Rocket revels in tales of Hong Kong-bound Barocha

Plunge landed and money in the bank leads to Douglas parting with Ilovethiscity gelding

Barocha

BY TIM ROWE | @ANZ_NEWS

The experienced eye of Rodney "Rocket" Douglas told the former trainer that Barocha (Ilovethiscity) was a good horse and a lightning Mornington track gallop that was markedly faster than Group 1 sprinter Santa Ana Lane (Lope De Vega) convinced him the gelding may well be the real deal.

That insight, backed up by two impressive jump-outs against stakes-class horses in late July, prompted Douglas to have "the biggest bet I've ever had in my life" when Barocha last month lined up for his first start.

He admitted to nerves leading up to Barocha's much-talked-about Sale maiden win - he won by five lengths as an odds-on favourite after Douglas took care of the generous opening prices - and the heart rate went up again in the lead-in to the gelding's second start at Geelong on September 6.

Rocket, as he is known to all and sundry, owned the gelding with a mate and he had entrusted his nephew, rookie trainer Clayton, with the then talented but unexposed horse and the pressure mounted when the owner had rejected substantial offers emanating from Hong Kong following the five-length Sale victory on August 13. Continued on page 2>>

Another impressive performance at Geelong, on September 6, would up the offers and also boost Barocha's Hong Kong handicapper rating sufficiently.

Douglas had vowed to accept an offer "too good to refuse" if he made it two from two and Clayton was also in line for a financial windfall.

The Barocha story starts years earlier when Douglas shared in the ownership of another horse by under-rated Victorian stallion Ilovethiscity (Magic Albert).

"We had a good Ilovethiscity with Tony Vasil a couple of years before who never raced," Douglas recalled yesterday.

"He went out for a spell, a couple of mates were in him, and then we found him dead in the paddock. He had a tumour in his heart.

- RODNEY DOUGLAS

"He could run, so I just kept looking at the Ilovethiscity. There's not that many of them and the year of Barocha I was in Adelaide selling yearlings because I pinhook a couple and I said to Anthony Freedman, 'come down and have a look at this Ilovethiscity'.

"We went and looked at it and it wasn't big enough for me but Anthony loved it ... and that was (Group-placed) King Of Hastings."

Not long after, Douglas spotted Barocha at the 2018 Inglis Vobis Gold Yearling Sale and landed him for just $12,000 from the Rushton Park draft.

As King Of Hastings emerged as an above average sprinter, Douglas was forced to be patient with Barocha.

Tony Vasil did the early work with Barocha but his well-publicised disqualification led to the horse changing stables.

"I was going to give him to Freedman, but I said to Clayton, 'you may as well take this horse and see' and we got him going and, next minute, he was going like a learjet," he said.

"I still couldn't believe that when he went to Sale, after his trial, what odds he was. I was like a panther waiting to back him because I've got a mate who can get on.

"As soon as the odds came up at $6, I rang him and next minute we were getting $4.20 and it was the biggest bet I've ever had in my life."

He continued: "I said he won't get out of first gear. I've seen all these horses like Super Seth and horses like that and that's how they go when they go to maidens and that's what he did."

"I was around Clayton like a rash. He had some teachers around him before the race, I can assure you, and his uncle was holding his hand at trackwork on fast mornings."

There was no betting at Barocha's second start, but there was still a lot at stake.

"I timed him at the track leading up to those races and I did the trackwork for the papers for many years when I was a kid, so I know the markers," he said.

"I said to Anthony Freedman the morning he worked Santa Ana Lane, 'that thing of ours has gone two seconds faster than yours the last three furlongs'. He said, 'Well, it won't be getting beaten'. It was going like a stakes horse."

Barocha, of course, won at Geelong, and after further sale negotiations the money landed on Monday and it was confirmed that John Size would train the gelding for the Beauty Stable's Simon and Patrick Kwok in a deal handled by Australian-based agent, Wattle Bloodstock's Peter Twomey.

"I don't know if he's a Group 1 horse, but the sky's the limit for him," Douglas said.

"But you just couldn't knock back the money for him as you've seen what has happened with Rothfire and didn't they knock back $3 million for Masked Crusader? You could divide him by about five now. There's Kinane as well, so I know that they can be here today, gone tomorrow."

"It's going to make my life a lot easier and I can do all sorts of things with the money and drink happily ever after."

Clayton also received a significant sling for his efforts and his uncle was more than happy to part with the money.

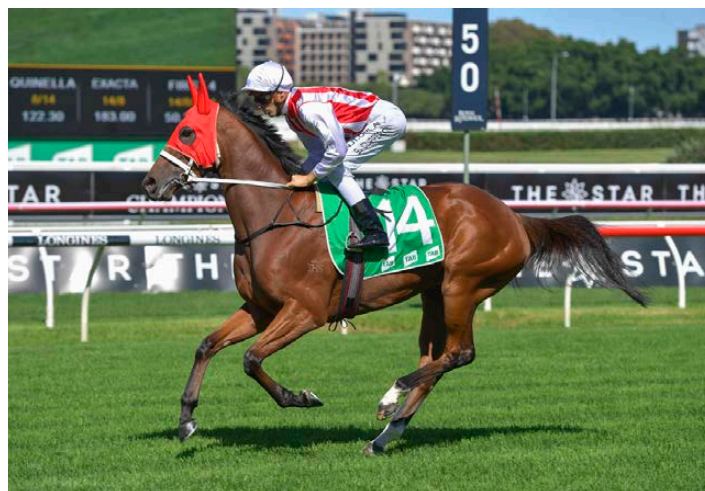

He said: "I paid for his new truck. Normally that happens when the trainers buy them and things like that, but I said to him that if he can win at Geelong and we can get the deal done for him - I'd knocked back $750,000 for him after his Sale win - then I'd give him ten percent."

A few champagnes, justifiably, were consumed on Monday night by Douglas and his wife Naomi, but it was back to work yesterday managing Munz's extensive racing portfolio.

Valuable Chris Waller-trained mare Toffee Tongue (Tavistock), the sister to Werther who landed the Australasian Oaks (Gr 1, 2000m) in Adelaide last campaign, is at a crossroads on Saturday in the Turnbull Stakes (Gr 1, 2000m).

"It will determine where she stands on Saturday. If she runs a good race in the Turnbull, obviously you push onto the Caulfield Cup, but if she doesn't measure up to that class you can lower your sights and maybe aim at a Geelong Cup or a Moonee Valley Cup or something like that," the Pinecliff Racing manager said.

"Chris could give her one more run and say we're better off giving her a break and waiting for the autumn where in Sydney there's give in the tracks."

Toffee Tongue

SPORTPIX

"She's in the Melbourne Cup, so that might be the way she goes, but she's done the job already being a Group 1 winner. She's an outcross filly, so you can breed her to anything."

First-up Mathew Ellerton and Simon Zahra-trained Bobbie Lewis (Gr 2, 1200m) winner Zoutori (Zoustar), a horse Munz and his co-owners rejected offers for when the gelding was a three-year-old, will race down the Flemington straight again on Saturday in the Gilgai Stakes (Gr 2, 1200m). He is also nominated for the Paris Lane Stakes (Listed, 1400m).

"At this stage he's going to run in the Gilgai, but he's poorly weighted in that race, giving Santa Ana Lane three kilos. He's badly weighted but he's such a good straight horse," he said.

"After Saturday, I think Matty and Simon will step him up. He did run fifth in the Carbine Club and fourth in the Sandown Guineas, so he can run a mile."

The Anthony and Sam Freedman-trained Southbank (Fastnet Rock), who ran fifth in the Let's Elope Stakes (Gr 2, 1400m) first-up, was third in last year's Thousand Guineas (Gr 1, 1600m) and Douglas holds the mare in high regard.

A $1.25 million Inglis Australian Easter Yearling Sale purchase, being out of Group 3 winner Rezoned (Zabeel), herself a sister to four-time winner Preferment, Southbank is nominated for the Rose Of Kingston Stakes (Gr 2, 1400m).

"She's had a few issues with her back and things, so they keep her at Flemington now," he said.

"First-up she just peaked and hopefully she gets a run in that race and we will see where she sits as it was a good run the other day."

"She's probably the best type of horse we've ever bought and she has been a bit stiff. Two strides before she'd won the Thousand Guineas, but Flit got her near the line."

Munz, whose GSA Bloodstock portfolio numbers about 100 elite broodmares, also has the Anthony and Sam Freedman-trained Agreeable (Sebring) heading towards the Thousand Guineas at Caulfield on Saturday week.

"There are a lot of mares up in the Hunter Valley and then there's others he's sent to Super Seth. He's got the Abbey Maries and Fenways with Arrowfield as well," Douglas said of Munz.

"He's very passionate about it."

MORNING BRIEFING

AUSTRALIA

Coolmore secures Santa Ana Lane for Everest

Santa Ana Lane

SPORTPIX

Santa Ana Lane (Lope De Vega) will run in his third Everest (1200m) after Coolmore came to agreement with the owners of the Anthony and Sam Freedman-trained five-time Group 1 winner. "Given his record at Randwick over 1200 metres we were confident he would receive a slot, so it has been our sole focus this preparation," Anthony Freedman said. "It's a race that continues to grow in popularity each year and we are proud to be involved." Coolmore Australia principal Tom Magnier pointed out that the breeding operation had a long-term relationship with the Freedman stable. "Santa Ana Lane is out of a Fastnet Rock mare and he is one of the best sprinters we have seen in the past decade," Magnier said. "Anthony and Sam are very happy with the horse and we believe if he brings his best he will be hard to beat." Santa Ana Lane, who ran sixth in the 2018 Everest and second last year, will resume in the Gilgai Stakes (Gr 2, 1200m) at Flemington on Saturday. He is owned by the William Street syndicate.

Jolly happy to reunite with Nash

Behemoth's (All Too Hard) trainer David Jolly is delighted to have 60-time Group 1-winning jockey Nash Rawiller on board his star gelding for The Everest. Despite the complexities surrounding jockey selection between slot holder The Star and Behemoth's owners Grand Syndicates, he is pleased to have a jockey on board that he has enjoyed success with in the past. "I think Nash will really suit the horse and I've had a bit of success with him back in the day," Jolly told Thoroughbred Racing SA. "He won a Monash Stakes (Gr 3, 1100m) for me on Sassbee (Blevic)." Jolly will make a decision later in the week regarding a potential hit-out between races at Morphettville on Saturday or a jump-out at Murray Bridge on Friday. "We're just working out what will suit the horse best and the timing," Jolly said. "He'll have a good gallop later in the week and then he'll travel up the following week and I'll probably head up with the horse."

Wide draw no barrier for Funstar

Funstar's (Adelaide) wide barrier draw in the Epsom Handicap (Gr 1, 1600m) may work to her advantage, according to jockey Glen Boss. Funstar came up with gate 19 of 21 at Tuesday's barrier draw but Boss, who will bid for his fifth victory in the famous Randwick mile after winning on Kolding (Ocean Park) 12 months ago, remained upbeat the mare still had a strong chance. "The draw doesn't really make it that difficult. It's probably one of the fairest starts in Australia, the mile start," Boss said. "Sometimes the inside draws can be a hindrance to you and the outside draws can be a saviour with the pressure that can come from the outside." Funstar, who landed the Flight Stakes (Gr 1, 1600m) last year, lines up on Saturday following a solid second to Wild Planet (Animal Kingdom) earlier this month.

Funstar

SPORTPIX

"She has been set for the race having had two runs under her belt already and she is third up," Boss said. "I got to work her on Saturday morning on the course proper at Rosehill and she just seems to be low flying at the moment."

Gate obstacle for Probabeel

Lining up next to Funstar in barrier 18 will be last year's Surround Stakes (Gr 1, 1400m) winner Probabeel (Savabeel) and her trainer James Richards is considerably less optimistic about the wide draw. "I am gutted, but we are just going to have to be a bit patient and most likely go back and give her a crack at them late and see how it all fits together," Richards said. "We will be open-minded about how she is ridden and thankfully we have a very capable rider (Kerrin McEvoy) who knows exactly what it takes to win these big races." Probabeel took out the Bill Ritchie Handicap (Gr 3, 1400m) last start and will shoulder 52.5 kilograms in the Epsom Handicap, which Richards thinks is more than fair. "This has been the aim all the way through, trying to get her into the race with the right sort of weight that we thought she could win," said Richards. "She has got in there with 52.5kgs, as has Funstar, so for a four-year-old mare that has got Group 1 form in the autumn in Sydney, I think it is quite a nice weight."

McEvoy confident in Mugatoo

Metropolitan Handicap (Group 1, 2400m) favourite Mugatoo (Henrythenavigator) will need to set a modern day weight-carrying record if he is to give jockey Kerrin McEvoy a first win the race. Mugatoo, who landed gate seven at yesterday's barrier draw, will carry 57 kilograms in Saturday's feature after receiving a one kilogram penalty for his dominant Newcastle Gold Cup (Gr 3, 2300m) triumph. "This is a nice Group 1 race for him to be aimed at and Kris [Lees] has got to know the horse well over a couple of seasons now, so I feel this is the best he's been," McEvoy said. "Kris and the team said he has pulled up well since that Newcastle Cup win, which he got an extra kilogram penalty for, but he is the class horse in the race and I'm looking forward to riding him there on Saturday." The only other horses to win off similar weights in the past 20 years are Opinion (Oasis Dream), who had 56 kilograms in 2014, and County Tyrone (Nice Choice), who was prepared by Lees to win with 56.5 kilograms a decade earlier.

Hill Stakes for Fierce Impact

Last-start Makybe Diva Stakes (Gr 1, 1600m) winner Fierce Impact (Deep Impact) is expected to line up in Sydney on Saturday, rather than heading to the Turnbull Stakes (Gr 1, 2000m) at Flemington. Trainer Matthew Smith has indicated that the seven-year-old entire, who won a barrier trial on Monday, is set to run in the Hill Stakes (Gr 2, 2000m) at Randwick. He was also entered for the Epsom Handicap (Gr 1, 1600m) and the Turnbull Stakes.

Vet check for Etah James

Etah James (Raise The Flag) will be inspected later this week to ascertain whether she is suitable to race in the Metropolitan Handicap after Racing NSW stewards received advice of two separate issues with the mare. "Etah James (an acceptor in The Heineken Metropolitan) underwent surgery for the removal of a sarcoid adjacent to its right eye since its last start," said Racing NSW. "In addition to this surgery, the mare has healing granulation tissue associated with postoperative topical therapy to the left side of its face. A veterinary clearance has been received and Racing NSW chief veterinary officer, Dr Toby Koenig will inspect Etah James later this week to ascertain the mare's suitability to race." Etah James trialed three times in September but has not competed on a race day since winning the Sydney Cup (Gr 1, 3200m) in April.

Aktau on track for Turnbull

Aktau (Teofilo) will line up in the Turnbull Stakes (Gr 1, 2000m) on Saturday and Mike Moroney is expecting him to show his class ahead of the Caulfield Cup (Group 1, 2400m) on October 17. Aktau will take on a star-studded line up in Saturday's feature at Flemington, with Verry Elleegant (Zed), Surprise Baby (Shocking) and Master Of Wine (Maxios) among the field. "It's going to be a tough assignment but I think he's ready to run a big race and it will bring him on to peak in the Caulfield Cup," Moroney said. He will be ridden in the Turnbull Stakes by Daniel Moor who will retain the ride for the Caulfield Cup, which Aktau secured his place for by winning the Mornington Cup (Listed, 2400m) in March. The five-year-old is 50th in the Melbourne Cup (Gr 1, 3200m) order of entry. "Hopefully he can get in the Melbourne Cup from his next two starts but if he hasn't got in, we will look at running him in the Hotham Handicap," Moroney said.

Arcadia Queen to remain on Cox Plate path

Arcadia Queen (Pierro) will again take on Russian Camelot (Camelot) in the Caulfield Stakes as owner Bob Peters maps out her path to the Cox Plate (Gr 1, 2040m) on October 24. Arcadia Queen faded late into third place in last Saturday's Underwood Stakes (Gr 1, 1800m) at Caulfield, finishing behind Russian Camelot and Humidor (Teofilo) and Peters is happy to have another crack at the pair, but admits his mare will need to step up a gear. "The path (to the Cox Plate) was always the Caulfield Stakes. She can get better, but she'll have to," Peters told Racing.com. "I think she was good until the last 50 (metres) and then she seemed to hit the wall, but she might not have been quite ready for it. I think that horse (Russian Camelot) might be the best horse in Australia at the moment and the other old horse (Humidor) that got her for second place, he is a pretty good horse too."

Richards plans exhibition gallop for Gytrash

Gytrash

SPORTPIX

Gordon Richards will run star-sprinter Gytrash (Lope De Vega) between races at Warwick Farm a week today in preparation for his shot at The Everest on October 17. "I'm looking forward to seeing him again and giving him a pat. It's hard not to miss him," Richards, who heads back to Sydney on Friday, told Racing.com. "The plan is to gallop him between races at Warwick Farm on Wednesday, October 7. He will have a companion in the workout because he can float around a bit when he's by himself. We intend to give him a pretty solid hit-out, which will fit in perfectly 10 days out from The Everest." Gytrash, who will be aiming to add to his sole Group 1 in the Black Caviar Lightning (Gr 1, 1000m), features prominently in the betting as third-favourite behind Nature Strip (Nicconi) and Classique Legend (Not A Single Doubt).

Empire Rose next for Mystic Journey

Mystic Journey (Needs Further) will line up in the Empire Rose Stakes (Gr 1, 1600m) at Flemington on October 31, trainer Adam Trinder has confirmed. The five-year-old mare had not won since August last year but returned to form when taking out the Stocks Stakes (Gr 2, 1600m) at Moonee Valley on Friday night. "She will go five weeks into the Empire Rose on Derby Day, that's the plan," Trinder told RSN927. "That was potentially always our mindset the whole way through. She held an entry for the Cox Plate, but I was always leaning towards keeping her at 1600 metres. It's just the way things have transpired that it's probably worked out perfect now. She will have a nice little break between runs, which doesn't affect her whatsoever."

Zahra to ride Cambourne in Guineas

Mark Zahra will ride Cambourne (Redoute's Choice) in the Caulfield Guineas (Gr 1, 1600m) on October 10, replacing Michael Dee after a consultation with the ownership group. Cambourne was unbeaten heading into last weekend's Caulfield Guineas Prelude (Gr 3, 1400m) and finished a credible fourth, two and a quarter lengths behind winner Crosshaven (Smart Missile). "He has bounced through it beautifully. He was right on his toe (Tuesday) morning," Michael Kent Jr, who trains in partnership with Mick Price, told Racing.com. "He carries very good body weight, which is important because he has got a compressed program given he started late. He has got a few things in his favour, he has a great constitution, he works, eats and sleeps, literally. He is very relaxed and doesn't waste any nervous energy. And most importantly, he has got talent."

Gong on cards for 'Gator

Alligator Blood

SPORTPIX

Alligator Blood (All Too Hard) will likely end his Sydney spring campaign in the The Gong (1600m), depending on how the four-year-old comes through the $7.5m Golden Eagle (1500m). The gelding is due to arrive in Sydney early next month for the Silver Eagle (1300m) at Randwick on October 10, before tackling the big prize of the Golden Eagle three weeks later. Alligator Blood, who won the Australian Guineas (Gr 1, 1600m) in February, had his first start for the spring in a sprint at Doomben (1100m) carrying 61kg into third place and pleasing his trainer with his effort. "He settled nicely and found the line, he didn't set the world on fire but he got a pass mark and he has come through it well," David Vandyke told Racing NSW. "I'm looking forward to seeing him over the 1300m which would be a more suitable trip but I'd say his best distance is probably around the Golden Eagle distance (1500m)."

Malahide on track for Magic Millions

Shalaa filly wins Brisbane trial

A filly by Arrowfield Stud's shuttler Shalaa (Invincible Spirit) won a two-year-old barrier trial at Eagle Farm yesterday in the fastest heat of the morning. Trained by Rob Heathcote, Shaluna won heat two for fillies over 800 metres where she scored by five lengths in a time of 46.01 seconds. Raced by Chinchilla's Gleeson Thoroughbreds, who also bred Heathcote's injured Group 1 winner Rothfire (Rothsay), after being passed in at the Magic Millions Gold Coast March Yearling Sale, Shaluna defeated Entanglement (Bel Esprit) and Rhapsody Rose (Star Witness). Shalaa stands for a fee of $33,000 (inc GST) at Arrowfield this year.

Extreme Choice colts win jump outs

Trainers Mick Price and Michael Kent Jr are eyeing off the MRC Debutant Stakes (Listed, 1000m) at Caulfield on Saturday week with a pair of colts by first season sire Extreme Choice (Not A Single Doubt). Extreme Warrior won heat one in a time of 48.94 seconds for the 800 metres after working home strongly while Red Rocketship showed speed to win heat two in a time of 49.17 seconds.

94 pay up for Melbourne Cup

A total of 94 horses remain in contention for a start in the 2020 Melbourne Cup, the highest number of first acceptances in ten years. Racing Victoria announced that despite the Covid-19 pandemic, the Melbourne Cup had 82 locally-trained horses and 12 international horses paid up as first acceptors on Tuesday. Over the past five years there has been an average of 16 overseas horses still in the mix at the same stage. The biggest names to drop out of Melbourne Cup contention are Mr Quickie (Shamus Award), Arcadia Queen (Pierro) and Colette (Hallowed Crown). Chris Waller has the most in the running with nine, including Verry Elleegant and Finche (Frankel). Last year's Melbourne Cup-winning trainer Danny O'Brien has six first acceptors, including reigning champion Vow And Declare (Declaration Of War) and boom galloper Russian Camelot. With an international rating of 121, the Aidan O'Brien-trained Anthony Van Dyck (Galileo) is the headline act among the international horses due to land in Melbourne on Friday night. Hugh Bowman will ride him in the Caulfield and Melbourne Cups.

NSW horse movement restrictions eased

Racing NSW has announced further easing of restrictions permitting horses to travel from Victoria into NSW, following a reduction in the amount of daily new Covid-19 cases in Victoria and the stabilisation of the infection rate. The latest announcement means Victorian horses no longer have to spend two full days at a spelling farm before proceeding to a racing stable. Racing NSW announced: "The easing of these restrictions will allow all horses currently located in Victoria to be transported into NSW, subject to the Racing NSW Policy for the Transportation of Horses from Victoria with horses now only required to spend three hours in an outside yard or paddock at a spelling property or pre-training property before being transported to a racecourse or licensed stables." Other restrictions, including use of one transport driver and maintaining social distancing, remain in place.

Alexander blasts timing

Archie Alexander was unhappy with Racing NSW's relaxation of Covid-19 protocols, arguing the announcement should have come before the acceptance time for the Metropolitan and Epsom Handicaps. Alexander said he was keen to run last year's Metropolitan runner-up Gallic Chieftain (Tamayuz) and Young Rascal (Intello) this weekend. "If they'd announced this 24 hours earlier, we would have gone," Alexander told Racing.com. "We decided not to go because it is too complicated with no staff allowed to travel with the horses. Going to a spelling farm for two days - it is not a training centre as we know. You don't know what the facilities are like - they are farms not training centres - and so with no staff, you don't want to hand over the pride and joy of your stable to people you don't know. It's exactly the reason we haven't gone and then to find out just after acceptance time of the change in rules is really disappointing. Under the new rules, to spend three hours at a spelling farm is actually a really nice luxury. The horse can get off the truck and have a pick and a roll, have a drink and then they head off to Warwick Farm as we've always done. We use Ciaran Maher's place to run from and we would have gone. Instead we have no runners. It's annoying. I am not saying we would have won but it's the principle."

Injury sidelines Thornton

Damien Thornton will be out for an extended period of time after suffering five fractures and ligament damage in his right foot. The Group-1 winning jockey was injured in a racing incident at Pakenham on August 31 and the latest diagnosis is worse than originally expected. Thornton had to undergo surgery and will wear a moon boot for the next six weeks, with his return date not likely to be until 2021.

Brosnan savours stakes win

Mark Brosnan won his first stakes race for over nine years when Supreme Heights (Jimmy Choux) won the New Zealand Bloodstock Ready To Run Sale Trainers Series

(Gr 3, 1400m) on Saturday, and he believes it was a fitting outcome from a mare who held the shining light at the end of New Zealand's Covid-19 racing lockdown. "It's been a long time between them," Brosnan said. "She's a good mare and I knew she had the ability, but I was worried about her handling the track. We decided to press on during lockdown and keep training them. We never have more than 12 in work and Yo [Brosnan's wife] and I do it ourselves. It's helped us have her fit enough for this race, even though she paid a hefty penalty for her (lead-up) win at Te Rapa. The sort of horses I'm dealing with are suited by the racing and tracks at the time we had the lockdown. That's often the time of year I get a few winners, while the good horses are out with the bigger stables easing off and resting most of their teams."

Divine Prophet juvenile wins trial

Divine Prophet

AQUIS FARM

First season sire Divine Prophet (Choirir) had a trial winner at Te Aroha yesterday as his juvenile colt out of Caramellos showed an electrifying foot in heat seven. Trained by Team Rogerson, the unnamed juvenile beat two other two-year-olds under Samantha Collett. Divine Prophet, who won the Caulfield Guineas (Gr 1, 1600m) in 2016 and now stands at Aquis Farm in NSW for a fee of $22,000 (inc GST), is awaiting his first race day winner.

Jolly Banner after third Group win

Champion trainer Ricky Yiu is targeting stable stalwart Jolly Banner (Lonhro) at the National Day Cup Handicap (Gr 3, 1000m) on Thursday, as he bids to secure a third Group victory for the nine-year-old. "This will be one of his last few runs - probably by the end of the year we will try and send him back to Australia - he's a nine-year-old, so we need to take it race-by-race," Yiu told the Hong Kong Jockey Club. The gelding, who will race for the 43rd time in the handicap, has won HK$14.8 million in prize money since being bought at the 2013 Australian Easter Yearling Sale for AUD$300,000 (approx. HK$1.6 million). "It was love at first sight!" Yiu said. "I rang up the client, who is the owner now, and straight away said we need to buy this horse - he'll do well, I like him a lot, he's a natural runner." Jolly Banner's last two wins have come at Group 3 level, firstly the 2019 Bauhinia Sprint Trophy Handicap (Gr 3, 1000m) followed by the Premier Cup Handicap (Gr 3, 1400m) three starts ago in June.

Saudi Arabia: Saudi Cup prize money boost

The Jockey Club of Saudi Arabia will increase prize-money for its two-day Saudi Cup meeting, beginning in Riyadh on February 19. Prince Bandar bin Khalid al Faisal, chairman of the JCSA, announced that US$30.5 million would be offered across the Saudi Cup card, up from US$29.2m, with the feature contest still run for US$20m. The JCSA has increased the prize-money for three dirt races on the card: the Obaiya Arabian Classic, The Jockey Club Local Handicap and the Saudi Derby. A new race will also be staged on the opening day of the meeting, the US$500,000 Saudi International Handicap, which will be open to runners from tier two and tier three countries, such as Italy. The JCSA is withholding prize-money from connections of the first Saudi Cup winner, Maximum Security (New Year's Day), whose former trainer Jason Servis is among 27 people facing federal charges in the US as part of an alleged widespread doping scheme. "This is a very unusual situation and not something any of us could have predicted," Prince Bandar said. "We're at the mercy of what's happening in the US. I can assure everyone there will be a resolution."

The Incomparable And Individual Billy Pyers William Bert “Billy” Pyers (1933-2004)

BY STEVE MORAN | @ANZ_NEWS

Billy Pyers is perhaps, and certainly unfairly, best known for going to jail. Twice.

His release, on the second occasion, came after a pardon from French President Georges Pompidou. Quite a tale.

However those stories - other than demonstrating just how popular he was with the French - don't do justice to the likeable South Australian who, with his red hair and freckles, was dubbed Ginger Meggs and worthily takes his place among our “Incomparables”.

Pyers created a huge impression, courtesy of his skill in the saddle and big personality, in Australia, France and even in England where he had many memorable cameos including winning major races at his first ride at Newmarket, Ascot and York.

But Australia and France were his homes and where he dominated the racing and general news at various times. He won the Prix de l'arc de Triomphe in Paris (where he was jailed a few days later) and was seven times champion jockey in Adelaide by the age of 24, in 1957.

He won his 8th and 9th premierships in 1959-60 and 1960-61. Then, as his services were keenly sought by interstate trainers, he won the Caulfield Cup and the Golden Slipper in 1963 and other major races including the Moonee Valley Cup, Newmarket Handicap, Oakleigh Plate, Futurity Stakes, Caulfield Stakes, Cantala Stakes and VRC Sires.

At home, he rode Tulloch to win the 1961 Pullman Stakes which was the great horse's only appearance in Adelaide. It was the third last win (and start) of Tulloch's 53 start career which yielded 36 wins and just one unplaced run. He won the Adelaide Cup, SA Derby plus the Goodwood twice and SA Oaks seven times. “I never had a better jockey than Billy Pyers,” reportedly said legendary South Australian trainer Colin Hayes.

In 1964 he went to France to partner with fellow Australian, trainer Ernie Fellows, and on his first ride in England won the 2000 Guineas at Newmarket on 20/1 chance Baldrick II who was trained by Fellows and owned by an American Mrs Howell (Dorothy) Jackson whose maroon colours - in truth those of her husband - were apparently the oldest registered in the United States.

He later rode for Daniel Wildenstein, the Aga Khan and for another American Nelson Bunker Hunt which led to his partnership with the champion mare Dahlia, albeit one which was terminated by the owner in her four-year-old season.

His major successes included the King George VI and Queen Elizabeth Stakes (twice), French Derby, Irish Oaks, Ascot Gold Cup and the 1967 Arc on Toppyo. He also won the 1973 Washington DC international on the great Dahlia, whom he regarded as the greatest horse he ever rode.

Pyers provided some background to his move to France and securing his Arc mount in a Racing Post interview in 2002.

"Ernie (Fellows) had only about 20 horses, so I also started riding out for Mick Bartholomew," he recalled, "which led to big-race wins like the Gold Cup on Pardallo and the Arc on Topyo. I hadn't ridden a winner in France when I came over to Newmarket to ride Baldric in the Guineas."

Nor had he been to Newmarket until that week as was reported post-race: - "The Australian Jockey saw Newmarket for the first time when he walked the course on Tuesday morning. He said the win was the greatest day of his career. After arriving in France in February he had ridden 20 times without success. Now, at the 21st attempt, came this brilliantly-executed victory."

The Guineas was then the richest race in England. "I guess we are lucky in England," gasped an almost breathless Mrs. Howell Jackson after the win.

"The American owner's remark was the understatement of the racing season," the report added, "but understandably so in the excitement of victory. Mrs. Jackson has had three runners in our classics and each has won. The colt, bred at the Jackson's stud in Middleburg, Virginia, is trained in France by an Australian,

Ernie Fellows, and was ridden by his compatriot Bill Pyers.

"Victory completed a remarkable treble for the Jacksons as their only other runner in the English classics was Never Too Late II, heroine of the 1960 Oaks and One Thousand Guineas."

Apparently it was also a good result for Bob Simpson's Australian cricket team who retained the Ashes 1-0 and backed Baldric II on Pyers' recommendation.

The Guineas would not be the only time that Pyers, who was described as "a fun-loving jockey whose flair for imaginative pranks made him one of the best-liked personalities of the Australian turf", would stun the English.

This was filed after he won the Dante Stakes at York the following year: - "Bill Pyers, the French-based jockey who made a habit of winning on his first ride on an English course, did it again at York yesterday. Pyers, who last year had first-timers at Newmarket on Baldric II in the 2,000 Guineas and at Ascot on Nasram in the King George VI and Queen Elizabeth Stakes, was a late replacement for stable jockey Brian Connorton on Ballymarais in the Dante Stakes and the Northern-trained colt slammed his more fancied Derby rivals to win by half a length from the Irish challenger Meadow Court."

Life was good for the young gun from South Australia. Pyers, after winning the Arc on 80/1 chance Topyo in 1967, told Reuters he planned to settle permanently in France "unless I earn enough money to live in idle luxury".

"It is the ambition of all jockeys to win the Arc," Pyers said, "it's the biggest race in the world, or that's what we think. It makes the Melbourne Cup look small. It makes ten Melbourne Cups. We think in Australia that the Melbourne Cup is the crowning glory, but they have hardly heard of it here.

"We've still got a soft spot for Australia but this is the place".

Topyo was owned by Suzy Volterra (Grimberg) who began her career as a dancer at the Paris Opera. In 1947, she met Léon Volterra, Parisian impresario and great lover of horses, whom she married shortly before he died in 1949. He left her his property including his stable of racehorses. She also won the 1955 Epsom Derby with Phil Drake and would later engage one of France's leading lawyers to represent Pyers when faced with charges from two car accidents.

“INDEED IT WAS A FEW DAYS AFTER WINNING THE ARC AND IT WAS THEN REPORTED THAT PYERS WOULD SPEND AT LEAST THREE DAYS IN THE “GRIM” SANTE PRISON

Chantilly trainer Bartholomew prepared Topyo to win the Arc. Aside from this success, he was well known for contracting Lester Piggott to ride for him on Sundays (only) in France and also for tutoring (as did Tommy Smith) respected trainer Henry Candy.

At the time, Pyers said he estimated he was earning two or three times what he would be earning in Australia.

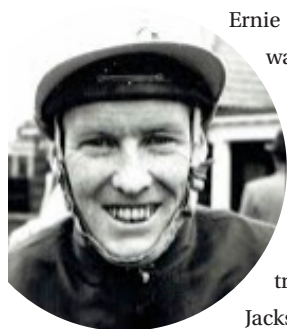

"The large grin of Australian Billy Pyers is extra wide these days— he's just become the highest paid jockey in Europe," it was reported in 1968, "Pyers has signed to ride the powerful string of horses owned by international art dealer Daniel Wildenstein for the next three years. His reported retainer is $US80,000 a year. In addition he will receive his riding fees and ten per cent of all place money."

The average earnings for a week's work, in Australia, in 1965-66 was $57 (around $740 in today's dollars).

The Daily Mail quoted the the racing manager for Mr and Mrs Howell Jackson as saying "we could not match the $80,000 a year Daniel Wildenstein is paying him" while former English champion rider Sir Gordon Richards said "an absolutely top English jockey can probably command a retainer of not more than £6,000. Things seem to have got out of all proportion".

Pyers, like his compatriot Togo Johnstone who was dubbed Le Crocodile in France, could find trouble.

Max Presnell wrote, in 2004 after Pyers died in the same week as cricket legend Keith Miller: "Pyers was in a car crash in France and escorted the woman driver of the other car to her home, and was assured she wasn't injured. More than a year later the woman recognised Pyers on television after he won a big race and sued him for careless driving and failing to report an accident. He spent 33 days in gaol, and said "the best two blokes I met were Russian spies".

Indeed it was a few days after winning the Arc and it was then reported that Pyers would spend at least three days in the "grim" Sante Prison.

"He was arrested last night following a motoring case last July when he was sentenced to a years imprisonment in his absence. But there was a public outcry tonight over the jailing of Pyers....he is almost a national hero," the French Press reported.

Pyers, then 34, said he knew nothing about the court hearing which heard evidence of an alleged hit and run driving offence 15 months earlier. His lawyer said Pyers was being pampered by warders hoping to get tips for the races.

Soon after it was reported that Pyers "who rode the winner of Europe's richest race ten days ago, went off to jail for a year today."

He was freed a month later. "Jockey Bill Pyers will be set free from a French jail tomorrow—after serving just thirty-four days of a one-year sentence. His lawyer successfully appealed today against the sentence passed on the Australian in his absence last July. Today the appeal court decided that papers telling Pyers of his right to appeal had not been properly served.

"Judges reduced the sentence to a £140 fine and a month in jail. When the verdict was announced, Pyers jumped up and embraced his lawyer, his wife Becky and 14-year-old daughter Sandra and burst into tears."

Four years later, Pyers found himself in hot water again.

It was January 1971 and a French prosecutor insisted he should go to gaol on charges of drunk driving, assault and attempted bribery of a police officer. Pyers had earlier been convinced of these charges but given a six months suspended sentence which the prosecutor argued was "insufficient" penalty.

"The conduct of Mr William Pyers was to say the least cavalier", the prosecutor said. He was re-sentenced to three months jail.

Then, in January 1972, came news of his pardon. "Australian jockey Bill Pyers left Compiègne prison yesterday with a presidential pardon. The 38-year-old, one of the idols of French racing, had served nearly two thirds of a three month term.

"Pyers looked fit but pale as he came bouncing through the iron prison gates to freedom in cold, foggy weather. 'I was in the prison infirmary all the time, so life wasn't too bad,'" he said.

The Arc was one of 23 races, which now have Group 1 status, Pyers won in England, Ireland and France. He also rode the champion mare Dahlia to multiple successes including the Washington DC International after which her trainer Maurice Zilber was asked to compare Dahlia to the American champion Secretariat (who won the Triple Crown that year).

Zilber said: "She could beat Secretariat any day in any country. I would like to see a match race. I would even put up my money".

Pyers' wins on Dahlia in the Irish Oaks and in the King George VI and Queen Elizabeth Stakes were especially memorable.

Julian Wilson, in The Great Racehorse, wrote: "Dahlia's success in the King George was one of the most staggering big race victories I have ever seen. Last with a half mile to race, she swept past a field which included Rheingold and Roberto to win by six lengths going away. A week earlier, Dahlia had beaten the four lengths Oaks winner Mysterious by three lengths in the Irish Oaks."

"She was a very good filly and on that day she was something special," Pyers said of the King George win.

STAMPBOARDS

Dahlia may have won as she liked at Ascot that year, but before the race the following year (which she won again), Pyers was told by Ted Curtin - training for Bunker Hunt in Ireland - that Lester Piggott would be riding the filly in the King George.

Pyers recalled in the Racing Post Interview: "Bunker Hunt told me there was no contract between us and that Lester 'seems to have something on you jockeys when you're in England, but you'll be paid the same'. So I agreed and Lester won on her.

"My wife Becky and I always got on very well with Lester and Susan and had many good times together with them and the Saint-Martins. I'm glad to hear Lester is well and would like to pass on my best wishes to them."

Life did not prove to be so glamorous in retirement. He remained in France, where he was assistant to Dahlia's trainer Maurice Zilber for a time and continued riding work.

"I had always had difficulties with my weight and it just became too much of a battle. Unfortunately, other things went wrong at around the same time and I had health and financial problems," said Pyers who returned to Australia in 1991.

"At one time I was a millionaire, but I came back and my accountant went through all the money and I lost everything," he told the Racing Post.
