Shadow Hero

SPORTPIX

The first 1400 metres clocked a steady 1:29.10 (12.72 200m rate) before the leaders sprinted 34.99 (11.66) for the final 600 metres.

That certainly made the task of the favourite Shadow Hero (Pierro), who was back in tenth place at that stage, very tough with the Randwick Guineas (Gr 1, 1600m) winner then making ground without looking dangerous for fourth, clocking a quick 34.47 (last 600m) and 22.91 (last 400m).

Acknowledgement is also due the winner Castelveccchio who sprinted home in similar time, 34.47 (last 600m) and 22.81 (last 400m), to record his second Group 1 victory.

But the races where a lack of a genuine early tempo was most noteworthy were the Ranvet Stakes (Gr 1, 2000m) and the N E Manion Cup (Gr 3, 2400m), which were both taken out by the Newmarket-based trainer William Haggas and English-born jockey Tom Marquard.

Addeybb (Pivotal) staged a strong staying effort in taking out the Ranvet Stakes in impressive fashion at his Australian debut after being taken to the front by Marquard.

After clocking a very moderate 1:19.58 (13.26 200m rate) for his first 1200 metres, Addeybb rallied gamely in the sprint home when tackled by the favourite Verry Elleegant (Zed), that pair staging an exciting battle before the English import scored by a half-length in a time of 2:04.90.

Addeybb clocked a fast 45.24 (11.31 200m rate) for his last 800 metres and 33.27 (11.09 200m rate) for his last 600 metres while Verry Elleegant clocked 45.16 (11.29 200m rate) and 33.29 (11.09 200m rate).

The N E Manion Cup provided a similarly exciting finish with Marquard's forceful style bringing out the best in the French-bred Young Rascal (Intello) who lifted gamely under his 59-kilogram top-weight to defeat the favourite Mugatoo (Henrythenavigator) by a long neck in a time of 2:31.54.

That race also turned into a dash from the 800 metres after the first 1600 metres was clocked in a very moderate 1:45.42 (13.17 200m rate).

Young Rascal was clocked to run his last 800 metres in 45.82 (11.45 200m rate) and 34.08 (11.36 200m rate) for his last 600 metres and Mugatoo 45.63 (11.40 200m rate) and 34.00 (11.33 200m rate).
