Thoroughbred Aftercare Welfare Working Group calls for submissions

BY ANDREW HAWKINS | @ANZ_NEWS

After a Covid-19 delay, the expert panel convened by the Australian thoroughbred industry to examine the welfare of horses leaving the racing and breeding industries is calling for submissions to guide the working group as it crafts a national strategy focused on seven key areas. Continued on page 2>>

Inglis Millennium to count towards Slipper in first for sales-restricted race

BY ANDREW HAWKINS | @ANZ_NEWS

The Australian Turf Club (ATC) says that the placement of the rich Inglis Millennium (RL, 1200m) within Sydney's juvenile program is enough to make a historic break from tradition, allowing prize-money from a sales-restricted race to be partially counted towards Golden Slipper Stakes (Gr 1, 1200m) qualification for the first time.

Inglis yesterday announced that its $2 million juvenile feature, which has only been run for two years, would be run at Randwick in 2021

and that $69,500 of the winner's prize-money will count towards Golden Slipper qualification, with the order of entry determined by eligible earnings. Continued on page 8>>

The Thoroughbred Aftercare Welfare Working Group (TAWWG) will be accepting submissions until midday on July 24 based on terms of reference released in an issues paper today. The issues paper highlights seven key areas that the panel will examine further:

- What is good horse welfare?
- Thoroughbred breeding
- Thoroughbred traceability
- Racing and breeding industry - sponsored programs for retired racehorses
- Regulation
- Humane horse processing facilities
- Research, development and education

The panel was set up earlier this year by Thoroughbred Breeders Australia (TBA), the Australian Trainers' Association (ATA) and the Australian Jockeys' Association (AJA), in conjunction with a host of industry stakeholders.

The four-person panel is chaired by Dr Denis Napthine, former Victorian premier and minister of racing as well as a qualified veterinarian. He is joined by Dr Ken Jacobs, a former director of the Australian Veterinary Association; Dr Bidida Jones, chief science and strategy officer for RSPCA Australia; and Jack Lake, a senior advisor on agricultural policy in the Hawke, Keating and Rudd governments.

"There have been a number of factors related to Covid-19 that have seen us wait until now to proceed with submissions, but we think the time is right to move forward," TBA chief executive Tom Reilly, who has led the establishment of the independent working group, told ANZ Bloodstock News yesterday.

"I'm grateful to the panel that they have given a lot of thought to what the key issues are. It's not really about how horses are treated while they are in work; it's focused on horses and making sure that, once they leave the racing and breeding industries, the outcomes are as good as they can be. I think that, anyone who takes the time to read the issues paper, you'll see that there is a lot of thought that's been put into it.

"I think it's a strong document. It will certainly spark debate and hopefully it will encourage people to share their insights and opinions."

The panel will be guided by a steering group comprising some of the leading lights within the racing and breeding industries. The group includes Chris Waller, owner and administrator Neil Werrett, Godolphin Australia managing director Vin Cox and studmaster John Kelly; they are joined by Reilly, Andrew Nichol and Martin Talty, the chief executives of the TBA, ATA and AJA respectively.

"The steering group is there to provide advice about the industry, we've got a broad skill-set there," Reilly said. "The participant groups on that panel are there to be a sounding board, too. That panel has already had their opportunity to give feedback on the issues paper, which was drafted and pulled together by the working group. It's really there to assist the working group."

In addition to the steering group, the panel will be engaging in consultation with racing authorities, clubs, administrators and participants, as well as those outside the industry. Most importantly, Napthine and his group will engage with governments to ensure that there is a common approach to the seven issues.

<< Continued from page 2 “Right from when we announced it, Denis was on the front foot,” Reilly said. “He reached out to a number of the principal racing authorities and a number of the clubs too. He’s sat down with Peter V’landys, he’s sat down with Giles Thompson, he’s sat down with Greg Nichols and they all have an important role to play. There is an ongoing dialogue there and I’m sure Denis and the working group will be reaching out to those groups that obviously have some real insight to share.

“We’re lucky in that Denis is very experienced in the political realm and so too is Jack Lake, he has worked across many governments in Canberra but also working specifically in the agricultural sector and has an amazing understanding of the interaction between federal and state governments.”

While welfare issues have long been a focus of the racing and breeding industries, the practices exposed by ABC’s 7.30 in their The Final Race story sparked not only external scrutiny, but also an industry-wide conversation which continues with the panel’s examination.

“There’s a huge amount of good work that is being done already on the welfare front,” Reilly said. “This is about saying, can we improve upon that? Can we work more collaboratively? It’s not just about what racing does or what racing or breeding participants do, it’s also about working with state governments and the federal government.

“It’s about saying, if animals are going to be euthanised or processed, that has to be done to a standard that everyone can feel confident in. At the moment, I don’t think that’s the case. Horses are one of the few animals where there are not proper and enforceable standards and guidelines at a state level, so that’s something we need to rectify.

“I think this group really gives us the opportunity to do that, because we’ve got people on there who understand that system, people on there who are very credible. It’s not just what we do internally as an industry, but looking outside it too. The governments have recognised that and they’ve set up working groups to look at enforceable standards for all horses and also to look at traceability. Our group, headed by Denis, is going to plug into that, so there is a real opportunity to get some real traction this year and make some real progress.”

Napthine hopes to have submissions from parties both inside and outside the racing and breeding industries, as well as from abroad. In particular, there will be engagement with animal welfare groups in a bid for a collaborative approach.

“This project can only be successful if there is strong engagement from all stakeholders, including animal welfare groups, the racing and breeding industries and indeed anyone who has valuable insights to share, so we would encourage as many people as possible to come forward and have their say,” Napthine said.

“This important process will be open and transparent, and so anyone who wishes to provide their views, information and expertise will be given the opportunity to assist the panel’s considerations and guide our consultation process.

Reilly added: “The panel, when drafting that document, didn’t want to be overly prescriptive because a good idea can come from anywhere. Certainly I’m hoping that we get a lot of submissions from people, not just inside the industry, but outside the industry too. The questions and the issues are a guide to what the panel sees as important, but they are essentially creating a platform to come in from all angles and with different views.

“I haven’t come across anyone in the industry who has criticised the formation of the working group. Everyone I speak to realises that welfare is a challenge and that we’ve got to get it right. Everyone who has spoken to me about it is coming from the same position: if we can improve, let’s improve.

“If that means asking people from outside the industry to give us their feedback, then let’s do it if it’s going to make us better. If people from other industries or even from the thoroughbred industry overseas want to share their knowledge and that can lead to an improvement, I think that’s a great thing.”

Once submissions close in July, the panel will put together a report with their recommendations. Their findings are expected at some point during the spring.

“We’ve asked the panel to come back with their recommendations in spring. Despite the hold-ups because of Covid, I’m hopeful that they will be able to meet that timeline,” Reilly said.

Inglis Millennium to count towards Slipper in first for sales-restricted race

The Australian Turf Club (ATC) says that the placement of the rich Inglis Millennium (RL, 1200m) within Sydney's juvenile program is enough to make a historic break from tradition, allowing prize-money from a sales-restricted race to be partially counted towards Golden Slipper Stakes (Gr 1, 1200m) qualification for the first time.

Inglis yesterday announced that its $2 million juvenile feature, which has only been run for two years, would be run at Randwick in 2021 and that $69,500 of the winner's prize-money will count towards Golden Slipper qualification, with the order of entry determined by eligible earnings.

The $69,500 figure is the equivalent of the minimum for a Sydney Listed race for two-year-olds.

"The timing is everything around the Inglis Millennium," James Ross, the ATC's general manager of racing, wagering and international, told ANZ Bloodstock News yesterday. "I think any race that we've got that's playing a significant role in the qualification of horses for the Slipper has to fall within that critical month or two before the race, from the Canonbury and Widden on. It's a critical juncture when horses are resuming or potentially having their second-last or even their final run before the Slipper.

James Ross

"We thought about that for a fair amount of time. Obviously, looking at the two quality renewals that the race has already had with Castelveccchio and then the significance that the race can play at that prize-money level in that position within the Golden Slipper pathway, we felt it was a reasonable thing to do to effectively value the race at the same level as Listed prize-money as it is a Restricted Listed race.

<< Continued from page 8 “That means that there is no disadvantage to the horses running in it and it can play a meaningful role in the Slipper pathway. I think that was a good outcome for Inglis, who are long-term partners of ours, and then also just the programming options for the race as well.”

Inglis managing director Mark Webster added: “I would especially like to thank Jamie Barkley and James Ross at the ATC for the work they have done in ensuring a portion of the Millennium prize-money will now count toward official Golden Slipper qualification.

“This is something we have been working toward since even before the inaugural Inglis Millennium had been run and with the hard work of the ATC and Racing NSW this is a great result for all breeders, owners, trainers and overall racing participants.

“The Inglis Millennium has already announced itself as one of Australia’s primary two-year-old races and a key lead-up to the Golden Slipper, Inglis Sires and Champagne Stakes and the fact a portion of the prize-money will now be treated as official qualification for the Slipper is a fantastic outcome.

“Prize-money from the Inglis Banner at Moonee Valley on Cox Plate Day has long counted toward qualification for the Blue Diamond so it is fantastic we now have a similar situation in NSW for the Millennium and the Slipper, the state’s two biggest juvenile races.”

Ross suggested that the move does not disadvantage Magic Millions

Mark Webster

graduates, with the Magic Millions 2YO Classic (RL, 1200m) being run in early January and allowing for more time to earn prize-money that will count towards qualification.

“I don’t think it’s an issue,” Ross said. “We assess any race for which we get an application on its merits. Inglis applied with the Millennium to have its prize-money considered. I think there’s already a very strong pathway there otherwise - we’ve got seven exempt races leading into the Slipper, ballot exempt races, that provide options. Continued on page 11>>

Darley

<< Continued from page 10 “I think Sydney is one of the leading juvenile jurisdictions, too; on most weeks you’re finding a race - whether it be top prize-money or black-type or even better, black-type and prize-money - on each of those weeks all the way through to the Golden Slipper. I think there’s a really strong program and this just strengthens that a little bit more by ensuring that opportunity exists for those who chase the Inglis Millennium.

“I think it’s important too to consider just how different programs are being utilised. There are so many options now compared to historical pathways, so people are preferring to campaign two-year-olds with a let-up, keep them fresh, so February is becoming as important as March in that preparation. I think it will work out well.”

It was one of a raft of changes to the $6 million Inglis Race Series for 2020 graduates, which includes the introduction of the $250,000 Inglis Bracelet (1600m) for fillies and mares on Oaks Day at Flemington, the transfer of the Inglis Sprint (1200m) for three-year-olds to Australian Guineas (Gr 1, 1600m) day at Flemington from 2022 and the switching of the Inglis Dash (1100m), also for three-year-olds, to Flemington next season.

The 2YO Inglis Challenge (1100m) at Scone also received a boost with its prize-money doubled to $200,000. From next year, it will also be eligible to horses sold at the Highway Session at the Inglis Classic Yearling Sale and the Showcase Session at the Inglis Premier Yearling Sale, as well as those purchased from the Melbourne Gold Sale and online through Inglis Digital.

“The Race Series is a hugely rewarding part of our business and gives our clients - breeders, vendors, buyers, trainers and owners - the chance to compete for big money against other Inglis horses,” Webster said. “These changes we announce today will have a positive impact on so many of those clients.

Oaklands Junction

“I would also like to thank the Victoria Racing Club for their enthusiasm in accepting our new initiative, the Inglis Bracelet on Oaks Day as well as hosting the Inglis Sprint as a feature race on what is already a magnificent day’s racing on Australian Guineas Day, a day before the start of our Premier Yearling Sale at Oaklands each year.”

Registrations for the Inglis Race Series for 2020 graduates remain open until July 31.

Four for Press Statement

Vinery first season sire Press Statement (Hinchinbrook) landed his fourth winner yesterday, as the Ciaran Maher and David Eustace-trained Equation (2 c ex Percentage by Onemorenomore) took out an 1100-metre on the Kensington track at Randwick. Ridden by Tommy Berry, the colt defeated Falcon (Not A Single Doubt) by two and a quarter lengths with Sharpshooter (Hinchinbrook) coming home a further length and three-quarters away in third. Equation was purchased by Aquis Farm at the Magic Million National Weanling Sale for $110,000 from the draft of Sledmere Stud. He is the first foal out of winning mare Percentage (Onemorenomore), who in turn is a half-sister to Group 2 placegetter Surrendous (Shamardal). Equation's grandam is the Listed-scoring MRC Thousand Guineas (Gr 1, 1600m) third Spurcent (Flying Spur), while he is also related to Hong Kong Mile (Gr 1, 1600m) winner Glorious Days (Hussonet). Press Statement stands at Vinery Stud for a fee of $13,750 (inc GST) in 2020.

Five for Vancouver

Coolmore freshman Vancouver (Medaglia d'Oro) sired his fifth winner yesterday as Armatree (2 c ex Miss Occhilupo by Octagonal) broke his maiden in an 1100-metre juvenile event at Randwick-Kensington. Trained by Peter and Paul Snowden, the colt defeated stablemate Dance (Not A Single Doubt) by three-quarters of a length with Wild Irish (No Nay Never) coming home a neck away in third. Bred and raced by Lex Kingdom, Armatree is the third foal out of Miss Occhilupo (Octagonal), who herself is out of American Listed winner Malibu Light (Capote), making her a half-sister to Star Of Flight (Marscay), the dam of Karaka Million (RL, 1200m) placegetter Bewitch. Vancouver stands at Coolmore's Jerrys Plains for a fee of $30,250 (inc GST) in 2020.

Three for I'm All The Talk

Mungrup Stud's first season sire I'm All The Talk (Stratum) landed his third winner yesterday when Dad's Bigheaded (2 g ex Glamourscene by Scenic) took out the 2YO No-Metro-Win Plate (1400m) at Belmont. The Colin Webster-trained gelding defeated Sunset Cruise (Red Hot Choice) by three-quarters of a length with Kallaroo (All American) coming home a further neck away in third. Dad's Bigheaded is the fourth winner out of Glamourscene (Scenic) who herself is a sister to the stakes placed Carmenesque, the dam of Chester Manifold Stakes (Listed, 1410m) winner Umaquest (Umatilla). Group 2 winner I'm All The Talk stands at the Western Australia farm for a fee of $7,700 (inc GST) in 2020.

Wright joins Kia Ora

Kia Ora stud announced yesterday that Shane Wright, former stud manager at Yarraman Park, has been appointed as breeding and bloodstock manager, replacing Andrew Perryman, who is set to join Twin Hills Stud. "It is a privilege to join Mr Krishnan, Bob Rose and the Kia Ora team, a foundation stud in the Hunter Valley that has been operating for over 100 years and is steeped in its own legacy," Wright said. "It is a very exciting time for the stud going forward with some outstanding yearlings primed for sale next year and also some very exciting Kia Ora-bred racehorses performing very well on the track at present. I feel it is a huge opportunity to be part of a stud with such history and tradition and I look forward to the challenge. I would like to wish Andrew Perryman and his family all the best with their future at Twin Hills."

Tyzone aims to emulate country greats

Tyzone (Written Tycoon) will bid to join an elite list of country-raised horses when he lines up in Saturday's Stradbroke Handicap (Gr 1, 1400m). Already the winner of 16 races and almost $1 million in prize-money, a win on Saturday would ensure his place in Queensland country racing folklore having started his career in North Queensland for trainer Roy Chillemi before joining the Toby and Trent Edmonds partnership on the Gold Coast. Trent Edmonds, who said another Stradbroke had been Tyzone's aim since going close in 2019, admitted he was deflated when the six-year-old drew barrier 21 on Tuesday. "We rode him back in the field last year and hopefully he can get cover and run a similar race this year. He has raced well in Sydney and Melbourne this season which showed his class. But the Stradbroke was always the aim. It has been what we planned for him right from when he was runner-up last year."

Wide barriers no issue in Stradbroke

Statistics show drawing a wide barrier in the Stradbroke isn't always a major worry - which is good news for several leading chances. Of the past 30 Stradbroke winners, 16 have started from barrier ten or wider. In fact the extreme outside barrier of 18 has been the equal most successful gate with four wins. Brisbane Racing Club figures also show the inside and outside barriers have had the same success rate in 1400-metre races although the figures are skewed because many races over that trip do not have 18 runners.

Blinkers the option for JJ Atkins hope

Not An Option (Not A Single Doubt) will wear blinkers for the first time in an effort to get him to race closer to the pace in the JJ Atkins (Gr 1, 1400m) at Eagle Farm on Saturday. The gelding was third in a Rosehill trial and then an impressive winner at Canterbury last week. In that trial he wore blinkers and Richard Freedman, who along with his brother Michael is overseeing the colt's prep while trainer Tony Pike remains in New Zealand, said it had been a good effort. "In both his Australian starts he had a tendency to drop out in his races and with blinkers we want to get him closer in the run," Richard Freedman said. "Not An Option has drawn barrier three and hopefully blinkers mean we can make the most of it. There are some quality go-forward horses in the field like Rothfire and Wisdom of Water who we don't want to be giving a big start."

Pandemic gives locals G1 boost

Coronavirus travel restrictions have kept many top riders and stables away from Brisbane, giving locals improved chances of maiden Group 1 wins. Of the 80 Group 1 races run in Brisbane in the past decade, NSW trained horses have won 46, Victoria 18, New Zealand seven and West Australia one. Queensland-trained horses have only won eight. Out of state dominance continues with jockeys with 90 per cent of the winning riders in the past decade coming from outside Queensland. Only two local jockeys, Michael Cahill and Robbie Fradd, who rode in last year's Stradbroke will feature in the race this year. Dale Smith, and possibly Taylor Marshall, are the only two backing up from last year in the JJ Atkins.

Owners allowed at Randwick meeting

Racehorse owners have been given the green light to start returning to Sydney racetracks to watch their horses run. In the first phase of patrons being allowed back on course on race days in Sydney, owners with runners at Saturday's Randwick meeting who pre-register with the Australian Turf Club will be allowed on course but with strict procedures in place. "The safety of our jockeys and participants has been paramount to us continuing to race and we will now move that focus to include spectators on course," ATC chief executive Jamie Barkley said. New protocols and procedures will include installing two body temperature thermal imaging cameras to monitor the temperature of patrons entering Randwick.

Tactical Advantage freshened for Randwick

Kris Lees is hoping the Randwick track can improve out of the heavy range to boost the chances of Tactical Advantage (Bel Esprit) in the Bob Charley AO Stakes (Listed, 1100m). Tactical Advantage has won three times at Listed level in the past 18 months, including two starts ago when he stormed home to take out the Hawkesbury Rush (Listed, 1100m) at Rosehill. The six-year-old failed in the Takeover Target Stakes (Listed, 1200m) at Randwick at his most recent start and he will be four weeks between runs on Saturday. "He's had a freshen up and he probably needs the track to continue to dry which I'm sure it will," Lees said. "I'd be guarded on heavy ground. As he's got older he seems to prefer firmer ground. It is a strong race but one he's certainly up to."

Thompson reunited with Mister Yeoh

Mister Yeoh (Wanted) will be reunited with Ben Thompson when the five-year-old makes his return to racing in Australia in the opener at Flemington on Saturday. Thompson only had three rides on Mister Yeoh in Singapore, winning a Group 2 race before finishing third at Group 1 and Group 2 level on the gelding. Back with his original trainer Jim Conlan, after racing for Cliff Brown in Singapore, Mister Yeoh won a recent jump-out at Mornington with Thompson in the saddle. "He won that jump-out quite well," Thompson said. "He's in good order and I had been riding him in gallops leading up to that trial, so it's exciting to be getting that sit on him on race day. It will be his first run down the Flemington straight course, but hopefully it's a good start to his prep."

Lost And Running makes it two from two

Lost And Running (Per Incanto) made it two convincing wins from as many starts with his first city victory on the Kensington track at Randwick yesterday. The John O'Shea-trained three-year-old gelding made an immediate impression with a four and a half length win in a quick time over 1000 metres on debut at Scone last month, and he backed it up with another convincing victory as the odds-on favourite when stepping up to 1100 metres. "He's got a beautiful, sweet action," O'Shea told Sky Thoroughbred Central. "Although he looked to be going quick, he seems to do that quite effortlessly. It was very exciting. I know it's only winter form but he's doing a good job and we'll just keep letting him learn his craft along the way throughout the winter. When he tells us he's had enough he can have a break and we'll see what we've got after that."

Cernan gets Moody back on city scoreboard

Peter Moody registered his first city winner since his return to training ranks when Cernan (Sea The Moon) scored at Sandown yesterday. Under the urgings of Luke Nolen, Cernan wore down the leader Fanciful Toff (Toorak Toff) to score by a short-head. "He's a tough little horse and it took him every stride of the 2400 metres," Moody told Racing.com. After a four-year break, Moody returned to training last month registering a winner with his first runner when Shepard (Sea The Moon) was successful at Ballarat on May 10.

Doomben double hands Gollan training record

Premier Queensland trainer Tony Gollan broke his own record for metropolitan wins in a season yesterday at Doomben, as The Actuary (Sebring) and Knight Mariner (Tavistock) brought his 2019/20 total to 91.5. Gollan held the record at 90, which he set in 2017-18, but he now has his sights on becoming the first trainer to record 100 Brisbane metropolitan winners in a season.

Walker excited about digital move

Canterbury breeder Susan Walker has been selling yearlings at New Zealand Bloodstock's South Island Sale for several decades and she is enjoying the sale's unique take this year. The sale has moved online to the gavelhouse.com plus platform as a result of the Covid-19 pandemic and Walker hailed New Zealand Bloodstock for the move. "I just thought thank God New Zealand Bloodstock has come up with an idea where we can part with our horses," Walker said. "I have been selling them at the South Island sale for a long time and I have sold some up at Karaka, but this is the first time I have sold horses online." Walker is offering two colts in the sale, which concludes on Sunday, under her Park Hill Stables banner and she has been pleased with the interest shown in both yearlings. ## Refreshed Weatherley looking forward to return

Apprentice jockey Sam Weatherley is champing at the bit to get back raceday riding. The Waikato hoop will enter the senior jockey ranks next season and he is determined to complete his tenure as an apprentice in style. Weatherley returned to New Zealand last year after a stint riding in Sydney and the season hasn't gone entirely to plan for him. "It started off a little bit slow, as expected, but I really started to kick into gear over the Christmas period," he said. "I was halted by a few silly suspensions. When I was getting my momentum up I would end up getting suspended again. The results were not what I was hoping for, but with a few suspensions and this Covid-19 pandemic, I haven't ridden as many winners as I would have liked. But I am keen to work hard next season and go wherever the rides are, and try and ride as many winners as possible."

Extended terms for RITA directors

Minister for racing Winston Peters announced yesterday that the terms for the directors of the Racing Industry Transition Agency (RITA) have been extended to June 30, 2021. Due to the Covid-19 crisis, the transition period has been extended to ensure that the Racing Industry Bill can complete its progress through the house at a time when the current focus on the Covid-19 response is reduced. "We knew from the beginning of the Covid-19 crisis that the racing industry was facing an unparalleled crisis in its history," Peters said. "The racing industry is seriously underestimated for its important contribution to our regions and our economy, and getting the reforms right is pivotal to the economic recovery of all of New Zealand." This extension will allow the directors to continue contributing to work strengthening the governance and operational settings in the racing industry.

144 for Dansili

JUDDMONTE FARMS

Pensioned stallion Dansili (Danehill) sired his 144th individual stakes winner yesterday when the Andrew Balding-trained Berlin Tango (3 c ex Fantasia by Sadler's Wells) took out the Classic Trial Stakes (Gr 3, 1m2f) at Kempton Park. Ridden by David Probert, the colt defeated Pyledriver (Harbour Watch) by a length and a quarter with Bright Melody (Dubawi) a further two and three-quarter lengths away in third. Berlin Tango is one of three victors out of five-time stakes-winning and three-time Group 1-placed mare Fantasia (Sadler's Wells), who herself is a half-sister to Group 3 scorer Pink Symphony (Montjeu) and Blue Rhapsody (Cape Cross), the dam of Western Hymn (High Chaparral). Western Hymn won the 2014 Classic Trial Stakes and went on to record a further five stakes victories and place at Group 1 level on three occasions. Dansili stood at Juddmonte's Banstead Manor Stud for 18 seasons before being pensioned in 2018, aged 22, due to declining fertility.

127 for Invincible Spirit

Champion stallion Invincible Spirit (Green Desert) sired his 127th individual stakes winner yesterday when the John Gosden-trained Nazeef (4 f ex Handassa by Dubawi) took out the Snowdrop Fillies' Stakes (Listed, 1m) at Kempton Park. Bred and raced by Shadwell Stud, the four-year-old filly defeated dual Group 1 winner Billesdon Brook (Champs Elysees) by three-quarters of a length with Shepherd Market (Reckless Abandon) a further length and a quarter back in third. Nazeef is out of Listed-winning mare Handassa (Dubawi), who herself is a half-sister to Group scorers Desert

Stone (Fastnet Rock) and Eugenio (Fastnet Rock). In his 20th season at Irish National Stud, Invincible Spirit stood for a fee of €100,000.

Marquand produces Shatha to shock at Kempton

She may have been a sleeper in the market but Shatha (Muhaarar) came alive for her racecourse debut at Kempton by running out a shock 66-1 winner of the 1m2f fillies' novice for Charlie Hills and Tom Marquand. One of the key factors in Shatha going off at such a big price was the fact that Sun Bear (Dubawi), trained by John Gosden and ridden by Frankie Detorri, dominated the market and was sent off as the 8-13 favourite. However, favourite backers never got a run for their money as Sun Bear was beaten over ten lengths behind the Shatha, who took command over a furlong out before hanging on grimly from the fast-finishing Lightness (Shamardal). A delighted, if not a little surprised Marquand said after the victory: "This probably wasn't the winner I was thinking I might have today judging by my rides but I'm always delighted to ride winners for such prestigious owners and trainers."

Pinatubo faces 14 rivals in Guineas date

RACING POST

Pinatubo (Shamardal), the highest-rated juvenile in Europe in the last 25 years, will have to defeat 14 rivals if he is to bookend a memorable week for Godolphin's three-year-old colts in the northern hemisphere by taking out the 2,000 Guineas (Gr 1, 1m) at Newmarket on Saturday. Charlie Appleby's unbeaten son of Shamardal (Giant's Causeway) has sat at the head of the betting for the race since last year, with many expecting him to outstrip the performance of another potential Goldolphin star, Victor Ludorum (Shamardal), who landed the French equivalent at Deauville on Monday. Rated the most likely danger to the market leader is Arizona (No Nay Never), one of four in the race for Aidan O'Brien, who will be attempting to turn around a two-length margin from when the pair clashed in the Dewhurst Stakes (Gr 1, 7f) at Newmarket last October.

Fallon out to emulate dad's success in Guineas

Cieren Fallon is taking inspiration from his father's shock 2,000 Guineas success on Night Of Thunder (Dubawi) as he prepares for the first Classic ride of his career aboard Les Hogues (Bated Breath) on Sunday. Night Of Thunder stunned Kingman (Invincible Spirit) to land the opening Classic in 2014 at odds of 40-1 but Fallon junior's mount in the 1,000 Guineas (Gr 1, 1m) is much more fancied at 16-1. The George Baker-trained filly raced in France last year and the form of her neck second in a Group 3 at Maisons-Laffitte, when last seen in October, was given a big boost on Monday when the horse that beat her, Dream And Do (Siyouni), won the French Guineas (Gr 1, 1600m). "It's an exciting opportunity and it'd be nice if we could be placed," Fallon said. "I've got a few butterflies and I'm a little bit nervous but after all it's another ride in another race."

Rearranged European sale dates announced

Tattersalls Ireland, Arqana and Osarus have reached agreement on revised sales dates for their respective 2020 August and September yearling sales. The three-day Tattersalls Ireland September Yearling Sale will begin a day earlier than originally scheduled on Monday, September 21. The sale will conclude on Wednesday, September 23 and will be followed by a three-day Arqana Yearling Sale from Thursday, September 24 to Saturday, September 26. The Osarus September Yearling Sale, originally scheduled for September 1 and 2, will now be amalgamated with the Arqana October Yearling Sale, with an additional small number of Osarus yearlings being allocated to the Arqana Autumn Sale in November.

Sizzling relocates to Riverdene Stud

BY ANDREW HAWKINS | @ANZ_NEWS

Eight years on from a memorable win in the JJ Atkins (Gr 1, 1600m) - then still the TJ Smith - Sizzling (Snitzel) has found a new home at Riverdene Stud in Wagga Wagga.

Sizzling, who has stood his first six seasons at stud at Newgate Farm in the Hunter Valley, joins another new Riverdene acquisition in McLaren (Exceed And Excel), as well as returning stallions Strada (Danehill) and Va Pensiero (Stratum).

“We are excited to have a stallion of the calibre of Sizzling standing in southern NSW,” Riverdene Stud’s managing director Kevin Pendergast told ANZ Bloodstock News yesterday. “He is a prolific sire of winners and we look forward to building on his already impressive performance at stud.”

Sizzling

NEWGATE FARM

Sizzling

NEWGATE FARM

Sizzling will stand at $6,600 (inc GST), down from $11,000 (inc GST) in his final season at Newgate Farm.

“He is priced right for our market and should be a very attractive stallion option in 2020 and beyond,” Pendergast said. “Our stud manager Amanda Elliott is looking forward to the season with the two new boys on the block at Riverdene.”

From three crops to race, Sizzling has produced Secret Blaze, winner of the Galilee Series Final (Listed, 2425m) and runner-up in the Blamey Stakes (Gr 2, 1600m), as well as six stakes placegetters. From 154 runners, he has had 80 winners, with his progeny earning almost $7 million in prize-money.

He remains one of only two Snitzel sons at stud who was a Group 1 winner as a two-year-old.

2020 Stud and Stable Staff Awards supported by Godolphin

FACT BOX

NAME: TETSUHITO HIROSE

AGE: 47

EMPLOYER: IRT

NOMINATED FOR: MELBOURNE RACING CLUB FOUNDATION ADMINISTRATION AND ANCILLARY AWARD

NOMINATED BY: QUENTIN WALLACE

Over the next two weeks, ANZ Bloodstock News will play its part in recognising the finalists for the 2020 Stud and Stable Staff Awards, supported by Godolphin, which will be held in a virtual ceremony on Wednesday, June 17. ANZ Bloodstock News will bring you the stories of the 14 finalists across seven categories: Melbourne Racing Club Foundation Administration and Ancillary; Magic Millions Dedication to Breeding; Australian Turf Club Dedication to Racing; Leadership; Horsemanship; Thoroughbred Care and Welfare; and Newcomer.

When Tetsuhito Hirose arrived in Australia in 1995, he spoke little English, had no job and no practical horse skills.

Fast-forward 25 years and the man known widely as “Hiro” has become a vital team member at International Racehorse Transport (IRT), with IRT chairman Quentin Wallace nominating Hirose for the Melbourne Racing Club Foundation Administration and Ancillary Award, one of seven categories that will be the focus of the 2020 Stud and Stable Staff Awards, supported by Godolphin.

“I am truly humbled and honored to be nominated for this award,” Hiro told ANZ Bloodstock News yesterday. “It has been an amazing and enjoyable experience being involved and I would like to thank Mr Quentin Wallace for the nomination, as well as Godolphin and the Melbourne Racing Club Foundation for the sponsorship of the award and this category.”

Wallace added: “Hiro’s journey is a wonderful embodiment of how so many in the horse industry dedicate their lives to following their hearts and indulging their passion for the betterment of us all.”

As a kid, Hiro recalls being attracted by the speed and the competitive nature of racing, but it wasn’t until his teens that he began to follow racing more closely.

"I always had some kind of interest in horse racing when I was growing up," Hiro said. "I was one of those typical boys who likes competitions and anything fast. I still remember the news on television when horses like Mr C B and Symboli Rudolf won our Triple Crown.

"After becoming a fan of Oguri Cap and watching his races, I started getting more into racing and breeding by attending races at Tokyo and Nakayama on major race days when I was in university. I became absorbed by reading all racing magazines and pedigree books whenever possible."

Japanese cult hero Oguri Cap (Dancing Cap) brought many new fans into racing and Hiro was one who fell in love with the grey. His final start in the 1990 Arima Kinen (Gr 1, 2500m) attracted almost 178,000 spectators to Nakayama in what is still widely considered to be the greatest moment in Japanese racing history.

"I was an 18-year-old high school student and I watched the race live in front of the TV that day," he said. "When I watched him going past the post, winning his last race when a lot of people thought that his career was already well over, it gave me massive goosebumps and I found myself breaking into tears. I was filled with emotion listening to what was known as the Oguri call, the chants for the horse by such a big crowd. Looking back at that day, I think that is the moment when I was caught with a 'bug' and my passion for racing began to stir in my heart.

"Oguri Cap was a horse who went from a local racetrack, Kasamatsu, to stardom, and then he became a national hero with his indomitable spirit and his never-say-die attitude. Kasamatsu is near my hometown, and his career and that spirit has always given me courage and inspiration throughout my life."

It was, however, Oguri Cap's defeats in the Japan Cup (Gr 1, 2400m) in consecutive years that set Hiro on a path to his current position.

"The Japan Cup was my favourite race as I was fascinated by the idea and concept of the race," he said. "The field was symbolised by a variety of national flags every year and I could not wait to watch the race, seeing all these champion racehorses competing against each other for big prize-money after flying in from all around the world.

"Oguri Cap was my hero, so seeing him getting beaten by Horlicks in 1989 and Better Loosen Up in 1990 was such a shock to me and probably for all people in Japan. Back in the days with no internet, there was only limited information available about racing down under so these horses were crossing a frontier for us.

"Eventually, these experiences directed me to Australia when I decided to go overseas even though the United States and Europe were the major destinations for the Japanese to do their overseas apprenticeships in those days."

Hiro's first passion was basketball, playing point guard for the University of Tsukuba, who were ranked in the top five among Japanese colleges during his tenure. However, the lure of racing proved too potent, particularly as he envisaged a racing world that would be more interconnected - a prediction that proved accurate and apt given his current position.

"When I was in the third year of my university degree, I was given an offer to work for one of the major banks after my graduation which included a deal playing basketball for their team," he said. "It was an opportunity to think over my future and career and, after due consideration, I decided to decline the offer and pursue my passion which was to work in the horse racing industry. I also decided to start this by going overseas and learning English at the same time, because I knew that it would be the key for success in my mind.

"My main goal was to get involved with the international exchange of racing and breeding such as through the Melbourne Cup and the Japan Cup. As a university student, I was kind of anticipating the further globalisation of racing and breeding in the near future.

"My decision was a very unusual option for a lot of people in Japan, especially for someone like myself with no horse background or experience. So everyone - all of my colleagues, all of my friends at university - were surprised. The most difficult thing though was that my family members were also against my idea and my decision seemed crazy to them. But it was an opportunity of a lifetime to pursue my dream so I never changed my mind and I never looked back for other options."

Arriving at Sydney Airport in April, 1995, Hiro decided to chase his dream to work with horses, even though he had no experience. What followed was a decade-long odyssey traversing the Australian countryside, all in search of an opportunity.

"A couple days after arriving, I hired a rental car and drove up to the Hunter Valley, looking for a job," he recalled. "I was happy to get a job as long as there were horses since I had very little English and no horse skills - I had never even touched a horse before! I thought that the only way to find a job was to go and visit those studs and farms directly but unfortunately, as you would probably expect, I had to return to Sydney after a couple of days having failed to find a job.

"I decided to take up a voluntary job with free board and accommodation at a cattle station near Mareeba in north Queensland for a season. I caught a greyhound bus up to Cairns and arrived at the cattle station, which was in the absolute middle of nowhere - I half thought that no one would ever know if I died or went missing! It was almost impossible to understand their English, especially with my little English, and it was a very tough work environment. I didn't mind, though; I was happy just to get a job with horses. This job ended up becoming my first official horse job and, after that, I worked for a horse riding farm on the Gold Coast under sponsorship for my visa for five years."

At the turn of the century, he finally had the opportunity to work in racing for the first time, joining the Gerald Ryan stable as a stablehand and trackwork rider.

"Gerald Ryan was the premierships trainer in Brisbane and Gold Coast at that time so it was an easy decision for me to go and meet Gerald to ask for a job," he said. "During my time at Gerald's stable, I was lucky enough to look after some very good horses such as Zariz and Recurring, and I also saw other good horses like Clangalang going through the stable. Seeing and learning under a master trainer and a hardworking foreman like Bruce Hill became an important part of my foundation as a horseman and I could not thank them enough for giving me an opportunity.

"I also had a second job between morning and afternoon shift at the stables delivering horse feed to all of the stables, I was working for a local produce store - Bernie's Produce. This experience helped me when I was asked to assist with the feed for the first Japanese raider, Eye Popper, and the famous Melbourne Cup quinella, Delta Blues and Pop Rock, when they came to Australia."

However, personal tragedy was to strike soon afterwards when Hiro's young daughter was diagnosed with cancer. His career was put on hold as he focused on her welfare.

"I did not have a full-time job for almost two years from early 2004," he said. "I became a full-time carer for my three-year-old daughter who was diagnosed with a deadly childhood cancer.

"In early 2006, I was trying to get back to a normal life after losing my sick daughter. I was asked to come up to Sydney, to Eastern Creek to look after horses in quarantine for another shipping agent. It was there I met IRT's quarantine manager Pauline Cushing, a great horsewoman, and she referred me to IRT to work under her team at the quarantine station. A couple weeks later, I received a call from IRT administration manager Lyn Dressing, the winner of this award in 2017, and I was officially asked to work for IRT.

"I still remember the call and was extremely excited by thinking that the job could eventually fulfil my lifelong dream and desire to be involved in the international exchange of racing and breeding."

Through his involvement with IRT, Hiro has worked his way through the ranks of the transport company and has become closely involved with Japanese imports and exports.

"I was initially involved with the care of horses at Sydney's Eastern Creek quarantine station, where all horses imported from the USA, Europe, Hong Kong and Singapore went through their post-arrival quarantine," he said. "Dealing with the care of these horses everyday, I learnt a lot and the experience and knowledge I gained during this time definitely helped me when I started flying horses shortly after.

"After flying horses around the world as a junior groom for a few years, I became a full-time flying groom and was internationally accredited. I was the first and only professional flying groom with an Asian background at that time, which led to IRT being involved with all Japanese runners heading to Hong Kong for their international races.

I have been fortunate enough to fly a lot of champion racehorses such as Takeover Target and Maurice and also famous stallions such as Redoute's Choice and Snitzel. But the highlight has to be Black Caviar when I escorted her back to Australia after winning the Diamond Jubilee

"In 2013, I started getting involved with the administration side at the Docklands office, having moved from Brisbane to Melbourne. By using my Japanese background, I started working on all Japanese import and export shipments, as well as Hong Kong and Singapore shipments. With Japan, we now handle not only most traffic between Japan and Australia, but also we look after the majority of Japanese runners when they head abroad and I personally escort these horses when they travel overseas.

"My other expertise has become feed importation in recent years. I have been handling all feed imports for international stables such as Godolphin and Ballydoyle when they come to the Melbourne and Sydney carnivals"

Having been involved with the shipment of many horses to and from Australia in recent years, Hiro struggles to nominate his proudest moment from his time with IRT.

"As a professional flying groom, I have been fortunate enough to fly a lot of champion racehorses such as Takeover Target and Maurice and also famous stallions such as Redoute's Choice and Snitzel," he said. "But the highlight has to be Black Caviar when I escorted her back to Australia after winning the Diamond Jubilee during the Royal Ascot meeting in 2012.

"After years of no general traffic between Japan and Australia after the equine influenza outbreak in 2007, IRT has managed to open up traffic between the two nations by having a pre-export quarantine facility near Narita Airport approved by the Australian government. This was followed by another facility near Chitose in Hokkaido, in which I was heavily involved in dealing with both governments. As a result of this, all shuttle stallions started travelling again for the southern hemisphere breeding seasons and horses such as Tosen Stardom and Brave Smash were imported. It has also given opportunities for breeders in Australia to send their mares to Japan to be served by top stallions such as the late Deep Impact.

"I have also been involved with all Japanese raiders who have come to Australia in recent years by arranging their logistics. The experience with Lys Gracieux last year after overcoming the quarantine issue with the assistance of my colleague Dr Amy Little and having the mare win the Cox Plate - especially on top of Mer De Glace already winning the Caulfield Cup - has to be one of my proudest moments too."

Hiro, though, is always looking towards the future and is dreaming big when it comes to Japanese raiders this spring.

"If I could have one, it has to be Almond Eye as she is the best in Japan," he said. "I would be thrilled to see her in the 100th running of the Cox Plate this spring."

Hiro is nominated for the Administration and Ancillary Services Award, sponsored by the Melbourne Racing Club Foundation. The winner of this award receives a trophy and $10,000, with $3,000 to their employer to share amongst staff.

"I actually had never expected my name to be on the finalists and winning this award will be beyond my imagination," he said. "Regardless of the result, I would like to use this opportunity to thank everyone who has supported me through the years, especially the management and all of my colleagues at IRT. This is the result of great leadership and teamwork.

"I would also like to thank all of my family and friends for their support, all my clients for their loyalty, and all staff at vet clinics, labs and quarantine farms, private and government vets, road transport companies and airline staff for their valued assistance for our shipments."

The Stud and Stable Staff Awards will be presented during a virtual ceremony on June 17.

PRESS STATEMENT

Group 1 winner at 2 and 3

Analysis: The Ciaran Maher and David Eustace-trained colt Equation was impressive in breaking his maiden here at his second race start. After beginning smartly away from his outside barrier (9), he eased after being caught deep to settle in seventh place, behind a quick tempo. He tracked up (wide with cover) nearing the turn, sprinted quickly at the 300m and then drew away to score comfortably. It was a really smart effort and he looks to be a colt with a good future. VANCOUVER COOLMORE
 Champion 2yo and Golden Slipper winner AUSTRALIA

Analysis: The Peter and Paul Snowden-trained colt Armatree followed his fourth on debut at this track on May 20 with a really smart win here. He began well and then settled outside the leader (So United), travelling at a good pace before getting to the front at the 300m. He held a clear advantage at the 100m and then fought back to record a very good win. His stablemate Dance, who was having his fourth race start and his second run this preparation, did not show any early pace from his inside barrier (1) and settled in seventh place on the rails. He eased deeper and into clear running coming to the 300m and then ran on very well for second in a really promising effort. [KB]

ANOTHER NZ BRED WINNER

Analysis: Progressive John O'Shea-trained three-year-old Lost And Running is now unbeaten in two starts after following his easy win on debut in a maiden (1000m) at Scone on May 15 with an impressive win, advancing in class here. He showed early pace and soon crossed to the front. He then ran along comfortably at a good tempo, beat off challengers at the 200m and then drew away to score easily and in smart time. He looks to be a sprinter with a bright future and is a horse to watch. [KB]

BETTING FORECAST: 3 A'ali, Malotru, 6 Ventura Rebel, 8 Dream Shot, 10 Aberama Gold, 12 Troubador, Ventura Lightning, 14 Keep Busy, 20 Gravity Force, Show Me Show Me, 25 Dubai Station, Glasvegas, 33 Fleeting Prince, 50 Stormy Girl.

VERDICT A'Ali should make a bold bid to defy his penalty and this three-time Group 2 winner is a key player. Ventura Lightning still has an air of unfinished business about him and is considered, while Dream Shot also enters calculations. It was hard not to be impressed by the way that MALOTRU quickened up to score at Lingfield in February though and he can add another AW success to his resume. [Paul Smith]
